

272 COMPOSITIONS IN WORLD DUE TO SOUSA'S GENIUS

Great Band Leader Writes
Five New Selections for This Year's Tour

Many march compositions and songs have been composed by the famous bandmaster, John Philip Sousa, who will appear with his 100 piece band at Lawrence Memorial chapel in the afternoon and evening of Oct. 14. For more than 40 years as a musical director, he has composed, transcribed and arranged selections for his musical organization.

In a little book where Sousa has kept a record of his compositions, there are set down 104 marches, 80 songs, 16 suites, one Te Deum, one cantata, two hymns and miscellaneous compositions that bring the total to 272. These figures do not include the many transcriptions and arrangements, which far exceed the number of original works.

The lists in Sousa's book also do not include the new selections written for the program of his thirty-fourth annual tour in 1926 and 1927. There are two new marches, "The National Game," the new suite, "Cuba Under Three Flags," his new foxtrot, "Peaches and Cream," and his new waltz, "Coeds of Michigan." Arrangements and transcriptions added this year are his new humoresque, "Follow the Swallow," and his "Jazz America," a fantasy upon current syncopated tunes.

A complete and varied program has been arranged for both the afternoon and evening performances of the band and each will be typically Sousa. It would appear from the criticisms of appearances in other cities. Sousa and his band will be the first number of the Community Artist series.

BOYS IN COURT FOR DAMAGING EMPTY HOUSE

Eight Appleton boys between the ages of 7 and 15 were arraigned before County Judge Fred V. Heinemann Saturday morning on a charge of damaging a vacant house at 1338 W. Winnebago-st., owned by Charles Schneider. According to the complaint the boys broke open a door, broke all the windows in the house and destroyed several wall board partitions. The case was taken under advisement.

YOUNGER NAMED AS TREASURER OF MENTORS' SOCIETY

McKinley School Principal Honored at District Convention in Oshkosh

Frank Younger, principal of McKinley Junior high school, was elected treasurer of the Northeastern Wisconsin Teachers association at the annual convention in Oshkosh Friday. More than 1,400 persons attended the session, which was the largest attendance recorded at any meeting in the history of the association. Ben J. Rohan, president for the past year, said. Other officers of the association will be: J. D. Layde of De Pere, president; T. E. Wartabee of Clintonville, vice president; Miss Eva Van Sistine, secretary; Miss Tess O'Keefe, member of the board of directors.

Many of the sectional meetings were filled to capacity. It was said. Some teachers who wished to attend these lectures and discussions were unable to do so. The general sessions were held in the new recreational building in Oshkosh, and the sectional meetings at the Oshkosh State Normal school and at the recreational building.

More than half of the Lawrence college faculty attended the convention as well as the entire faculty of the public schools and many of the rural teachers in Outagamie-co. Nine members of the Lawrence faculty and nine teachers and principals of the Appleton schools were on the program. Miss Carrie E. Morgan, assistant principal, spoke at a sectional meeting, and Mr. Rohan presided at the convention.

A chorus of boys from the junior and senior high schools sang at the morning session and also gave a demonstration at the music section in connection with a talk by Dr.

Earl L. Baker on the Non-Musical Child. The convention this year was held for one day only.

He will talk on the relation of the local association to the national council, telling the directors how the council can help the association in a general way.

Herman and Fred Witman of Fond du Lac spent Thursday and Friday with friends here.

DR. DENYES TALKS AT LIONS CLUB LUNCHEON

Dr. J. R. Denyes, of Lawrence college, will speak at the weekly meeting of the Lions club at the Conway hotel Monday noon. His experiences in the Eastern countries probably will be the topic of the talk, but the subject has not been announced.

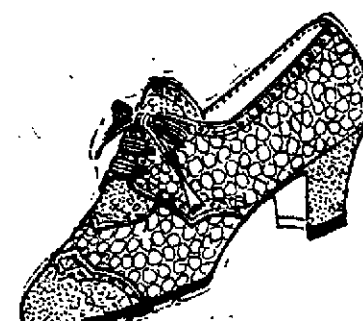

India is now taking more than half the gold production in the world.

Around the Clock in Fashionable Footwear

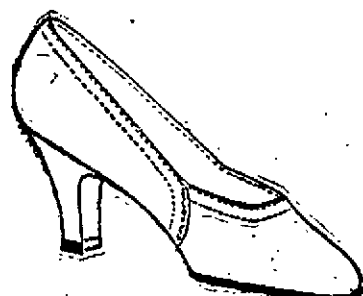

Just as one's costume varies with the time of day and depends upon the particular occasion for which one is dressing, so should one's shoes be changed. It's old fashioned to imagine that two pairs of slippers are enough to go with half a dozen dresses and so the smartly dressed woman sees to it that her shoe wardrobe is adequate to meet every emergency.

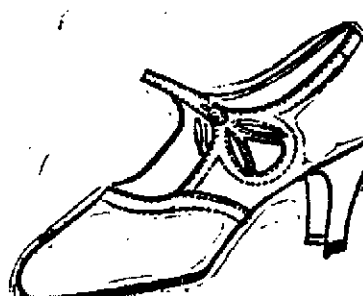

Slipper—One strap in patent, kid and nutan. An ideal shoe for afternoon wear.

Oxford—In alligator trim styles. Just the shoe for sport wear.

Pump—This style is velvet, satin, patent, silver or kid. For dress wear.

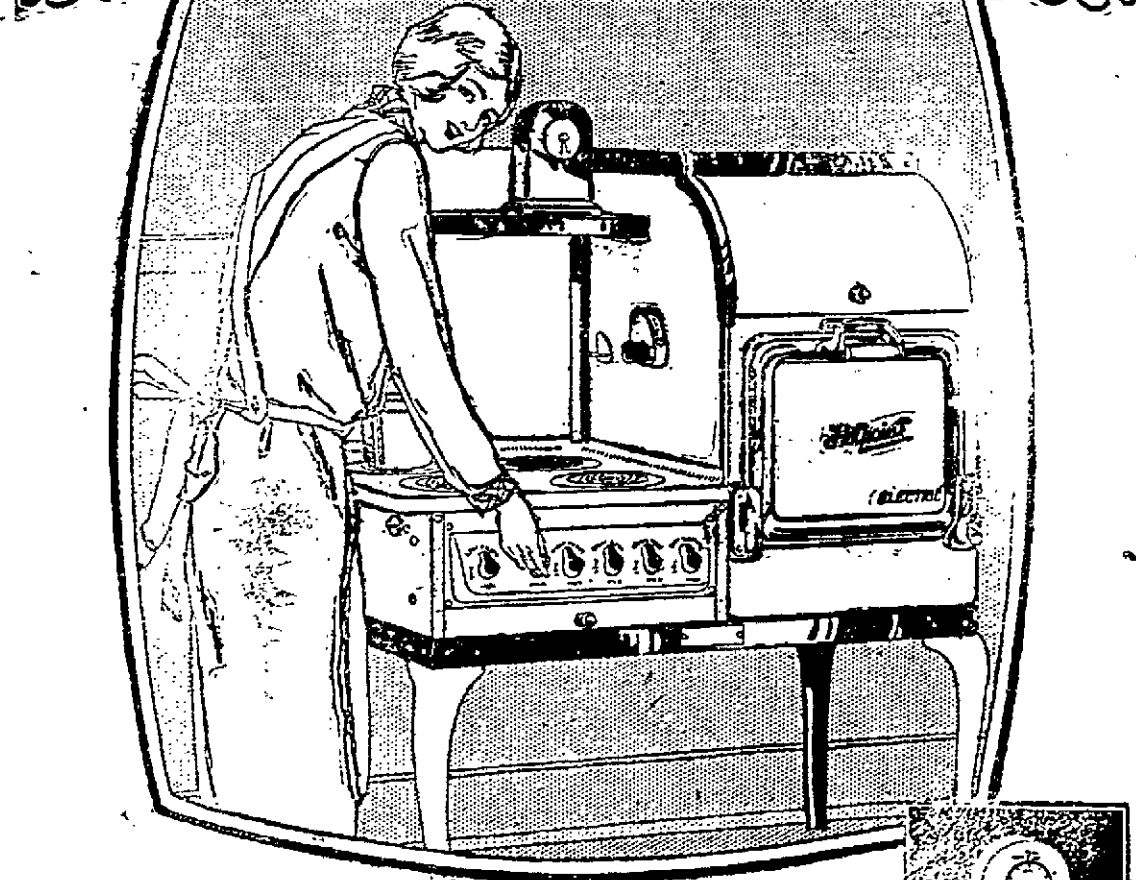

Slipper—One strap in satin, high or low heel for dress wear.

Never have Fall footwear fashions for feminine feet been so exquisitely and ingeniously expressed. With their never-ending diversity of novel modes and materials—individualized and created for the Novelty Boot Shop. For formal and afternoon wear graceful oxfords for walking.

Electric Cookery is more convenient

A Kitchen Range that's Superhuman it Never Fails nor Forgets

NO longer is it necessary to stay in the kitchen to watch the cooking—to watch the fire so it doesn't undercook one minute and burn the next, to keep basting your roasts, to stick a straw in the cake now and then to see if it is done—continually opening and closing the oven door, changing the oven temperature and making the kitchen hot, smoky and unpleasant.

The electric range has eliminated all this! All you do is put the food in the oven, set the Electric Timer, which, without watching, will turn the current ON and OFF automatically at just the right time, and set the Heat Control, which will accurately and evenly maintain any desired oven temperature. You can go away and forget it, returning just in time to serve the hot, perfectly-cooked meal you will find waiting.

It's economical, too. So much of the cooking is done on stored heat. And clean!—pots and pans never get burned or stained, as there is no dirt, smoke, or soot. Your kitchen and curtains are always clean and inviting. Come in and see the many styles we have to offer, and find out how greatly this modern range will lighten your kitchen tasks.

Hotpoint Automatic Electric Timer. Set the hands for the time cooking should start and stop. Then forget it.

Hotpoint Automatic Electric Heat Control and Thermometer. It maintains an exact oven heat, as desired, all through cooking.

The squads will meet next Saturday afternoon in Oshkosh. A large section of seats have been taken by Neenah fans.

OSHKOSH CLUBHOUSE
RAIDED BY BURGLARS

Menasha—Menasha police department was notified Saturday that the Oshkosh Golf clubhouse was burglarized Friday night. Among the articles stolen were 120 golf clubs, 21 balls, 1000 cigarettes and 20 cigars. The burglars left no clew which might lead to their identification.

SEND FIRE APPARATUS TO MENASHA FACTORIES

Menasha—Saturday, Oct. 9, was fire prevention day. As part of the day's program the fire department visited several factories with its fire apparatus. The firemen will have their pictures taken Sunday afternoon at the public triangle.

BURGLARS BREAK INTO POSTOFFICE;
GET LITTLE LOOTMarauders Unable to Burn Through Steel Door of Vault

Neenah—An attempt to rob the Neenah postoffice was made Friday night or early Saturday morning by burglars who gained entrance by prying open the window of the lavatory on the south side of the building, adjoining the room in which entrance to the vault is located. One of the windows of the work room on the west side of the building was also pried open. A small amount of change which had been left in the vault was taken.

The burglary was discovered Saturday morning when men came to work and found an empty acetylene tank on the floor of the Postmaster's office. The tank was used to burn off the combination of the outer vault doors and also an attempt to force an opening in the safe which is located inside the vault. The combination was burned off the safe door, and a start made to burn a hole through the front but the burglars abandoned the job. Tools used on the job were left about the room.

A small ladder was found inside the lavatory room which had been used by the men in climbing into the window and which had been pulled inside so that passersby would not detect it. The print of some square object was burned on the front of the door which is thought to have been some kind of guard to dim the light from the torch as it was burning through the steel. The acetylene tank used was equipped with two handles which leads to believe that more than one man was connected with the job as the weight of the tank was too much for one man to handle.

Harold Arneemann, son of assistant postmaster, said Saturday morning, that he saw the same acetylene tank with handles on the back of a Ford car Friday afternoon as he was coming from Appleton.

APPLETON, WIS.

COR. W. COLLEGE-AVE. & SUPERIOR-ST.

SAINT AND SINNER

By Anne Austin

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE Mrs. LANE, fat, middle-aged, sickly; JIM LANE, a carpenter, trying to branch out into contracting on a small scale; JUNIOR LANE, 21, lovable but wild; FAITH, 20, who stays at home and druggies for the family; COLLEGE, beautiful, thin, a flirt; BOB, 9, irascible and impudent—are an average American family.

When Mr. Lane invites BOB HATHAWAY to dinner, in the hope of landing a job of contracting with the young business man, both Faith and Cherry are last but not least invited. But he has eyes for no one but Cherry, who, after stealing all the credit for the delicious dinner which Faith has prepared, whisks HATHAWAY off to a movie, leaving Faith to despise herself for her one attempt at flattery.

While Cherry is out with HATHAWAY, a call comes for her from CHRIS WILEY, a man of unsavory reputation, to whom Jim Lane has forbidden the house. After HATHAWAY has left, Cherry telephones WILEY, and long after midnight slips out of the house to keep a rendezvous with him.

Faith, awake, hears a scream, as does Jim Lane. The two find Cherry being borne away to a car in the arms of a man who drops her when Jim Lane threatens to shoot. Cherry lies, says she does not know who her would-be abductor is, but after her father is in bed confesses to Faith, who upbraids her.

Cherry pacifies her sister with promises, then teasingly accuses Faith of being in love with HATHAWAY, and offers to tell Faith what HATHAWAY said about her.

CHAPTER VI
"Bob said you'd make a wonderful wife for some lucky young devil!" Cherry snuggled her tiny self closely against Faith's long, splendid body, like a kitten, expecting to have its fur stroked. "Aren't you thrilled, honey?"

Faith closed her eyes, lest Cherry see the upcropping of glad light in them. "How did he—happen to say that?" she asked slowly, huskily.

"Oh, I was telling him how you glared for all of us—you know, darling, I didn't really mean to make him think I cooked the dinner and set the table, though I know you think I did. And how you stay at home and let me trapeze around, like a silly little butterfly—"

"In other words," and Faith turned her back on her sister and covered her hot cheeks with her palms. "You gave him to understand that I don't have any dates, that I'm just the family drudge."

"Oh, Cherry, why don't you give me a chance?" she demanded passionately. "I'll own up! I do like Bob HATHAWAY, as much as you do—and more! But you get your work in the first minute he's in the house, and he can't see me for the goods, you make. I'm not about to let him have a chance of humor! I can talk, I can play, I can sing! But, oh Lord, what good does it do me—without you around?"

"I'm sorry, Faith!" Cherry voice was humble, but there was the suggestion of a kitten's contented purr beneath the meekness. No girl can be really angry when she is accused of being a heartless flirt. "I really didn't mean to take Chester away from you. I give him back—from me to you, with love! But don't ask me to put the dimmers on when Bob HATHAWAY's around. I just couldn't do it, honey! I'm wild about him! And think how pleased Dad will be if he gets the contract!"

Faith did not answer. She lay perfectly still so long that Cherry thought she was asleep. But it was almost time for the alarm clock to go off at six-thirty before she lost her heartache in the sudden, deep sleep of utter fatigue.

She was trying the breakfast bacon before she realized, with a sickening heart throb of dismay, that she had not heard Junior come in at all. She ran to the living room, found that the davenport had not been converted into a bed. It was not like Long to say out all night, without telephoning. As she was worrying over whether she should break the news to her mother and father, the telephone shrilled loudly, repeatedly, indicating a long distance call.

"Hello, Faith! Lord, but I'm glad it's you!" it was Junior's voice, coming faintly over the wires. "I'm in the devil of a fix, Sis. They pinched us last night in Marlboro County—"

"You and who else?" Faith demanded sharply in spite of her pounding heart.

"Pay and me," Junior answered reluctantly. "Honestly, Sis, we weren't doing much more'n thirty-five, but they've nailed us for fifty. Say, Sis, you've got to get me out of this! Fifty bucks! Aw, gee, I can't help it. Faith! I'd rather be shot than come home. But if you can't make Dad pay it, it means ten days in jail. Fay's slapping folks for 'em a telegram she's staying with a girl friend over here. Says her dad will put her in a reformatory if he finds out about this. Yeah, they're holding us both, because the license was in Fay's name and I was driving."

"I don't know what I can do," Faith wailed, keeping her voice as low as possible. At any moment her father or mother might come out of their room and demand to know what was up.

"Aw, gee, Faith, be a sport! Get the coin somehow and wire it to Judge Pratt. They fined us last night soon as we were brought in. They got a drive call for speeders, and were holding night court, Fleece, Sis! Fay's nearly off her head—"

"I'm not thinking of her," Faith said grimly. "I'll see what I can do." "Where's Junior?" Mr. Lane demanded when he sat down to his breakfast at seven-thirty. "I see he didn't sleep here last night. That young man is getting just a little too big for his breeches."

"He telephoned a few minutes ago, Dad," said Faith, hurrying in with the coffee pot. "He—he had to see a fellow over in Marlboro, and decided to stay all night."

"Did he say 'em Hill didn't he?"

"He couldn't get a telephone."

Faith felt herself skating on thin ice, as she tried to stick to the truth and yet shield her brother. For she had no intention of asking her father for the fifty dollars.

After Cherry and Mr. Lane had left, Faith hurried to her bedroom and locked the door. In her handkerchief were the four-five dollar bills that her father had given her to pay on the grocery, butcher and dairy bills.

Feeling like a criminal, she took two of the bills, then unlocked a cheap little jewel box that had been a Christmas present when she was a little girl. It held all her treasures of any value—fifteen dollars that she had saved over a period of months toward buying a decent coat suit for the fall; a ten-dollar gold piece that Grandpa Lane had given her for her twentieth birthday, and which he had promised to match at Christmas time if it was still unspent; Grandpa's hobby was a drift, which he tried unsuccessfully to teach all of his grandchildren; a locket and chain, which she had worn as a baby; a heavy, oddly-shaped nugget of pure gold, a souvenir of Grandpa's glorious participation in the '49 Gold Rush; a ring, now outgrown, set with a tiny "chirp" diamond, which her father had given her on her graduation from grammar school; and lastly, pride of her heart, though she had been too modest to wear it, a gold medal, won in a "music memory" contest in high school, and inscribed with her name and the date.

She calculated swiftly. Ten plus ten was twenty; plus fifteen, made thirty-five. Could she pawn the medal, the nugget, the ring and the locket for the remaining fifteen, and if she could, how could she ever redeem them?

And she was really stealing ten dollars from Dad. Long would have to pay her back every penny of it, if it meant hounding him mercilessly for months. He couldn't get away from it this time. She had shielded him so often he expected it. He knew good and well she wouldn't tell Dad on him! That terrible Fay Allen! A pity Fay couldn't pay it back herself!

She stuffed money and childhood treasures into her handbag, dressed as swiftly as possible, and presented herself before her mother, who was sitting beside the dining room window.

"I've got to go to town, Mother, to take Jay's white dress to the hem-stitcher's. I want to go before it gets so hot. I'll hurry back and get the work done before noon. Now, don't try to do anything! You look awfully tired this morning. Did you sleep well with the bromide?"

"I never slept a wink," Mrs. Lane sighed wearily. "I declare, if this heat don't let up, I'll go jump in the river!"

Faith stooped to kiss her mother, a tiny smile tugging at the corners of her mouth. If her mother had not slept soundly, she must have gone suddenly deaf in the night, not to have

Says He Seemed To Have A New Stomach After Taking Dreco

Appleton Citizen Tells of Great Relief Brought by New Plant and Herb Remedy.

Mr. Arnold Ebben

The great herbal remedy, Dreco which was recently introduced here through the Dreco Expert at Schmitz Bros. Drug Store is growing daily in popularity because of its certain action on the stomach, liver, kidneys, bladder, bowels and the blood. Its powers are great to relieve constipation, dizziness, headaches, gas in the stomach, backache and other symptoms. Many people testify to the results obtained.

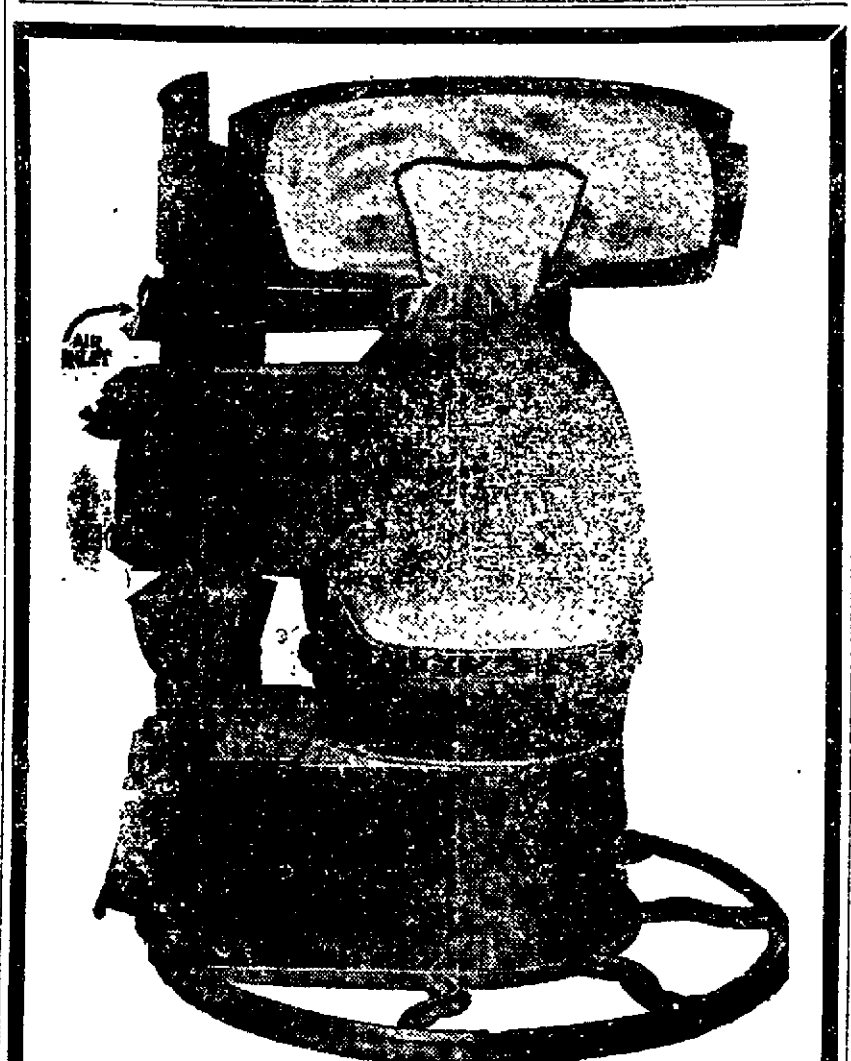

Mr. Arnold Ebben, 538 N. Ida-St. this city, says:

"For the past ten years I have been suffering with a bad stomach and liver. At times my distress was so acute I was home from work for weeks at a time. I had heavy loaded pains in my stomach, also a severe burning, and I had so much gas in me it worked up around my heart and set it flitting all the time. Sometimes after eating I became deathly sick and as a result I lost all appetite for food and almost starved myself. Naturally I lost lots of weight. I also suffered from constipation, backaches, dizzy spells, bad breath, headaches and other complaints."

"Dreco, however, has completely overcome everyone of my complaints."

and now I feel, eat, sleep and even look like another man. I've gained twelve pounds in weight during the past months and have greater strength and feel better in general than I ever remember feeling in my life. I recommend Dreco to all."

heard the uproar over Cherry's near abduction.

When she had visited the pawnshop, she found that she still lacked a dollar and twenty cents of having the necessary fifty dollars, and there was the telephone fee to be paid, too. Hot-checked with shame, she forced herself to borrow three dollars from a girl friend, working as a stenographer in the Prudential Building.

Her wire to Long Lane was terse: "Money sent. Dad doesn't know. See me first."

Faith was busy with house cleaning when Cherry's voice trilled excitedly over the telephone: "Hello, Faith! Got the job! Yeah! Swell offices! Oh, he's an old darling! I feel like he's my grandpa already! Oh, yes, I'll be careful," she giggled at Faith's suggestion that she give old Mr. Cluny no chance to "get fresh."

"And say, Faith, I'm going over to the Banner Store on my lunch hour and get that printed chiffon I was telling you about. Preston gave me my full week's pay."

"Would you mind getting plain maize-colored chiffon for me, Cherry?" Faith asked.

"Oh, I'll get you the prettiest stuff in the store," Cherry caroled. But when she brought the material home that evening and snapped the cord of the bundle triumphantly, Faith's hopes of a becoming dress were dashed. Cherry had bought two pieces of printed chiffon.

"This is for me," Cherry shook out the folds of pale, cool Undine green, splashed richly with coral-pink and yellow tulips—such tulips as never grew in any conservatory—and draped the lovely material about her tiny body.

Her flushed, apricot-tinted cheeks, her vivid lips and her roil of glorious curls took on a keen new beauty. "And this is for you," she said as she tossed aside her own material—and snatched up the other piece of chiffon, draping it likewise down her own slight figure.

"But Cherry," Faith's voice was husky with tears of disappointment, "you know I can't wear powder blue and orchid. Why, I'd look like a house in that big-flowered stuff, and the blue against my olive skin would make me look like I had yellow jaundice. Oh, it's lovely—for you! I asked you to buy maize chiffon for me."

"They didn't have any," Cherry sulked, crushing the lovely blue chiffon with its great, rioting orchids, in an angry little fist. "So that's the thanks I get for spending my hard-earned money on you! I'll be a cold day in August when I buy you another dress! Well—" she bundled the material into its wrappings with trembling hands—"I was feeling kind of mean for asking Chester Hart here to supper, as my beau, but now I don't give—dam!"

Faith's face went very white; her eyes were very black and enormous when she whirled upon her mother with the question: "Mother, are you sure you didn't sleep a wink last night?"

REAL SENATORIAL TIMBER
Thomas M. Kearney, Democrat candidate for United States senator, has opened his campaign with an invigorating address at Racine. It may be said to his advantage that in his opening address he paid a deserved tribute to Senator Lenroot. Mr. Kearney is not so much of a partisan that he does not recognize merit and worth in a public official. Wisconsin has made a lamentable mistake in retiring its senior senator, a man who stood in the front rank of public life at Washington and whose influence in the senate was perhaps greater than that of any other, a man who stood to do more for Wisconsin than any possible successor, who was in line for presidential consideration, and whose record is one of distinction and clean and honorable conduct. But that is past history now. Wisconsin will come to regret the indiscretion of its voters in the September primary.

Mr. Kearney addressed himself to Governor Blaine with unerring precision. He pictured this political opportunist in true and striking colors. He proved his demagoguery and insincerity with irrefutable evidence. He called attention to the fact that Blaine is running as a Republican, whereas the platform he caused to be adopted at Madison is a complete repudiation of the Republican party and of everything it stands for. He might have included Blaine's support of the Progressive platform in the last presidential campaign, which is also a complete repudiation of Republican policies. A man who can do this and yet employ the Republican label because it will serve him politically is guilty of both duplicity and hypocrisy. He has no political principles.

After analyzing Mr. Blaine's personal record and characteristics, Mr. Kearney paid this further compliment to the Madison ring:
And those who are close to him and around about him are all men of the same type. They are lacking in political morality notwithstanding their protestations of virtue and of honesty. They have no sense of decency or propriety than had the pirate bands that formerly infested the high seas in years gone by, floating a friendly flag at the topmast until they drew close alongside of some merchantman when they changed the mark and floated the black flag which spelled death and destruction to their neighbor.

This is a bonafide description of the state of Wisconsin politics and of the men who are operating it to the promotion of their selfish ends. They are not even faithful to those whose votes they specially solicit. They represent no one but themselves. They have given Wisconsin nothing in late years but misrule and a system of deplorable politics, incompetent officeholders, extravagance and excessive taxation.

Of the candidates now in the field Mr. Kearney is unquestionably the ablest. The mere fact that he happens to be affiliated with the Democratic party not only discounts his fitness but places an obstacle in the way of his candidacy that is almost insurmountable. Nevertheless, it would be a good thing for Wisconsin if it were to forget its politics temporarily and send him to the senate. We should at least have there a man of high purpose, integrity and ability. Furthermore, he would support those policies in which Wisconsin is primarily and vitally interested, and should be of real value to the state. He is the type of man who would not be narrow in his partisanship and who would take a broad view of national problems and legislation. He ought to have the support of those citizens who have due appreciation of Blaine's unfitness for the senate. His election as senator would be most desirable if it could be accomplished.

DISASTER SHOULD BE INVESTIGATED

There should be an investigation of the Ironwood mine disaster. The investigation should cover not only this cave-in, but accidents of a similar nature in other mines. There have been an unusual number of mine catastrophes during the last year, some of them accompanied by large loss of life. Two questions are involved in mine disasters. The first is whether sound scientific knowledge has been developed in mine operations. The second is whether it has been utilized to a full extent by mine owners. It would seem that in one case or the other there has been failure. It is possible there are conditions which produce explosions and cave-ins that cannot be anticipated, and against which no positive precaution can be taken, but it is also probable that the safeguards which may be employed are sometimes lacking. Undoubtedly engineering science is highly specialized in its relation to the mining industry, but it is likely that all companies are not equally progressive in the application of modern methods.

A movement has been started to secure an exhaustive federal inquiry into mine accidents. It should cover not only those mines where disasters have occurred, but mines in general, touching construction, appliances, systems of operation and protective facilities. We should establish to a certainty that mine owners are not taking chances which they have no right to take. The human equation must always be a factor in mine safety the same as it is in railroad, but over and above that it is proper for the government to demand that mining shall be conducted with all the safety with which science and human ingenuity can surround it. It is to be hoped the investigation will be promptly authorized, so that it may be treated by congressional action as advisable and in the interest of the lives of the many thousands of men engaged in this precarious occupation.

DRY LAW PROGRESS

The report of the department of justice regarding the enforcement of the prohibition laws would indicate that some progress is being made by the governmental authorities although general conditions do not seem to reflect it to any great extent. For instance, the convictions in Federal courts of prohibition law violators totaled 44,022 for the fiscal year which ended June 30th, the highest number since the dry act became effective. Then, too, acquittals in dry law cases were 502 less than during the preceding year.

The department announcement gave no comparative figures on convictions and acquittals in previous years, but stated that during the last fiscal year aggregate sentences given by federal judges totaled 5,666.

This, of course, sounds impressive, but it seems as if the public were entitled to more complete comparison than that. The taxpayers are paying the bills and are entitled to know how the money is to be spent. Prohibition enforcement, or the present semblance of it, will this year cost this country over $13,000,000. Against this are the fines imposed by the federal courts, which last year totaled $7,336,395. This, of course, is a considerable item.

PHILOSOPHY
Some tell us all we see is but a sham.
One says: "I think, and thus I know I am!"
One vows: "The mind controls the finest part."
Another sage declares: "It is the heart!"
Bewildered by philosophy I cry:
"I know I live, I know that I must die."

I read the scoffers and I'm torn by doubt.
The true believers put their thoughts to rout.
So deep they delve I cannot see the way.
One tells me "yes," the other whispers "nay."
To find the truth is hard I will admit,
Doubt still exists in spite of Holy Writ.

I only know that honest men and true
Seem to prosper in the work they do.
Argue it o'er, to this we still return.
Life seldom gives us what we do not earn.
Philosophers may find some subtler text,
I know myself when I have done my best.

Not all the wisdom from a sage's pen
Alters this fact that life is lived with men.
But here we are, and here we all must stay
Until at last death summons us away.
My problem this is so to act that I Shall neither be afraid to live or die.

WALK TO WORK WELL
In the perennial transportation problem in New York city it has been proposed to stagger the traffic by fixing different hours for the different classes of folk to go to and from work or business. Thus, persons engaged in clothing manufacture may go to work at 8 a. m. and return home at 4 p. m. Persons in the publishing or furniture or building trades may go to work at 7 a. m. and return home at 5 p. m., and so on. Instead of the grand jam which now marks the rush hour. This project has already brought out differences of opinion about the classification of workers. Employers of office workers claim a prior right to the hours of 9 to 5 and declare that it is only recently that textile workers and the department store people have usurped these hours. They threaten to stand pat, and let the textile workers and department store workers change their hours.

In a stagger census which the New York authorities are trying to take it was found that 18 out of 106 employees of the American Tobacco Company usually walk to work. Eleven of 56 employees of the First Music publishing house walk to work. Twenty-five out of 129 employees of the Century Publishing Company walk to work.
These are surprising figures. New York city people have the reputation of never walking when it is possible to ride in subway, elevated, surface car, taxi or bus. These figures would seem to indicate that about 20 per cent of the workers have better sense than one would suspect when caught in the rush hour jam.
A lady who conducts a beauty shop and, unlike many of her kind, is not at all difficult to look at herself, discovered that she had accumulated about twenty-five pounds of the very prevalent if not popular stouter flesh, owing to prosperity and a fine new sedan. She stored the sedan and started out an hour earlier each morning, walking to the shop. She squandered another hour each evening walking home. Thus she walked about five or six miles daily. In the course of the winter she burned off nearly all the superfluous flesh. She had been carrying, and now she is as happy as though she had a flock of luzzies and a squad of cabotters trucking for her.
Every one who lives by his wits ought to devote an hour or two daily to keeping his wits in good order. There is no better way to do that than by walking. The habit of walking to and from business has an indirect advantage, particularly in time of epidemic—it endows one to a certain exposure to the ubiquitous conversational spray of all sorts of people on the trolley or train, not to mention the open face coughers and sneezers that infest public conveyances in every city. The walking habit tends to develop an individual's natural immunity against the cold.

Honest walking people, that is, people who earn their living by working themselves, should have first call on the various means of transportation to and from their work. They do not need the ease of walking.
A three or five mile walk to business does a man at least as much good as nine holes of golf, any day, except that it doesn't call for short pants.

Saccharin
Would 1 1/2 saccharin tablets daily corresponding to 1 1/2 lumps of sugar, be harmful to health? (Mrs. G. F.)
Answer.—Medical and chemistry experts concluded several years ago that adults may take not to exceed five grains of saccharin daily without injury to health. I don't know how much the tablets you use contain. I do not see any advantage in using this chemical sweetener as a sugar substitute in any circumstances.

STATE GOVERNMENT COSTS
Washington, D. C.—The cost of state government in this country is steadily increasing, whereas the cost of Federal government is decreasing every year. State governments, on the whole, are getting deeper and deeper in debt, while the federal debt is being materially reduced. State revenues are insufficient to meet state expenditures, while the federal income shows a surplus after the year's expenditures have been met.
These are some of the comparisons that may be drawn from data compiled by the United States Bureau of the Census, covering the year 1925 and years immediately preceding.
The total cost of government in 1925 of the 48 States was $1,614,562,230. This was an increase of 6.7 per cent over 1924, when the total was $1,513,628,000, and the 1924 figure showed an increase of 15.5 per cent over the total cost for 1923, which amounted to $1,310,333,000. The increase from 1923 to 1925, accordingly was 22.2 per cent. These figures cover expenditures for operation, maintenance, interest and outlays for permanent improvements.
The total expended and obligated by the Federal government exclusive of the payments on account of debt, investments, stores for resale, repayment of deposits, and refunds—items not included in the totals for state governments—was $2,472,000,000 in 1923, $3,315,237,000 in 1924, and $3,226,032,000 in 1925, this being a decrease of 4.5 per cent from 1923 to 1924 and an increase of 0.3 per cent from 1924 to 1925. The decrease from 1923 to 1925 was 4.2 per cent.
Interest payments for the state governments were $50,446,000 in 1923, $55,848,000 in 1924, and $67,602,000 in 1925, the increases being 10.7 per cent and 21.2 per cent.
Interest payments of the Federal Government for the same years dropped from $1,056,169,000 to $940,844,000, and then to $881,994,000, the percentages of decrease being 10.9 and 6.3.
STATE DEBTS PILE UP
The rate at which state debts are piling up is perhaps best shown by making comparisons over a 10-year period. In 1915 the total net debt of the States, which is the funded or fixed debt less sinking fund assets, was $24,155,000 or $4.21 per capita. Ten years later the total was $1,251,703,000, or $11.12 per capita. The large increase came after 1919, but no attempt is made in the Census figures to show what caused them.
Net debt, it may be pointed out, does not tell the whole story of how the States stand in the matter of their financial obligations. The gross debt outstanding at the close of the last year amounted to $1,745,650,787, or $15.50 per capita, and consisted of $1,577,758,377, funded or fixed; $137,892,410, revenue loans; and $30,513,635 outstanding warrants.
The total revenue receipts in 1925 of the 48 States were $1,456,242,240, or a per capita of $13.19. This was $373,703,981 more than the total payments for operation and maintenance and interest of the year, but $129,819,990 less than the total expenditures, including those for permanent improvements. In only 17 of the States was there sufficient revenue to meet all the payments for the year. Payments in excess of revenue receipts were met from the proceeds of debt obligations.
Ten years ago the States collected revenues at the rate of only $5.66 per capita, for a grand total of $458,233,000. This was more than a billion dollars less than combined incomes of the States in 1925.
States derive their revenues from many sources. The largest item in the statement covering 1925 was that of licenses, which totaled $508,974,000. Next came the general property tax which yielded $358,602,000, and third, special property and other special taxes, which produced $235,864,000. Other income sources of the States include poll taxes, special assessments, fines, forfeits and escheats, subventions and donations, interest, rents and highway privileges, earnings of general departments, and earnings of public service enterprises.
The assessed valuation of property subject to general property taxes amounted to $136,134,400,432, or a per capita of $1,209.42. Assessed valuations for Pennsylvania, North Carolina, and California are included in these figures, although those States made no general property tax for all States amounted to about $11,000,000 more than was actually collected.

HOW STATES SPEND THEIR MONEY

An analysis of the total cost of state government for 1925 shows that the costs for the maintenance and operation of the general departments were $1,035,478,035, a per capita of $9.20, and representing 61.1 per cent of all such costs of the States.
These expenditures include the items for general government, protection to person and property, development and conservation of natural resources, health and sanitation, highways, charities, hospitals and corrections, education, recreation and miscellaneous. The latter item covering payments on account of soldiers' bonuses by 21 States.
The largest item in this budget, it may be so termed, is that for education—$397,700,000. Next came charities, hospitals, and corrections, for which $158,754,000 were expended. For highway maintenance and operation the 48 states made payments of $144,250,000. The general government cost ran to a little over $5 millions, while for the police function and for the development and conservation of natural resources the States spent just about the same amounts, approximately $5 millions. Health and sanitation called for almost $5 millions.
The other expenditures of the States which swelled the total to $1,614,562,230, included payments for the operation and maintenance of public service enterprises, such as the mill and elevator enterprises in North Dakota, docks and wharves, canals, irrigation projects, and similar enterprises, $38,276, a per capita of seven cents, and representing 0.5 per cent of the total; interest on debt, $67,661,948, a per capita of 60 cents, and 4.2 per cent of the total; and for outlays, or permanent improvements of general departments and public service enterprises, $508,974,000, $11.2 per cent of the total. Of this last item, $3.2 per cent, or $418,760,223, went for payments for highway and waterway construction. Next in importance were the outlay payments for education, amounting to $36,072,861, and those for charities, hospitals and corrections, amounting to $25,400,000.
The Census figures do not specify as to waterway improvements or upkeep, but it is well known that none of the States is spending consequential sums in that line of transportation. Therefore, when it is seen that the States expended much more than half a billion dollars for maintenance, operation, and new construction of highways and waterways it is obvious that almost all that money went for highways.
It may be of interest to note that the highest per capita cost of state government, so far as operation, maintenance, and interest are concerned, is found in Nevada, with $29.50 as the figure. Wyoming comes next with $23.53 per capita, and North Dakota is third with $22.73.

MYSTERIOUS DENIZIN OF THE BAG-WORM
BY AUSTIN H. CLARK
Smithsonian Institution
Bag-Worms and Moth
All too familiar objects in the eastern part of the country are the cases of the common bagworm (left) which you see hanging on many different kinds of trees and shrubs. But the insect that inhabits there is not generally known.
In the summer if you observe these cases carefully you will see some of them walking about, the movement being effected by the front end of a caterpillar (second figure) which projects from them.
All caterpillars are the young either of moths or butterflies. Here is shown the young of a singularly interesting moth. The male of this moth has wings and looks, in general, much like any other moth. But in this case Nature decided that the ladies' place is strictly in the home and so deprived the females of any way of getting out of it.
The females (smaller size shown), are wingless and legless worm-like things that remain within the bags incapable of leaving them. There they lay their eggs and die; and in the spring the little caterpillars make their way out of the bags and spread themselves over the plant.

New York — There still are many who find it difficult to condone smoking by women, or to accept the fact that quite as many women smoke today as men.
In New York the way has been paved so well that, almost any day, girls can go puffing their cigarettes down the main thoroughfares without attracting much attention from natives.
Between acts of theaters scores of women pace the sidewalks with male companions—all smoking.
And the other day when a surging crowd jammed Pennsylvania station waiting the Philadelphia flight trains, I counted two women smokers to every man. They perched upon suitcases, upon stairways and railings, puffing casually, to the utter amazement of late arrivals from other communities.
With the "habit" now reduced to a commonplace, some of the adventures of pioneer women smokers now become amusing reminiscences.
Thus there was a young woman beginning her career as a writer who was offered an editorship of a leading national magazine some years ago. She took the job and walking into her office, took out a cigaret and lighted it. A short time later the "boss" walked in. He bluntly stated that he wouldn't tolerate it. The new editor explained that she liked to smoke when she worked, and saw no reason why she shouldn't. With which she walked out of the place.
Thereafter, she set forth to write fiction and today is one of America's most popular women writers.
The woman in the case, I am told, is none other than Mary Roberts Rinehart. And the man, so goes the tale, was the famous Edward Bok.
A value of several millions is placed upon a collection of stamps exhibited at Grand Central Palace, in connection with a collectors' convention.
The stamp hobby is by no means confined to the small boys of the land. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., is credited with an assortment, the value of which is not known, but to which he gives much spare time and attention. Stenway, the piano man, has a collection valued at $1,000,000 and there are innumerable others.
In New York there is a broker in rare stamps who thanks these little mediums of postage for his present wealth.
On three occasions he lost fortunes in other professions and each time was saved through dealings in stamps. They are not to him a hobby, but an investment. He holds them for fancy prices as real estate dealers hold property that one day will be valuable or as antique dealers treasure old jewels.
These trick lighters may or may not work when you want them to but they're in great demand among late theatre arrivals who, because of the darkness of the house, cannot read their programs. So prevalent has this custom become that investigation is being made as to whether this is a violation of theater fire laws.

WINDOWS OF WIRED GLASS ADVISED TO HELP STOP FIRES

Building Is Poor Fire Risk if Adjoining Structures Are Dangerous

A property owner may be able to eliminate the hazards of his own building but it may still be a poor fire risk because of hazardous adjoining property, five experts point out. The Burlington building in Chicago was of the latest type of fire resistant construction. Neighboring properties, however, were poorly constructed and when a fire broke out in one of the nearby buildings it was not long before the flames had jumped across a street to the Burlington building and had entered through the windows. Wired glass windows in metal frames would have offered some resistance to the flames and might have prevented a portion of the loss, but the actual damage amounted to several million dollars.

One effective means of checking exposure fires is to erect blank walls on the side of the building from which trouble may be expected. If it is necessary to put windows in this wall, they should be of wired glass in metal frames. Fire shutters and outside open sprinklers will also be helpful in preventing fire from coming into the building through windows. Many large industrial plants are equipped with private hydrants and fire hose. If an exposure fire threatens, this equipment is helpful not only in checking the spread of the fire but also in wetting down the walls and roof of the exposed property so that it is more difficult for the fire to attack it.

According to the Insurance Department of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, only a small portion of all fires spread from the building in which they originate, but those which do usually cause severe loss. The department suggests that during Fire Prevention Week every property owner make a survey of his own surroundings to determine whether there is a greater possibility of a fire destroying his building from the outside than from the inside.

NEW COURTHOUSE, TAXES ARE UP FOR BOARD SESSIONS

Supervisors Have at Least Four Important Issues to Act on

At least four important issues will be brought before the county board of supervisors at the regular fall sessions in November, according to reports of contemplated activities already being widely circulated. These questions, it was pointed out, probably will be up for considerable discussion over and above the routine encountered annually. Considerable interest is fomenting on the possibility of considering either the building of a new courthouse or major additions to the present structure, it is said. Although there is little expectation of definite action toward immediate construction, the general feeling appears to be that officers, especially those where large and increasing numbers of documents must be filed for record, are entirely inadequate to meet the needs of a county of the magnitude of Outagamie. More than usual interest will center this year on tax problems owing to the recent revaluation of the entire county and whatever further protests may be precipitated between now and November by Appleton and other cities directly interested.

Action on a proposed three day road inspection trip tentatively suggested to take place the first week of the meetings is an item that owing to its unusual quantities as far as ever having been attempted here prior to this year is almost certain to prove to be one of the important phases of the deliberations. So far, it was reported, persons to whom the plan has been outlined have heartily endorsed the proposal. Briefly the plan calls for three days in which the entire membership of the county board would be conducted on an intensive inspection tour of every foot of roads under the jurisdiction of the county highway commission. It is believed that such a trip would give each member intimate personal contact with the needs of every district in the county.

Her's Is Business Of Giving Parties
Professionalist Provides Everything

BY HORTENSE SAUNDERS
NEW YORK.—Lenette Friedlander attends more parties than any debutante, but it doesn't interfere with her business—because her business is just that—giving parties.

She makes children's parties painful for parents because she comes in and takes charge of the affair from the word of the first invitation to the bundling of the last child into the motor and starting him home—ward.

This unique way of earning a very comfortable income, and having lots of fun doing it was the natural result of having a way with children.

It was forced upon her as a profession because her amateur standing as a hostess was so high there was no other way out.

"It is surprising," she confides, "how the modern mother, who can manage a business or career and rear a family without sacrificing either, who can give the most successful dinner parties, and outdance her own daughters—how she wits and droops before the proposition of giving a children's party."

THEY CRAVE ACTION
Perhaps this isn't so surprising, though, when she goes on to describe the modern child. Naturally, her work is with Social Registerites and wealthy families, and their offspring are not satisfied to call lollipops, ice cream and animal crackers a party.

"The child of today is even more sophisticated than its parents," she says. "Juniors demand action and speed, too. The party must click from the start. Double-handkerchief and blind man's bluff went out with pigstails and pinafores. Charleston contests were the rage last winter—I don't know just what this season will bring.

"Little girls come in French frocks and boys in English suits. It is nothing to see a mob of 12 take out her lipstick and apply it knowingly."

Naturally, one couldn't work single handed with such socially conscious youngsters, so Miss Friedlander has a corps of entertainers—marionettes and Punch and Judy shows, magicians, story tellers and dancers who keep boredom at bay.

The mother does not need to come to the party at all—and usually she doesn't unless she appears just before the children leave.

Strangely enough, Miss Friedlander doesn't care at all for parties when she is only a guest.

"I avoid them," she admits, "but I love children's parties—and I know how to make children have a good time. I always have as good a time as anyone present, even though I am a wreck when parties come as thick and fast as they do during Christmas and spring holidays."

EACH GROUP DIFFERENT
"Every party is just a new problem in human relations. Each group of children has its own particular feeling and atmosphere. Each is a marathon, for I always keep a few leaps ahead of the party and stop every game or contest just in time so that no child has time to get tired or it."

"Though I always plan every party in detail, work out the decorations, menu and favors with the greatest care, I always adapt the actual entertainment to the particular party. Each party is different from any other.

"As a profession, I can only say that it suits me, and that I believe it has unlimited possibilities at least it is different, and I don't have to worry about competition yet."

Lenette Friedlander

Swim Hard To Succeed

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

Two women were neighbors on a modest side street. Their husbands were earning about the same amount of money—each had one child. Their houses were sold and they had to move.

"We are going over to West avenue," said one. "The rents are a little higher, but we'll have room for some flowers in front and a little vegetable garden in back. Dick says he'll get up a little earlier, and I'm going to take a roomer to make up the extra rent until Dick earns more money. Besides, it's a better neighborhood for children."

"You're welcome," said the other. "When you get to a neighborhood like that you've got to live up to it. We're poor and we know it and Bill knows he can earn just so much and no more. We've taken the second house in the row next to the Blue Front Grocery Store. You don't have to clean up in the evenings there, if you don't feel like it, and I guess Bill won't get arrested if he sits with his feet on the porch rail."

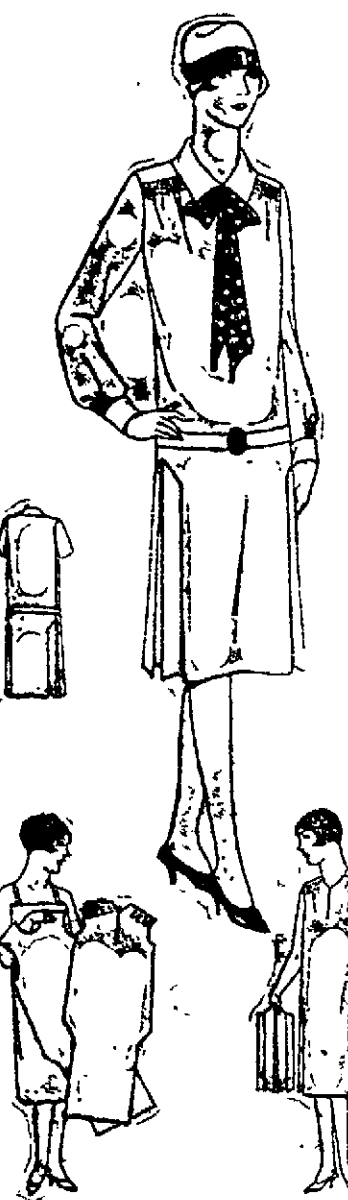

There isn't a doubt what ten, twenty, thirty years will do for those two families. The spirit that wanted a bit of garden and a good neighborhood and planned to make it possible, will plan to make other things possible. And on the other hand, the listlessness that felt that only the lowliest things of life were possible and acceptable will continue to think so as the years roll on. I'd like to see "Dick" and "Bill" when they are fifty. I don't need to see their wives. If we never plan for anything, we never get anything. Make no mistake, it is the planners that get there. They are our financial and professional successes.

We hear of rivet boys rising to corporation presidents. But it isn't by chance. I know of a woman who started in with a ten acre apple orchard who is now president and part owner of a fifty million dollar fruit corporation in California. She did not drift there.

We cannot be presidents and we cannot be millionaires, perhaps, but we can plan ahead and fit ourselves into our new environments, and it should always be a step up. No one can stand still. We go forward or we go back. If we drift, we go back. If we go forward we must swim, and swim hard.

queer during Joan's long explanation and description of her brother.

As she went to telephone to the hospital for a late report of Lela I asked him what he was worrying about.

"I am not worrying very much," he said, "but I think it will take somewhat longer than Miss Meredith expects to get the property settled up unless her attorney has been working on it for some time. It looks rather strange to me that he has not served some sort of notice on her and her brother that on such a day a settlement of accounting would be made."

"I think, Judy, my dear, that you have projected yourself into a new job already."

As Jerry said this, that queer little crooked smile, which always gave me a tiny heart throb, curled up at the corner of his mouth, and I knew he was much relieved at the thought that for some weeks at least we had her brother that on such a day a settlement of accounting would be made.

"I shall advise," he said, "that tomorrow you and Miss Meredith go to Mr. Elkins and ask when the accounting will be ready. If you see or hear anything that you think is at all dubious, manage to telephone to my father's office. I will be there most of the morning and I will immediately interest Dad in the matter."

"But, Jerry," I remonstrated, "are you sure that you want to tell your father. You know he is a friend of Mr. Robinson's. Why, I really got my job at the Mortenson Department Store because I mentioned your father's name."

"You're never understood Dad, Judy. And by the way, dear, there are lots of things about life you have yet to learn. I love your courage and enthusiasm and your undaunted way of marching into things, but I have worried myself sick since I have known you for fear that you would 'come a cropper.' Dad is a pretty good old scout."

"Why, Jerry, I don't see how you can say that. You know what he told me about you."

"Yes, yes, I know. He told you all

BAKING CAKES
The success of a cake usually lies on the accuracy in measuring, the quality of the materials used and the baking. Uses the best ingredients, only, and learn your oven. Use standard measuring cups and spoons.

SAUCE FOR FISH
Delicious egg sauce for fish is made by adding two finely chopped hard-boiled eggs to cream sauce.

BOILED POTATOES
Sliced cucumbers make an ideal accompaniment for the fish course. Boiled potatoes sprinkled with parsley make an attractive garnish.

MAKING GOOD TEA
To make good tea the water must be freshly boiled, and the tea pot must have been heated by having hot water poured in it.

FRESH AIR
The careful housekeeper airs the dining room before and after each meal, and keeps the odor of food banished as completely as possible.

SMITH LAUGHS AT SCOUTS' EFFORTS TO SKETCH PLAYS

Offers to Tell Them All About His Strategy if They Call on Him

Kaukauna—Coach William "Tiger" Smith took his entire squad over to Fond du Lac Friday afternoon to watch Appleton play Fond du Lac and the boys came back enthused over the prospect of a win over Appleton. They saw that they were not unbeatable. In the morning Smith sent his hirelings through a stiff scrimmage in preparation for the Neenah game Saturday afternoon. He said Melvin Miller, who was injured the other evening in a scrimmage, would not play unless it was necessary.

Appleton, Neenah and West Green Bay scouts have been watching the Kaukauna team the past week. Friday Smith said he believed the scouts were going through a great deal of uneasiness sitting in the grand stand and marping out the plays. He suggested that if they would call at his office in the high school building he would give them all the plays and explain them directly to them if they so desired. He would even go so far as to provide them with paper upon which to write the "dope." The "Tiger" says that anything the deponents can get on the local team at the practice field they are entirely welcome to.

Miss Hayes is from Ladysmith and she served as county nurse in Rusk-co. Many cases of measles have been reported in the city within the last week and Miss Hayes' first big job will be to prevent the malady from spreading.

KEEP FIT!

Good Health Requires Good Elimination.

THE rush, hurry, and worry of modern life throws a heavy strain on the vital organs. We are inclined to eat too much, drink too little water, and get too little fresh air and exercise. It is little wonder that our organs are apt to become sluggish.

Good health requires good elimination. If the kidneys fail to fully perform their functions, body poisons are left in the blood stream and one is apt to feel dull, languid, tired and aching. A dull, nagging backache is sometimes a symptom with drowsy headaches and dizzy spells. Evidence that the kidneys are not functioning perfectly is sometimes found in burning or scanty passage of the secretions.

While, naturally, all backache does not come from the kidneys, if you have reason to suspect your kidneys are not properly filtering the blood, it is a good plan to take things easier, drink plenty of pure water, and assist your kidneys with a stimulant diuretic.

Doan's Pills have established a nation-wide reputation. They are endorsed by users everywhere. Ask your neighbor!

Higher Regard At Funeral Time

The higher grade funeral service which BRETTSCHEIDER gives is expressive of the higher regard you hold for the one departed.

The finer attention to details, and their results; the many thoughtfulnesses included, and their effect; the total manner of management, and procedure on the funeral day: are more impressive, completely done, and up-to-date.

And this higher regard and high grade service cost no more than other funeral arrangements.

GEORGE WHITE'S "SCANDALS"

Following the most successful season it has yet known in New York and Chicago the Sixth Annual Edition of George White's "Scandals" is to be presented at the Fischer Appleton Theatre on Wednesday Oct. 13th matinee and night.

This edition of the "Scandals" is said to have eclipsed all of Mr. White's former offerings which is saying much in the light of what he has heretofore given to lovers of this form of entertainment. The current revue will be presented in two acts and thirty elaborate scenes. The company carries a special augmented orchestra so that the numerous song hits and musical numbers may be treated with their full value. The famous Favisian chorus of more than usual beauty appeal has been gathered by Mr. White for the present offering and there are more than sixty of them. They can dance and all have vocal attainments of no mean order. Among the strong cast of principals in the revue are such well known names as that of Jeanne White, sister of the producer, George White, internationally famous for her beauty and dancing who heads a cast with the noted comedian Freddie Lightner of over one hundred, among them are: Ace Brown, Kimm and Ross, Leland Sisters, Walter Dicks, The De Torgos, Emile De Vos, Marcelina Smythe, Stanley Cable, Leora Deltick, Jennie Lind, The Yarnell Sisters, Rosella McQueen and the Royal Phil-

WHAT'S THE COMEDY?

BEBE DANIELS AND CHARLES PADDOCK. —THE WORLD'S FASTEST HUMAN, WHO PLAYS AN IMPORTANT ROLE IN HER NEW PARAMOUNT PICTURE, "THE CAMPUS FLIRT" AT FISCHER'S APPLETON THEATRE, MONDAY, TUESDAY AND WEDNESDAY.

ipano Shiek orchestra under the direction of Baldy Wetzel. The comedy scenes were built by William K. Wells and George White. Bud de Silva and Macdonald have supplied the lyrics and the prolific writer of hitting melodies; George Gershwine has made the score. All the costumes, stage decoration and curtains were designed more and more thoroughly established since "The Big Parade," "The Blackbird," "La Boheme" and other pictures graced by her presence, is demonstrated again by the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture, "Blarney," at the Elite Theatre today and Sunday. Convincing as she was as the lit-

French peasant girl in "The Big Parade," as she was as the half-worldly mime in "The Blackbird," she is no less convincing as Peggy Nolan, the Irish lass, who loved and loved and loved, in this present picture.

Marcel De Sano directed "Blarney" from a Saturday Evening Post story by Donn Byrne and Perry Nolan represents James Cagney's incentive to regeneration after he has toppled from the ladder of fame and fortune to poverty, obscurity and a ditch-digger's berth.

Renee is not alone in lending a distinguished performance to the film. Ralph Graves in the title role is, we are told, a newcomer into the dramatic field from the comedy school of training. He certainly establishes his right to the handling of such an important role. He is as handsome as a fighting young Irishman should be, and as good an actor as the varied requirements of the part demand.

BEBE'S LATEST PICTURE
A LAUGH RIOT
If you want a college education in the course of an hour—one devoid of study, yet teaching the latest thing in laughs—get down to the Fischer's Appleton Theatre, Sunday, Monday or Tuesday of this week.

The reason? Bebe Daniels! She's back again — the same vivaciously dashing bit of femininity who comes through Paramount comedies to the accompaniment of a thousand laughs. This time, they're all dressed up and steeped in college atmosphere. "The Campus Flirt."

Bebe is cast as a "mascot" — a girl who is sent to an American co-educational college because it is her father's alma mater. He feels that his daughter's snobbish, arrogant ways are merely a veneer through which the girl's true character will come smiling after a period of shoulder-rubbing with other students. Of course, Bebe gets off on the wrong foot. How she changes, and finally "finds" herself, creates and causes an ocean of laughs.

Heading the hand-picked cast we find Charles Paddock of cinderpath fame. He displays fine acting potentialities and should go far in his new field of action. James Hall and El Brendel, respectively, take care of the love and comedy interests. Joan Standing, Gilbert Roland, Irma Kor-nella and Jocelyn Lee are also in the cast.

On the stage will appear the new fourteen piece stage band assisted by The Atlantic City Four, the quartette who made such a hit here last summer returning with a complete program change and other acts, also comedy starring Jimmie Adams.

"GILDED BUTTERFLY"

"The Gilded Butterfly," the Fox Films production coming to the New Bijou three days starting Monday is a fascinating story of the inside of society, featuring Alma Rubens and Bert Lytell in the two principal roles.

Alma is the lovely society butterfly, who almost sings her wings. She is typical of many of the daughters of today, raised in surroundings far beyond their parents' means, to expect the best things of life, unable to face reverse and disillusionment in a cool-headed manner.

Bert is a young American officer anxious for a berth in the diplomatic service. He is clean-cut and idealistic and different from any other man Alma has ever met. She falls in love with him and this love changes her whole attitude towards life.

Elunty Gordon is cast as the thoroughly likeable heavy, who backs Alma after her father's death, in order that she may be in his debt. However, when the show-down comes, he finds himself genuinely in love with the girl and acts accordingly.

Others in the cast are Frank Keenan who plays the part of the father, a social parasite, who has raised his daughter according to his own ideas of wealth. Vera Lewis is the wealthy aunt and Arthur Hoyt her hen-pecked little husband. Herbert Rawlinson is the fortune hunting fiancé, who deserts Alma when he finds she is not an heiress. Carolyn Snowdon is Fanny, the faithful colored maid.

What will it be for dessert today? ENZO JEL of course. adv.

FOND DU LAC HIGHS TRIM ORANGE GRIDDERS, 19 TO 6

Crack Passing Attack Of Fountain City Crew Aided By Plunges Win Loop Game

Giebel, Hanson, Watson Feature Fondy Play; Orange Get Bad Breaks

Special to Post-Crescent. Fond du Lac—Unable to solve a speedy aerial attack in the final half of the game, Appleton high school's grid team dropped a conference battle to Fond du Lac high here Friday afternoon, 19-6. The Appleton line also weakened under heavy pounding to aid the Red and White in scoring its three touchdowns. Three Appleton players were injured during the game.

Giebel, Fondy fullback, was the hero of the game, plunging through the center line for big gains. Hanson and Watson also performed well in the Fondy rear wall and Aspatore starred at tackle. For Appleton, Johnston and Cookson played the best game.

Appleton scored its touchdown in the first quarter and the half ended, 6-0, for the Orange. Appleton kicked to Fondy but took the ball on downs, carrying it 40 yards to the 11 yard line on three plays. Here Appleton fumbled and Fondy recovered. A few minutes later Cookson intercepted a pass from his own 35-yard line and raced 55 yards to a touchdown, outspringing the Fondy team. Lutz's kick was blocked.

In the third quarter Hanson carried a punt 40 yards to Appleton territory. On a pass the receiver fell to the ground but arose after the whistle blew. Johnston tackled him when he started for the goal and Appleton was penalized 15 yards for roughing. In two plunges Hanson carried the ball over. Watson missed the goal try. In the final quarter Hanson returned a punt again for a long run, three Appleton players being injured on the play. Lethen and Kunitz were carried from the field. Two more plays and a short pass from Watson to Giebel carried the ball over and Watson kicked goal.

Appleton was forced to its goal line shortly after by a bad pass from Rankin, third-string center, which rolled back several yards before Johnston fell on it. With Johnston punting from behind the goal line, Rankin's pass was back against the Fondy line and dropped on the ball for the third marker as it was fumbled. Watson missed the goal. Both teams used passes frequently. Fond du Lac missed three drop kicks.

LAWRENCE INVITES ORANGEMEN TO GAME
Members of the 1926 Appleton high school football team were guests of two state schools at grid games Saturday afternoon. Some went to Madison, Wis., to see the University of Wisconsin to see the Kansas City team. The Lawrence college athletic association also invited the squad to its Oshkosh Normal game at Whitening field and most of the boys went to this struggle.

Henry Lamar, Washington, knocked out Arthur Wickman, New York (2).
Rockford, Ill.—Cozy Dolan, Chicago, won from Sammy Paris, Rockford, on a technical knockout (3). Baldy Youngberg, Rockford, defeated Pete Eganly, Chicago (4).

Forward Pass Is Gridiron's Greatest Thrill, Nevers Says
BY ERNIE NEVERS
In the last 10 years the west has become a prominent factor in college football. During the past five years there has been but little to distinguish between the caliber of the leading teams of the east and west. When I speak of the west, very naturally I have reference to the Pacific Coast, California, Stanford, Washington, Southern California and the rest of the teams comprising the coast conference.

Since the colleges of the Pacific Coast have made such rapid strides in the last few years I often am asked what style of play has made such recognition possible.
As I have said before, I do not believe that the coast eleven confine themselves to a particular style of play that differs from football as played in the colleges of the various other sections of our country.

It would say the coast eleven play a diversified game. I know that is very true of Stanford as coached by Glenn Warner. Incidentally, I might add that he believes in mixing the play.

At last fall, in our first game of the year, we have instructed our short backs to be the chief offensive weapon. In our second game we used running; thus almost out of us in our third center, we resorted to kicking in the first 100 yards of the game. I am sure that we will have for us to kick on the first down.

TOUGH BREAK

Taylor Douthit

When young Taylor Douthit collided with Chick Hafez in an attempt to get a fly ball in the fourth game of the world series at St. Louis Wednesday, the Cards suffered their hardest blow of the series. Douthit and Hafez were laid out and the hit went for a two-bagger. Both played the game out and a short time later the plucky Douthit shot a perfect throw from the field to catch a runner at the plate. After the game the Card gardener complained of pains and on examination it was found that he had a couple ribs broken. Now his side is taped from waist to armpit and he is out of the series.

His absence is sorely felt as he was lead off man and had started many rallies, beside hitting well in the pinches. He had fine series average before the injury. Holm, his sub, had several chances to win Thursday's game with one necessary but he couldn't make it, where Douthit might have come through at least once.

DONOHUE HAS WON 20 THREE TIMES IN FOUR

Pete Donohue, stellar right-handed pitcher with the Cincinnati Reds, has turned in a rather unusual record during three out of the last four seasons.

Donohue has reached the 20-game figure in victories three times over that period. In 1923 he won 21 and last year repeated with the same number. In 1926 Pete hit the 20-mark in the final game of the campaign, beating the pennant-winning Cardinals.

In 1924 the Reddie failed to get in the 20-hit class, winning 16. He just missed the mark in 1925, also. That season he had 18 triumphs.

Monte Munn, Nebraska, knocked out Archie Skinner, Jack DeMaye, Oshkosh, beat young Bob Fitzsimmons (10).

REUTHER HAS BEEN ON SIX BIG LEAGUE CLUBS

"Dutch" Reuther, who finished the season with the Yankees, has now played on six major league clubs. He has been with the Pirates, Cubs, Reds and Dodgers in the National League and with the Senators and Yankees in the American. He came to the Johnsonian circuit in 1925.

Monte Munn, Nebraska, knocked out Archie Skinner, Jack DeMaye, Oshkosh, beat young Bob Fitzsimmons (10).

CHICAGO COLORED BOY GOT CARDINALS MIXED

BY BILLY EVANS

Here is a story that was told me during my last trip to Chicago. I regard it as worth repeating: Two gents of color were standing on the curb of Michigan avenue during one of the many processions that featured the Eucharistic Congress. One didn't know what it was all about, but fortunately his more intelligent friend did.

After a brief explanation, he impatiently asked with certain man in the procession were and was informed they were the priests. Later the bishops were pointed out to him.

"Who is them men following the bishops?" he asked.

"Them is the cardinals," replied the more intellectual one.

"They is, sure enough? Well, then, don't fail to point that fellow Rogers Hornsby out to me. I shure have wanted to see him for some time."

NO SCOUTING FOR COE-BLUE BATTLE

Agreement of Coaches Eliminates "Looking Over" of Rivals Beforehand

When Lawrence and Coe colleges meet in a Midwest conference grid battle at Cedar Rapids, Iowa, Saturday, Oct. 16, neither team will know the style of play of the other except what can be garnered from newspaper reports or remembered from last fall. A gentlemen's agreement between the two colleges abolishes scouting of the opposing team in its game this afternoon as well as any scouting of previous week.

Coach Mark Catlin of the Blues and Coach Eby of the Kohawks came to the agreement at the suggestion of the local mentor who has been a firm advocate of the no-scout idea. Coach Catlin advocated the idea in several interviews last year, saying that he preferred to have the players play the game on the field themselves and not make it a battle of coaches.

The Coe-Lawrence game is sure to be a close battle as the teams are evenly matched. Last fall a crippled Blue squad held the Kohawks even while the game and should have had a tie score. Late in the tie H. Lamb, a star Coe back again this year, intercepted a pass from Zussman and raced for the only marker of the game and victory. The game dedicated the new Whiting field.

EASTERN TEAMS IN HARD GAMES TODAY

New York (P)—Tingling football weather greeted eastern teams Saturday as a rising pigskin tide coincided with the ebullient world series.

Leading off in intercollegiate attractions and at the same time providing a real test for a Yale team that displayed tremendous power last week against Boston University was the Georgia invasion of the Yale Bowl.

Harvard's green team had a strenuous session on tap with Holy Cross. Washington and Lee threatened the Princeton Tiger. Dartmouth had a southern challenger in Virginia Poly.

The Army was host to Davis Elkins. West Virginia Wesleyan was the guest of New York University here while Syracuse entertained William and Mary. Navy carried a double header against the University of Richmond and Drake.

Other feature games were: Cornell-Williams; Pennsylvania-Swarthmore; Pittsburgh-Lafayette.

2 APPLETON BOYS IN VALLEY ROLLER RACE

The amateur roller skating championship of the Fox river valley will be decided Sunday evening at Brighthead beach when six winners of elimination contests will go into the final.

Two Appleton skaters, Bruno Bell and John Stark, are included in the number. Menasha is represented by George Beauda, Ben Levandosky and Roy Reimer. George Dahlem of Oshkosh is the other contestant.

GERMAN HEAVY CHAMP BEATS RACINE YOUTH

New York (P)—Franz Diener German heavyweight champion, won the judges' decision Thursday night over Knute Kanzen, of Racine, Wis., in the ten round feature match of Tex Rickard's first series of elimination bouts at Madison Square garden to determine a challenger for Gene Tunney's heavyweight title. Diener weighed 194, Hansen 209. The German chased Hansen around the ring, breaking repeatedly through the westerner's guard for damaging smashes to the head and body.

Hansen flashed for a time in the first round when he dropped Diener with a right to the head or the only knockdown of the fight. Diener was up unhurt, without a count.

SAMMY MANDEL BEATS JAWSON OF MILWAUKEE

Rockford, Ill. (P)—Sammy Mandel, lightweight champion won the decision over Joe Jawson of Milwaukee here Friday night in ten rounds.

It was the champion first since he won the title from Rocky Kansas in Chicago in July.

Jimmy Mahoney Rockford won the decision from Leo Tramor, Madison, Wis., in a four round preliminary.

Nick Oliva, St. Paul, knocked out Mickey Anderson, St. Paul, (7).

Edna Bush, St. Paul, and Paddy Mullins, St. Paul, fought a draw (6).

Kid Silk, St. Paul, and Jack O'Shea, Minneapolis, draw (6).

ONE TOO MANY, TONY!

Tony Lazzari, hard-hitting second baseman of the Yanks, banged one of Flint Rhem's choicest offerings against the barricade in left center at Sportsman's Park, St. Louis, in the second inning of the fourth world series game. The hit was good for two bases, but the ambitious Mr. Lazzari tried to make three on it, being tagged out as he slid into third. It was a close play; in fact, the camera seems to say Tony was safe. But the ump—George Hildebrand in this case—thought otherwise.

Marquette Harriers Meet Lawrence Here on Oct. 30

Milwaukee—With the entire 1925 varsity team back in running togs and a promising assortment of sophomores on hand, cross country prospects at Marquette university are the best in history, and Coach Conrad M. Jennings' runners are looking forward to a heavy year.

Melvin Shimke, Coach Jennings' great distance ace, heads the list of returning vets and is expected to break the tape at most of the meets in which he is entered this fall. Others of last year's squad are Otto Turek, Jack Murphy, Lorry Schuette and Jack Lynch, while the featured incoming sophomores are Henry Pfleger, who gave Jole Ray a close race in the Chicago Tribune's cross country run last season; Williams and Egieman.

The harriers are now working out daily in the Marquette stadium and on a Milwaukee west side course. The schedule includes no meets in Milwaukee, however.

Coach Jennings has announced the following campaign for his outfit: Oct. 23, Minnesota at Minneapolis; Oct. 30, Lawrence at Appleton; Nov. 6, Michigan State at East Lansing, and Nov. 20, Central Intercollegiate conference meet at East Lansing, Mich.

Member schools in the conference meet will be Marquette, Notre Dame, Michigan State and Butler, and the following schools are being invited to participate: Carleton, Case, Creighton, DePaul, Lawrence, Hamline, Denison, Clemson, Doane, Miami, Oberlin, Ohio Wesleyan, Wabash, Western Reserve, Wooster, Cincinnati, Detroit, University of Kentucky, California, Southern California and Stanford.

MARYLAND BATTLES MAROON GRID TEAM

Staggmen Played Second Straight Intersectional Game at Chicago Today

Chicago (P)—Two games of conference significance and as many intersectional contests were outstanding in Saturday's midwestern football. Maryland was at Chicago for the second intersectional clash of the year for the Maroons, conquerors of Florida last week and the Marines came up from Quantico to play St. Xavier at Cincinnati.

The one conference game was at Lincoln, where Missouri starting, a drive for a third successive Missouri Valley championship opposed Nebraska, last falls runner-up.

Virtually a Western Conference game was provided by Notre Dame's invasion of Minnesota. Rockne's school is not in the Big Ten but the contest was looked to as an indication of 1926 fortunes of Big Ten teams, the Hoosiers being a consistent annual stumbling block for the conference varieties, which start championship play next week. The engagement was the feature of the day.

Of the other Big Ten teams Wisconsin was host to Kansas, Michigan was opposed by Michigan state college. Northwestern met Carleton college. Illinois entertained Butler, Iowa met North Dakota, Purdue was at home to Wabash, Ohio opposed Ohio Wesleyan at Columbus, and Indiana's field was invaded by Kentucky.

RACINE BROTHERS MEET IN ARMY-NAVY BATTLE

Chicago (P)—There's to be some real family strife in the Army-Navy game. Arthur Born is an end for the Navy. His brother Chuck plays end for the army. They are from Racine, Wis. Born appeared on grid teams at Columbus and Indiana's field was invaded by Kentucky.

SUZ AND PRO TENNIS MAKE DEBUTS TONIGHT

New York (P)—Suzanne Lenglen and professional tennis make their debut Saturday night on indoor courts at Madison Square Garden. Tickets are $1 to $5.

In singles, Mlle. Lenglen will meet Mary K. Rowntree, former national champion. In mixed doubles she will team with Vincent Richards, former Davis cup star, against Miss Browne and Howard Kinsey.

Richards will play Paul Feret, former luminary in the French amateur ranks. Richards and Harvey Snood will play Kinsey and Feret in doubles.

WHITING FIELD TENNIS COURTS READY FOR USE

Seven new tennis courts have been completed at the George Whiting athletic field of Lawrence college and are ready for use by college students. It has been announced, Prof. Fred Trelease designed, built and supervised the construction of these courts.

The material is clay and limestone and more than a mile of tile was laid beneath the courts to drain the water off into the river. The cost of their construction was about $4,000, and $2,500 of this was donated by George A. Whiting of Lawrence.

Eleven tennis courts are now available for college students as there have been four on the college campus for a number of years.

POLICE CHIEFS ENDORSE ALL STEEL MOTOR CARS

Approval of all steel automobile body construction was expressed by all but 84 out of approximately 500 police chiefs interviewed on the subject of Highway Accidents and their prevention, according to a statement in a recent issue of the Literary Digest.

These police chiefs from all parts of the country were interviewed in the making of a survey which was submitted to the Second National Conference on Street and Highway Safety, held recently in Washington under the supervision of Secretary of Commerce Hoover.

As quoted in the Digest, Harold D. Bittenheim, editor of The American City Magazine, in submitting the results of the survey to the conference, said:

"The last question dealt specifically with lowering the fatalities by constructing closed car bodies of steel on the same safety principle as the all steel railway coach. All but eighty-six answers, that is, 405 of 491, were emphatic in their answers, relating experiences of theirs which indicated conclusively that in the wrecks involving all steel bodies they had found the strength of steel had saved the lives of passengers."

"One California chief pointed out that not only did the all steel body protect passengers in unavoidable wrecks, but that the reduction in the size of the pillars supporting the top gives the driver a better view of the road and permits greater opportunity to avoid accident than the bulky wood posts often used in closed car construction."

"This is a sincere tribute to Dodge Brothers, the first automobile manufacturer to recognize the strength and safety of the all steel body," said R. K. Wolter of the Wolter Motor company, local dealer, in commenting on this article. The all steel body is destined within a few years, I believe to replace the wood framed automobile body just as certainly as the all steel railway coach and the all steel steamship have replaced those made of wood."

GERMAN MANNEQUINS ORGANIZE A UNION

Berlin, (P)—Mannequins have organized a union. Two of the officers are Russian countesses who fled the Soviet revolution and landed in Berlin virtually penniless. More than 200 enrolled as charter members. The only men present were two delegates of the German Federation of Trade Unions.

The union was declared too young to present demands to modistes. The chief grievances were low wages due to the large number of impoverished society girls who entered the "profession" and unsteady employment.

New York (P)—Jimmy Delaney, St. Paul, won a technical knockout over Alex Rely, Peruvian heavyweight champion (8).

Eau Claire (P)—Dingo Joe Gans, St. Paul, beat Billy Besh, Milwaukee, (10).

Green Bay—A National Football league encounter worth going miles to see will be staged Sunday afternoon at the City stadium where the Green Bay Packers will have it out with the Chicago Cardinals, first place team in the pro circuit.

Ever since 1921, the Big Bay Blues and Windy City South Siders have been battling on the chalk-marked field and, as yet, the best the Bays ever could do was to get a tie game. However, all these games were played in the Cardinals' back-yard and the O'Brien combination may look a bit different when performing off their own lot.

The Cardinals have been stepping along at a pennant winning clip ever since the 1925 season got under way. The Chicagoans opened with a 14 to 0 win over Columbus; then they spanked Erie; Muller's Los Angeles team, 15-0 and last Sunday administered a 20 to 0 lashing to the Racine Tornados. Their goal line hasn't been crossed and they have run up 40 points on their opponents.

'Speed' is the middle name of Chris O'Brien's aggregation. The Cardinals boast of a flashy, forward-passing backfield and a line that is staunch enough to stand on end of pounding. Racine failed to make a single first down against the Chicagoans. The South Siders, in McInerney and Bloomer, have a pair of husky ends, who make a specialty of rushing the passer.

Notables Tell What They Think Is Best Time Of Life

THE best time of life—childhood, youth, middle age, the other side of fifty—

Which do you vote for? Poets glorify them all—youth's golden dreams, the accomplishments of maturity, the rest and less rhytmical and euphonious contentment of age, but more specific and tangible are the views expressed by a group of outstanding American men and women to whom the question, "What is the best time of life?" was put.

BY JIM JEFFERS
Former Heavyweight Boxing Champion
 I think that a man is better able to enjoy life when he is young. By that I mean when he is in his prime, which I take to mean around 24 to 26. At that age a man is in good physical condition, or should be, and he is mentally keener, also. Even at 50 a man should be in top physical shape—though not one in 100,000 is.

When a man grows older he thinks more and sees where he made mistakes when young. Youth is the best time to enjoy life, although I always have enjoyed it and still do.

BY AMOS ALONZO STAGG
Director of Athletics, U. of Chicago
 I presume most people regard youth as the brightest spot in life. But for me all times have been best. I always have enjoyed life as it came. I believe this is the way the Creator meant us to live.

Too many people look forward to a time in the future when they expect to be happiest, and while looking they miss much to be enjoyed in the present.

People can be happy at any age, if they are good, do good, and do their job. Happiness lives in the heart and the consciousness of doing good, shouldering responsibilities, and being of service.

BY HARRY S. NEW
 The best time of life is the age at which we may be this day. A wholesome realization of that fact will inspire us to make the best of the present.

The joys of the past are memories; those of the future are in anticipation, but those of the present are to be realized in the fulfillment of this day's utmost possibilities.

BY HAROLD 'RED' GRANGE
 Youth is all of life that I have experienced so far, and it is natural for youth to seem the best time of life to me. Perhaps I will think different when I am older, but I doubt it. Youth is the time of life when you are alive and fresh and eager. You enjoy everything. Besides, it is in youth that you get your start, and head in the direction you will follow in later years. "I like youth because it doesn't grow stale. It means exhilaration and freedom. I don't dread growing old, but if I had my choice I would remain young forever."

BY POLI NEGRI
 I don't know how men feel about it but women prefer their girlhood days. It isn't only because they usually are the most beautiful at that stage, either. The real joy in a girl's life comes in that early period of development when she begins to realize that she is becoming a woman.

It is difficult to set any definite age for this period, as some girls reach maturity as early as fifteen and others not until several years later. A woman's greatest ambition is to be a mother. And a girl, or very young woman, lives in ecstasy at the thought of the approaching time when she can coo over her own baby. Just watch the delight that shines in a girl's eyes every time there is a baby near and you can almost read her thoughts! Then think of the thousandfold joy she must feel in the thought "some day I will have one my own."

BY CHARLIE CHAPLIN
 What is the best time of life? Youth—or that period from 18 to 22 years of age?

Youth is filled with brightness and visions. Boys and girls as a rule are optimists. Most of them cherish visions of some day becoming wealthy of very influential—or both. When the middle age mark is passed and these visions have not materialized, a keen disappointment is felt.

I can illustrate my point better by using the picture game as an example. A boy of 18 is cast for his first part in a film. "Immediately his ambitions soar. He dreams of some day becoming a great actor and works cheerfully to attain that goal.

The character actor of 50 or 60 has an entirely different outlook on life. He is merely trying to make the best of things while they last and is waiting for the time to come when he will have to depend upon relatives or charity for support. There is no joy in his life.

Life is as great as the happiness one gets out of it. Youth is full of ambitious visions and these visions bring happiness. Therefore youth is the most ideal time of life.

Rubbish, Gasoline And Matches are Fire Hazards

Rubbish, gasoline, kerosene, matches and children are perhaps the chief fire hazards every community has to contend with, according to leading fire prevention experts in the country. If residents of every community are not educated on how to cope with these hazards, loss of life and heavy property destruction is almost certain to result, it is pointed out.

A trash pile or rubbish heap in basement or yard is an invitation to fire and may prove a drain on the resources not only of the owner of the building in which the fire starts, but also on owners of adjacent property in the shape of increased insurance rates and a greater fire tax, experts state. Just why people will persist in harboring trash and rubbish which is a menace to valuable property and precious lives is beyond the comprehension of those who think in terms of safety to lives and property, it is said.

"If you set your neighbor's property on fire willfully, the prison door opens for you," one fire prevention expert said. "If your deliberate carelessness sets his property on fire, the effect on him is just the same, and you ought to be punished." Gasoline vapor is much heavier than air and does not rise, experts warn. It floats along the floor like water, seeking and filling low places. The slightest spark from a horseshoe, a tool of iron or any flamer will cause a violent explosion. The source of this spark may be 50 feet or more from the source of the vapor.

One gallon of gasoline has the explosive power of 83 pounds of dynamite. It will give off 130 times its volume of air into a high explosive. The user of gasoline in the home, the day cleaning plant, the garage and car owner cannot exercise too much care in handling and storing this dangerous explosive, he is warned.

In spite of repeated warnings, reports of torture and deaths and destruction of homes by reason of using kerosene to quicken sluggish fire continue to reach insurance companies. Some who live through the harrowing experience of this practice think they must have made a mistake and used gasoline instead. This is not true, however, for if any fire or live coals are in the firebox, an explosion is almost certain to result when kerosene is poured or thrown in. It is safer to provide proper kindling.

Glass bowl lamps, particularly high lamps with a small base, are always dangerous. A metal bowl and broad base makes the lamp much safer.

The practice of leaving matches within easy reach of children is branded as criminal, particularly when children are alone in the home.

Parents who look their children in houses while they are out at work, visiting, shopping, or at the "movies" are flayed by fire experts who point out that such a practice is liable to result in the death of their children should fire ever break out.

Rubbish, gasoline, kerosene, matches and children, are the causes of many fires which could be prevented by a little care.

The delicious surprise—BENZO JEL. adv.

Responsibility

If there is any personal or business relationship in which responsibility is a vital element, it is that assumed by an executor under a will.

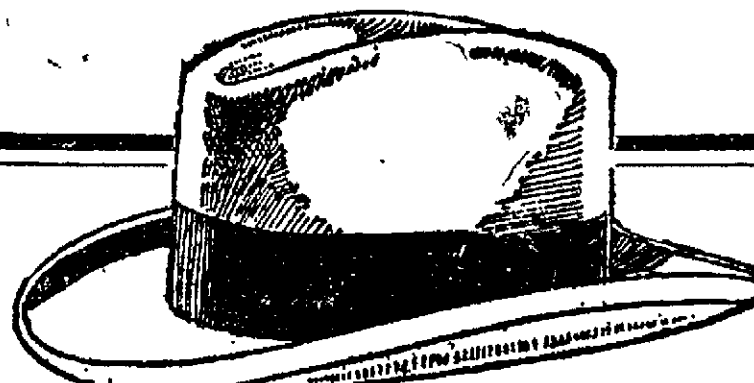

To the executor falls the duty of settling affairs entirely in the interest of others—the heirs under the will.

The executor must handle funds for others, with a discretion that must have for its single object the protection of the beneficiaries' interests.

To any one who is now giving, or will sometime give thought to his will and to decide the choice of an executor, our booklet, "Safeguarding Your Family's Future," should be of interest. Let us send it.

SYSTEM OF CLASS AWARDS RESUMED AT LOCAL SCHOOL

Spirit Cup Will Be Crowning Award to Winning Class at End of Year

A system of personal and class awards used at McKinley junior high school last year has been organized for use this year and the class spirit cup will again be the crowning award at the end of the year to the class with the highest record. F. B. Young, principal, said. Points are given for the various attainments, records, participation in clubs, winning special awards as athletic letters, and others. The record of points for each pupil will be compiled at the close of each six weeks period and a special citation will be made of those who have made a noteworthy number. A notice will be mailed to parents telling them of the record of the pupil for his achievement, it was said.

A permanent record of points for all pupils will be kept. The class attaining the greatest number of points per pupil will get the winner's cup. This silver loving cup is engraved with the winning class' numerals and is handed down from year to year. The class of 1926 had the highest record last year.

Pupils keep individual records of their achievements, Mr. Younger said, including their scholarship marks, attendance and tardiness records, participation in school activities such as the bugle and drum corps, chess clubs and athletics. Lists will be posted at that time with the number of points for each pupil and for each class.

DIXIE LAD KNOWS WILD LIFE AND NATURE LORE

Berea, Ky., (AP)—A close-up of the nature-loving country boy of the Southland is offered by John F. Smith, Berea College professor, vice-president of the Kentucky Folklore society.

"While everybody in Dixie, from early childhood to late in life, plays a good part of the time, the average country boy's intimate knowledge would fill a good-sized volume of natural history. He knows his swimming hole, habits of minnows, groundhog, rabbit, squirrel, of barn owl screech owl, flying squirrel. Learns where the overbird, the waterthrush, kingfisher nest. Sees the blacksnake swallow a toad or a young rabbit. Watches a water snake laboriously dispose of a small fish. Eyewitness while a king snake kills a copperhead or rattlesnake. Sees the sunfish chase an intruder. Learns to know the lovenotes of the sparrow hawk. Sees the ludicrous love dance of the jacksnipe.

"Franks aplenty. From doodle-bug party to bear hunt. And a little later, kissing games, such as Picking Grapes, in which he is inwardly thrilled with prospects they offer but outwardly shrinks therefrom.

JELLY FISH AFFECT FRENCH VILLAGERS

Nice, (AP)—All is not roses and sweet-scenery in the neighborhood of the French Riviera.

The little fishing village of Croc-de-Cagnes, just outside Nice, soon will be uninhabitable unless some means is found of destroying the millions of jelly fish which have appeared in the bay. Huge piles of dead fish are nightly thrown up on the beach and the authorities recently were unable to clean them away before they commenced to rot. Attempts to burn the fish had been unsuccessful.

THE OXFORD OF SPAIN

Madrid—South American students come to Madrid just as Rhodes scholars come to Oxford. In Spain, all those who live south of the Rio Girona and called Americanos, and the inhabitants of the United States are called "gringos," Spanish version of "Yankees." Every academic activity is represented and the authorities maintain an unfailing courtesy toward students from foreign schools.

INDIANA STIRRED BY TALE OF KLAN CONTROL

Indianapolis—"Put Steve in a town for a week and tell him to sell anything and he'll stand the town on its head. But keep him there and sooner or later the town will hang him by the heels."

Some time ago an Indianapolis lawyer made that remark about David C. Stephenson, at that time the most powerful man in Indiana, and now Convict No. 11148 in the Indiana state prison.

Stephenson undertook, five years ago, to sell the Ku Klux Klan to Indiana. He succeeded. He stood Indiana on its head.

But another day was to come—a day when, as the lawyer said, Stephenson was to be "hung up by the heels"—sent to prison for life for murder.

And now Convict No. 11148, otherwise D. C. Stephenson, late grand dragon of the Indiana realm of the invisible empire, and one-time confidant, friend and arbiter of destiny for whole regiments of officeholders is said to have "squealed."

WAITING FOR THE SHOCK

As a result Indiana is waiting for a political explosion that may prove the sensation of the country.

Stephenson wants to tell what he knows, Indiana hears. And he doubtless knows enough to shake the Hoosier state to its foundations.

Tales of the wholesale buying of votes and stuffing of ballot boxes; tales of city and state officials who were bound by chains they could not break to obey Stephenson's slightest order; tales of graft and corruption; tales of an "influence" that controlled courts and juries and that "framed" men who stood in its way.

These are some of the things about which Stephenson is expected to unburden himself.

STATE OFFICIALS USE MUZZLES

Warden Daly of the prison refused to let anyone see Stephenson. So did Governor Ed Jackson, elected two years ago by the aid of Stephenson's machine.

But a small town editor—Thomas Adams, publisher of the Vincennes Commercial Republican—has been investigating. He has had secret communications with Stephenson, he says, and knows many of the ex-dragon's secrets. He is fighting to force the whole story out into the open.

The story of Stephenson and his rise to power is amazing and absorbing. Five years ago he established himself in Evansville, a young, neatly tailored man with an air of prosperity and a very vague past. He became an organizer for the Ku Klux Klan, which was just beginning to gain its foothold in Indiana. And then things began to happen.

In a year's time Stephenson had given the Klan 400,000 Hoosier members and had made himself the state "grand dragon."

Soon Stephenson had a state political machine that functioned as smoothly and powerfully as any in America. He controlled the careers of many legislators; district attorneys and sheriffs were "on his staff"; he was smiled upon at the state house and his influence was said to reach even to Washington—so observers of his rule say.

Like Louis the Fourteenth, Stephenson boasted "I am the law."

Stephenson's Klan faction then split with the national organization. There was a bitter internal struggle, in which Stephenson more than held his own.

He grew wealthy and moved into an expensive white-pillared residence here.

Stephenson reached the crest of his power. It was generally agreed that he would be Indiana's next senator.

CONVICTED OF GIRL'S MURDER And then he was indicted for attacking Miss Marie Oberholzer during a trip to Hammond, Ind. The girl died from the effect of Stephenson's mistreatment of her, it was charged. Stephenson was convicted of murder and sentenced to prison for life.

About Stephenson's career prior to 1921 there is little information. He is reported to have been married and divorced a couple of times. His business history also is shadowy, though he himself used to say he had been a coal mine owner.

BE CAREFUL OF COLDS, HEALTH OFFICERS WARN

Special health precautions must be taken by Appleton residents if they are to avoid contracting colds at this time of year, local health authorities warn. With innumerable persons afflicted with this disease at the present time, more than extraordinary care is necessary.

It is deemed advisable to avoid as many public gatherings as possible. If attendance at a public function is required, spraying of the nose and throat is urged both before and after the meeting. Care also should be taken to avoid drafts.

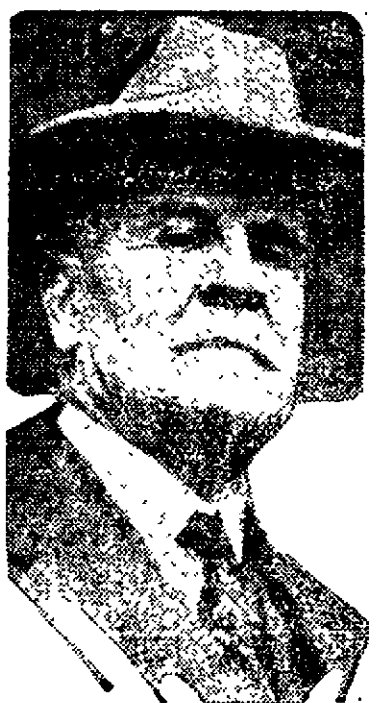

This is the time of year when people are especially susceptible to colds, it is pointed out, and the present season has been unusually encouraging for spread of the disease. Not only is the weather extremely changeable, but this fall has been one of the dampest in years.

MORE BOYS BORN IN GERMANY THAN GIRLS

Berlin (AP)—The antics of the stork in Germany are baffling savants who are interested in seeing to it that for every Eve there is also an Adam. Because of the losses in the war, census reports just published show that women exceed men by 62,000,000 in a population of 62,348,700.

But birth records indicate that for some unexplainable reason seven per cent more boys are being born than girls. In Hamburg the percentage is 10.5. Scientists believe the figures may lead to some solution of the age old mystery of the predetermination of sex. Some have ventured the prediction that the sex of a child is influenced by psychological forces, since German mothers as a rule want a preponderance of boys in their families.

Italy is to drop its unpopular tax on hotel bills.

HEALTH TALKS BY J. A. PANNECK, D. C. Chiropractor

The mechanical purpose of a spinal adjustment is to free the nerves of spinal irritation. Every nerve that branches off from the spine must be free to transmit the vitality it carries to the organ it serves. Adjustments, when needed, accomplish the necessary freedom. Health is the result. If you are suffering from a chronic or acute complaint, the sooner you take steps to remove its cause, the sooner you can expect health.

If any segment of the Spine

is in an abnormal position (subluxation) pressure is produced on the nerve trunks at that point and disease develops.

The Chiropractor adjusts the subluxation and health reappears.

DRUM CORPS WILL PARADE AT RACINE

Grand Commandery Will Hold Annual Conclave on Oct. 12 and 13

Racine (AP)—An array of 15 bands and drum corps will hold their annual conclave here Oct. 12 and 13. Between 5,000 and 7,000 be-plumed knights will be in the parade Wednesday afternoon.

Besides the Wisconsin Sir Knights, the Grand Commandery of Illinois bands is the "Million Dollar" Templar Band of Silcan Commandery. The Chicago delegation will arrive on three special trains. Madison, has arranged for a special train. Milwaukee will journey to Racine on three special trains. Other of the forty-seven commanderies in the state will arrive in special trains also.

Competitive drills for trophies will be held at Washington Park on the morning of October 12th. Three of drill teams, "A," and "C" will compete.

After the parade, an exhibition drill by visiting Illinois Commanderies will be held, followed by a brigade review open to the public. Charles Yocum of Richland Center, Wisconsin, will be the brigade general in charge of the review.

The social feature of the conclave will be the Grand Templar ball which will be held in Racine's new Memorial Building.

The officers of the Wisconsin Grand Commandery are:

Fred W. Burt, Grand Commander, Wausau; Frank L. McNamara, Deputy Grand Commander, Milwaukee; John M. Dodd, grand generalissimo, Ashland; Frank M. Veinhold, grand captain general, Milwaukee; George J. Nash, grand senior warden, Eau Claire; Winfield W. Gilman, grand junior warden, Madison; Arthur H. Lord, Grand Prelate, Milwaukee; John Campbell, grand treasurer, Milwaukee; William W. Perry, grand recorder, Milwaukee; William A. Ganfield, grand standard bearer, Waukegan; Francis E. Dewey, grand sword bearer, Milwaukee; William F. Wellmer, grand warden, Chippewa Falls; and William E. Ratsch, grand captain of the guard, Milwaukee.

LEPROSY IS CURABLE, ARMY SURGEON STATES

Manila, P. I. (AP)—Leprosy, when treated early, is curable in fifty to seventy-five per cent of the cases, declares Major A. P. Hitchens, health advisor on Governor General Leonard Wood's staff.

The Philippine Health service is encouraged to believe that within a quarter of a century complete control of the disease in the Islands is possible. Major Hitchens said the Philippines have now reached the peak of the malady and that unless present machinery for its control and treatment breaks down, the disease will recede rapidly.

NOW DRIVE THE CAR

Only this new car, with a Dodge Brothers Special Sedan, or any Dodge Brothers car built recently, can fully appreciate all that Dodge Brothers have accomplished during the past few months.

So swiftly has improvement followed improvement, that today the car, to all intents and purposes, is a different and incomparably finer vehicle.

The announcement of smart new body lines and attractive color combinations first attracted general favor. But since then, improvements even more fundamental have been accomplished mechanically.

Drive the car NOW! Observe its impressive new silence, smoothness and elasticity of performance, and you will then begin to realize just how vital and varied these and other later improvements actually are.

BEAUTY in WINDOWS

Too many people think that windows, when they give any thought to them at all, are nothing but holes in the wall filled with glass. That is why so many houses today lack interest or charm.

The builder with taste thinks differently. He knows that with the proper spacing of the right size and kind of windows, he can make even the plainest, most inexpensive house actually beautiful.

The picture above shows a Curtis window. Note the interesting little panes and the thin muntins that divide them. The styles and rails are delicately molded to give beauty in detail as well as general appearance.

PUBLIC LIBRARY IS INSTITUTION FOR ALL CITIZENS

No Capitalistic Control Is in Evidence in This Educational Work

Anarchists and radical agitators who think that the educational mediums of the country are under capitalistic control are invited to consider the free public library.

A distinctively American institution, the public library since its foundation has been administered in such manner as to give the maximum service to its patrons, and the selection of the books on its shelves has been guided by public demand, limited only by financial resources. The citizen of liberal views, the student of sociology and the working man interested in the advancement of organized labor have always found the public library ready and willing to furnish, as far as it possibly can, books representing all points of view on human problems.

THE ORGANIZED ASSOCIATION
In the month of 1926 a group of 103 librarians under the leadership of Miss L. L. Dewey, of Lake Placid, N. Y., organized the American Library Association. Librarians and library trustees in the United States and Canada are included in the organization, which now has a membership of 8,500 and is preparing for a great international conference and a fiftieth anniversary celebration in Atlantic City and Philadelphia, Oct. 4-9. The extension and development of libraries and the elevation of the profession's standards, through provision of better schools for librarianship, are the primary objects of the association. To assist the individual libraries in selecting their books, the A. L. A. has prepared a catalog of 10,000 books selected from the literature of all times and all countries. These are recommended as a basis for a library collection. The 1926 catalog is the second of its kind, the first having appeared in 1904.

SPECIALISTS IN SELECTION
Out of the millions of books which have been published, how has the library association proceeded in preparing a list of 10,000? By the arbitrary selection of an individual committee or association vote? By no means! Nearly 500 specialists, men and women in every profession and every line of business whose work or study qualifies them for expert opinion, have been called upon to make the selections in the catalog.

In social science there are probably more books dealing with controversy than in any other division of the catalog. The books listed in this division represent the combined opinion of 107 persons. Labor leaders, bank representatives, editors, professors of economics and sociology, research workers in the United States Department of Labor and individuals in many other fields of activity were consulted. The result is a complete refutation of any charge that, because they have received the backing of Carnegie, Rockefeller and other philanthropists, our public libraries endeavor to censor the nation's reading. The American Labor Year Book, the Labor International Year Book, the History of the A. F. of L., and other books of similar nature are included in the catalog. Such subjects as remuneration, housing, child labor, industrial and social insurance are well represented in the compilation.

LABOR'S APPRECIATION
Organized labor's appreciation of the public library is expressed by William Green, president of the A. F. of L., in an editorial published in the American Federationist, May, 1926. He writes:

"The cultural, musical and artistic development of a community is reflected in increased inquiries for information. . . . As we have become accustomed to think of education as a development that parallels creative life we appreciate the service the library can render in helping men and women to deal with the problems and interests of daily life. . . .

"Labor organizations and especially local committees on education throughout the jurisdiction of the A. F. of L. are urged to do their utmost to promote generous appropriations for library purposes."

CLERK ISSUES MORE THAN 23,000 HUNTING LICENSES

More than 2,300 hunting licenses had been issued by County Clerk John E. Hantschel up to noon Thursday. According to Mr. Hantschel this total greatly exceeds the number issued at his time last year. Of those already issued, 250 applicants bought deer tags, which allow them to ship one deer home during the season.

Last year approximately 3,500 licenses were issued but it is expected that the number will be exceeded this year. There is generally a big rush for licenses just before the opening of the rabbit hunting season, according to the county clerk.

INSURANCE HOLDERS WILL BE EDUCATED

The National Association of Insurance Agents, and the National Board of Fire Underwriters believe that every policy holder should be acquainted with the provisions in the policies which he holds and at the convention held in Atlantic City they authorized a national advertising campaign to acquaint policy holders with the need of reading their policies.

It is planned to publish these advertisements in every daily paper in the United States, according to Earl Fisk, who just returned from the convention.

Insurance agencies and associations through out the nation will follow the advertising campaign up with addresses before Associations of Commerce, and service clubs. The Rotary and Kiwanis internationals have already signified their intentions of assisting in arranging these brief talks, Mr. Fisk reports.

Another matter of importance discussed at the meeting was that of eliminating incompetent insurance agents. Walter H. Bennett, counsel for the National association, and Judge Conn, of Ohio, advocated the institution of state examining boards, and the granting of licenses for engaging in the insurance business. The board it is suggested should have power to conduct examinations similar to those now in force for real estate agents, or other professions.

LIBRARY STAFF OF COLLEGE ALMOST NEW

Lawrence college library has an almost entirely new staff this year due to the resignation of three of its members last spring. Miss Ida Farr, head librarian in place of Miss Winifred Fehrenkamp, comes from Youngstown, O., where she was head librarian in the city public library for seven years. Miss Fehrenkamp is now in charge of the Avery library of Architecture at Columbia university in New York.

Miss Ada Young has taken the work of cataloging in the place of Miss Alberta Akeley, and Miss Norma Cass, a graduate of Lawrence college, will be at the desk in place of Miss Ethel King.

FILL RAVINE FOR NEW THOROUGHFARE

Proposed Street Between Washington-st and College-ave to Be Ready Soon

Because of the large amount of rubbish that has been dumped into the ravine between W. Washington-st and W. College-ave, it is expected that the street connecting these two thoroughfares will be completed sooner than expected, according to R. F. Hackworth, street commissioner.

The street will connect Washington-st from a point midway between N. Walnut-st and N. Superior-st to College-ave on the east side of the Wenzel Plumbing company building. The work has been greatly facilitated by dumping rubbish from the Wisconsin Malt and Grain company buildings on N. Superior-st which are being torn down by the Rissman Wrecking company of Chicago. All the broken bricks, plaster and refuse has been hauled to the ravine and the roadway has been filled nearly to the avenue.

MUSIC CLUBS SEEK TO ENDOW M'DOWELL CABIN

Columbus, O.—(P)—Preservation of the log cabin workshop and the last resting place of Edward McDowell, famous composer, in Peterboro, N. J., is to be sought by the National Federation of Music Clubs, "as an heritage of American art."

Mrs. Edgar Stillman Kelley, president of the national federation, has announced a country-wide campaign among school children to obtain the $300,000 endowment fund begun for the purpose two years ago. Presentation of the endowment is planned for the biennial convention in Chicago, April 16 to 23.

The name of every child who contributes is to be read aloud, the officers have announced, "even though it takes more than a full day to do it."

LANDSCAPE WORK IN PARK NEARING FINISHING STAGE

Brook Will Feed Two Artificial Lagoons in Ravine on West Side

Beautifying of Pierce park is rapidly being completed by the Chicago Landscape company. Drainage tile was being laid and water pipes placed to various bunnies throughout the park. More than twenty workmen and ten teams of horses were busy grading the roads that will make a scenic drive through the park. These roads are to be gravel finished and the rough work will probably be completed this fall. The roadway at one place will wind along the side of a hill into a ravine and back on the other side of the ravine up another hill.

In the bottom of the ravine is to be two small artificial lagoons. They will be closed in by dams and will be connected with by a small brook. Footpaths will be built around the lagoon and in a winding course through the park. It is possible that several small rustic bridges, will be constructed over the lagoons. Sidewalks will be started next week. Two comfort stations have been built in the park and are ready to receive the inside fixtures. These will probably be completed within the next two weeks.

Workmen are now building one of the entrances to the park at the east end on W. Prospect-ave. The entrance is to be of solid stone and will consist of two large pillars, a gateway and a small fence on each side of the pillars. Another entrance will be constructed at the west end of the park on W. Prospect-ave and another entrance will be built on S. Mason-st.

will be constructed at the west end of the park on W. Prospect-ave and Rains the past three weeks have hindered the work considerably, but unless there is more heavy rain, it is expected that the rough work will be completed before cold weather sets in. Finishing touches will be made in spring.

Colored Band, Sun., Green-ville.

GIRLS AVAILABLE FOR GENERAL HOUSEWORK

Girls for general housework are now available at Appleton Women's club employment bureau, according to a statement made at the club Monday. Many of these are for full-time work by girls who no longer attend school and others are for part-time work by college girls. Part-time work may be either for room and board or for an hourly service rate, it was said. The demand for help for housework has tended to be greater than the supply for the past few weeks, but now that the harvest is nearly over, girls from farms are applying for positions, the bureau has found. Applications have come in every day the club announced, and many of these are made by experienced girls.

For the ninth consecutive year Buick has won first choice of space at the National Automobile Shows.

This is Leadership! For this honor goes annually to the member of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce with the year's largest volume of business.

Chance plays no part in this award. It is conferred upon the car which has found the most favor among the buyers of America—the car in which they have invested a plurality of their dollars.

It has gone to Buick every year since 1918 because Buick has built better motor cars, and continually put back the savings of increased volume and engineering development into still greater value.

Nine continuous years of leadership! For any other car to equal this would mean retaining continuous leadership until 1936—almost another decade.

The industrial history of America records no more brilliant achievement than these nine successive years of Buick dominance.

BLAME BAD LIQUOR FOR MAN'S DEATH

Body of Henry Smith Is Found Along Roadside Near Iola

Special to Post-Crescent
Waupaca — The body of Henry Smith, 54 years old, whose address is unknown, was found Wednesday afternoon by Walter Grove four miles east of Iola in a patch of blackberry bushes along the side of the road. Death is believed to have been caused by acute alcoholism. He is said to have been in the community only a short time.

It is thought the man died sometime Sunday night. He had called at the Otto Olson farm near Iola Sunday morning, and after shaving his face, had departed. When the body was discovered Wednesday, a bottle of alleged moonshine was found a short distance away. Death is thought to have occurred Sunday night.

He is unmarried. His known survivors are a brother, William of Cranston; and two sisters.

The funeral will be held at 10 o'clock Saturday morning at Iola with the Rev. Lewis of Weyauwega in charge. Interment will be in Union cemetery, Iola.

WETS AND DRY GET

against prohibition. Concerning the founders of the other outstanding Christian creeds, he stated that all were accustomed to drinking, and therefore opposed to prohibition.

TEMPERANCE A CRIME

"Temperance is a Christian virtue," prohibition is a Mohammedan heresy. Prohibition makes temperance a crime," declared Mr. Windle. He compared prohibition with slavery before the Civil war. The supreme court, he pointed out, supported slavery in numerous decisions, including that of Dred Scott case, and made it a crime for any person to give food or drink to an escaped slave. Liberty at that time was not established until the men in blue were victorious over the men in gray. "We do not propose to reestablish liberty by bullets now, but by ballots," Mr. Windle said.

A maverick logician and statistician, Mr. Windle had an answer for every point made by his opponent. He quoted police and other records to prove that the number of cases of drunkenness had increased in the major cities of the United States; that the number of drunken drivers and accidents resulting from this cause have greatly increased; and that arrests for prostitution and other moral crimes had greatly increased from year to year since the advent of prohibition.

Increased prosperity in America is due to only one cause, according to Mr. Windle. That cause is the World war. Organized labor has succeeded in keeping wages high, in spite of all pressure to reduce them, and thus is responsible for the prosperity of the American workman.

HAVE SOBER COPS NOW

Dr. MacInnis countered Mr. Windle's statistics on increased arrests by saying that the caliber of the average policeman has increased, and that where members of the police departments of many cities were often known for drunkenness before prohibition, most cities now have efficient and dependable officers.

The Rev. Mr. MacInnis protested that his opponent was "digging up corpses covered by centuries of dust" to prove his point that prohibition is not a Christian doctrine, and stated that all of the major Christian denominations have given the prohibition amendment their unqualified approval.

"If prohibition is wrong in principle, and contrary to Christian doctrine, as I maintain it is, I would oppose it, though every workingman in America lived in a palace," Mr. Windle declared at the opening of his talk. Dr. MacInnis stated shortly after that if it were possible to assure temperance for every man, without prohibition, he would not be inclined to favor prohibition.

LEGAL NOTICES

STATE OF WISCONSIN, County Court, Outagamie County.

Wriston Tells Teachers What
Lawrence Asks of High Schools

Oshkosh—(P)—The college wants of the high school students who have been "coherently trained, students trained to industry, and trained to honesty," President Henry Wriston of Lawrence, college, told teachers attending the annual convention of the Northeastern Wisconsin Teachers association here Friday night.

"What the College Expects of the High School" was the title of his address.

"More than anything else, however," Dr. Wriston said, "we want the truth about the students as they come to us. We want not merely a certified copy of courses passed. That tells us very little. Neither do we want a mere routine of indorsement of character. That tells us nothing of his failures as well as passes, of his disciplinary difficulties, of his mental and moral habits, of his physical attributes. Our intelligent handling of the student requires all such information."

College should produce a person with a trained mind, with social adaptability, with force of character, "ready to turn his hand to a whole range of different activities," he concluded. "There is need for some people with

Appointment of Chester Allen, director of Appleton district, University of Wisconsin Extension division, as Director of Field Organization for the entire state, was announced this week by the university.

The position recently was created by the board of regents of the University of Wisconsin and marks the first step in a comprehensive program of building a field organization to place the services of the university more completely at the disposal of all people in the state. It was announced.

The entire field force is now being reorganized and the locations of the districts are being changed in accordance with this plan.

Mr. Allen's appointment, upon the recommendation of Dean Chester D. Snell of the University Extension division, comes as a result of his long service with the university, and particularly of his effective work in building up the work of the extension in the Appleton.

His university activity began in 1910 as field organizer. He has worked in all districts in the state. Shortly before the war he was called to Madison as assistant to the dean and office manager of University Extension.

Following the war he was made district representative of the Oshkosh district which position he held for about five years. The headquarters of this district were changed to Appleton on Jan. 1, 1926, and he was transferred to Appleton at that time.

During the war Mr. Allen was an infantry officer with the Fifth United States regulars, and later became an intelligence officer. With the opening of the American Expeditionary Force University at Reims, France, he was made assistant director of the College of Engineering.

Mr. Allen's wide experience will now be available to the people of the entire state in making the greatest use of the facilities of the university, according to Dean Snell.

Mr. Allen's successor here has not yet been announced.

Pages That Interest All

Every newspaper reader has his favorite page.

You know the man who turns immediately to the sports section to see the outcome of the game in which he is interested.

You know the woman who hastily scans the society news and then peruses the magazine section. You know the investor who can hardly wait to see if a certain stock has risen or fallen.

But there is one part of the paper where they can all meet on common ground—the classified section.

There the sportsman, the woman and the investor will find many items of interest to them—interesting in the fact that they mean a saving of time, trouble and money.

It will pay YOU to become a consistent reader of The Post-Crescent's classified section.

Leo Mercy Taken into Court for Abandoning Automobile at Kaukauna

Leo Mercy, 26, of Escanaba, was taken before Judge Theodore Berg at Kaukauna court Saturday morning on charge of stealing a car belonging to Alvin Chelma of Kimberly. Mercy had been employed by the C. H. Meyer Construction company on a job at Kimberly. He pleaded not guilty and the hearing was set for 9 o'clock next Monday morning. Bail was fixed at $500.

Mercy, it is alleged, took the car with the intention of returning to Escanaba but only got as far as Kaukauna when he broke down and decided to abandon the car and return to Kimberly. The gas tank was nearly empty when he took the car and when the car was found at Kaukauna the gas tank was nearly half full, according to Chelma, the owner. Mercy was arrested Saturday by Constable Frank Van Lieshout of Kimberly. He said he thought the car belonged to a friend that he knew and intended to go for a little ride.

When the car broke down he decided to go back to Kimberly and tell his friend and then found that it wasn't his friend's car after all. He thought he would say nothing about the occurrence after he found that he had not taken his friend's car, he said.

HIGH SCHOOL JUNIORS NOMINATE OFFICERS

Nominations for class officers were made at a meeting of the junior class of Appleton high school Thursday afternoon and final elections will be held on Monday. Thirteen candidates were selected.

Presidential nominations included: Miss Gertrude Passwender, Carlton Roth, Robert Roemer, Aloysius Ganga and Carl Miller. Candidates for vice president will be Lynn Handorside, Clement Steidl, and Miss Sybille Frank for secretary and treasurer. Robert Rechner, Miss Janet Carnross, and Byron Bowler and for cheer leader, Charles Perrenboom and Carl Babcock.

COP RUNS SPEEDER ON FRESH CONCRETE

Stevens Point, Wis.—A merry chase which holds Wilson, Lambert led Archie Durand, local speed cop, at a 70 miles an hour clip out past the city limits landed both Wilson and Durand in a fresh batch of concrete on new Highway 18.

Five sections of concrete, each 47 feet in length were damaged. The cost of replacement is estimated at $6,000 by the contractor. A wrecker sent out to get Wilson's car also drove on the fresh cement.

Neither the state nor Portage county will assume liability and the question of legal responsibility must be fought out between the contractor and the motorists. Wilson claims there was no barrier on one side of the road. The state highway department will recommend replacement of the concrete.

MUNICIPAL UTILITIES EARN $23,000 PROFIT

Sturgeon Bay—The municipally owned utilities here under the management of J. E. Johnson, have a net earning of $23,000 for the year just closed.

This earning was in addition to several thousand dollars paid for water and light extensions. A portion of the surplus earnings paid off bonded indebtedness and more than $15,000 was turned into the city treasury as a return on the municipal investment.

Besides supplying electricity for light and power the plant supplies water and heat to the central business district. The commission also has charge of the toll bridge. Due to the increased earnings a reduction in electric light rates will be made, which is expected to become effective within a short time.

WRECK AT MADISON BLOCKS TWO RAILROADS

Madison—Traffic south of the city on both the Northwestern and Milwaukee roads was stopped for several hours and E. E. Smoot, Milwaukee, a freight conductor, was injured when three cars of a Milwaukee road freight train jumped the tracks on a trestle which crosses Lake Monona and intersects another trestle used by the Northwestern road. Members of the Kansas State football team were passengers on a train which was stalled south of South Madison by the wreck and were brought into the city by automobile.

LEAGUE WILL ISSUE BUDGET PAMPHLETS

A pamphlet dealing with budget making will be prepared by the Wisconsin League of Municipalities for distribution among cities of the state. Louis G. Corbett, general secretary, Appleton Chamber of Commerce, reported upon his return from the State Conference of Social Work conducted the first three days this week at Milwaukee. Some of the leading budget experts of the middle west were present at the conference and discussed some of the principal errors many cities make in preparing their budgets for the ensuing year, according to Mr. Corbett. Besides Mr. Corbett, Prof. Louis A. Berthelette of Lawrence college, Minn. and Mr. T. E. O'Brien and Fred Brayton attended from Appleton.

A monthly meeting of the directors of the better club will be held Monday night at the better club home. It is this business of the club which will be discussed. J. J. D. Koffend, Jr., president, announced.

300 BOYS TAKE PART IN TREASURE HUNT

Approximately 300 boys took part on the treasure hunt conducted by the Y. M. C. A. Saturday morning at Jones park. Fifty of the boys found some exciting them to a swim in the association pool while the ten more will receive baseballs autographed by Walter Johnson, famous pitcher of the Washington Senators. The balls have not arrived from Washington but the boys can get them as soon as they come. They were sent a few weeks ago.

80 WAR VETERANS ATTEND REUNION

Neenah Man Elected President at Annual Reunion of Two Regiments

Approximately 80 Civil war veterans and members of Womens Relief corps from Hortonville, Appleton, Oshkosh, Neenah, Menasha, Kaukauna, New London and Ogdensburg attended the annual reunion of the Co. D, Twenty-first Wisconsin Infantry and Co. I, Thirtieth-second Wisconsin Infantry which was held Friday at Odd Fellow hall.

The reunion opened at 10:30 Friday morning with a business meeting at which new officers were elected. Murray McCullen of Neenah presided at the meeting in the absence of J. D. Hancock, local president, who was ill. Miss Hagen of Hortonville, program secretary and treasurer, read minutes of the last meeting. Newly elected officers were: President, Thad Sherrin of Neenah; vice president, E. J. Wilcox of Appleton; secretary and treasurer, Miss Hagen of Hortonville. Mrs. Beach and Dennis Meldum told about the Civil war and Mrs. L. A. Carroll of Hortonville told about visiting several battlefields and other historical places this summer.

Members of the Womens Relief corps served a dinner to visiting veterans and corps women at noon in Odd Fellow hall. After the dinner Mayor Albert C. Rine gave the address of welcome and Mrs. Kate Bigford of Oshkosh gave the response. The Rev. Virgil B. Scott gave the invocation. "The Star Spangled Banner" was sung by Mrs. Mary Dolbow and the Rev. V. B. Scott delivered an address.

Resolutions of condolence on the death of Corrado Rapp and Douglas, both of Hortonville which took place within the past year were read by Mrs. Carroll and was followed by community singing lead by Mrs. Dougherty. William Priest is the only local surviving member of the Battle of Ferryville, it was said. The program closed with the singing of "America" by the entire assembly. The meeting next year will be held at Neenah.

Mrs. Ida Hench, Mrs. Viola Fox and Mrs. Emma Brown were members of the reception committee and Mrs. Anna Schneller was chairman of the kitchen committee.

LITTLE CHUTE MAN WANTS TO BE BANKRUPT

A petition for voluntary bankruptcy was filed with C. E. Behnke, referee in bankruptcy, Saturday morning by Ernest Kolberg, Little Chute. Mr. Kolberg listed his liabilities at $1,504.54 and his assets at $1,503, of which he claimed $1,000 as exempt. The first meeting of creditors will be held Tuesday, Oct. 19, at Mr. Behnke's office.

WRISTON TALKS TO WOMEN AT NEENAH

Dr. Henry M. Wriston, president of Lawrence college, will speak on The American College at a meeting of the League of Women Voters at the First Presbyterian church at Neenah Tuesday evening. The talk will be similar to that given by the president at the conference at the Methodist Episcopal church of Wisconsin in Appleton in September.

OFFICERS OF SHOE DEALERS MEET HERE

A meeting of the officers of the Wisconsin Shoe Dealers association will be held at the Conway hotel Monday noon, according to an announcement by J. B. Langenberg, secretary of the association. The place for the next state convention to be held in August will be decided by the officers. The final report of the 1926 convention at Merrill will be submitted by the Merrill committee.

WISCONSIN WEATHER
Mostly cloudy tonight and Sunday, probably showers in east and south portion; not much change in temperature.

WEATHER CONDITIONS
High pressure with generally fair weather covers the eastern states this morning. Another high pressure area is reported from the northern plain states, with generally fair and cool weather. A slight trough of low pressure lies between the two, with cloudy and unsettled weather and partial rains. This "low" may cause occasionally unsettled weather to continue in this section as the center of activity in the southwest develops. Though the "low" over the northern plain may spread some of its influence to this section.

print papers in multiples of two pages up to twelve pages after which it becomes necessary to increase the multiples to four pages. For example it is not possible to print a 14-page, 18-page or 22-page paper on any other type of press limited to 24 pages.

This elasticity of the Duplex press is due to its tubular type rolls. Other presses print from semi-cylindrical rolls while the Duplex prints from tubular rolls. The press is constructed in six units and any unit may be permitted to remain idle while the rest are operating. Either two or four pages may be printed on any unit.

Six rolls of paper are required to be on the press to print a 24-page paper. Only five rolls are required when 20 pages are being printed and a smaller number for fewer pages.

ONE-SECTION PAPER
The paper, up to 24 pages, is printed in one section, wherein it differs from other 24-page presses which of necessity must print the paper in two sections if it contains more than 12 pages. The speed of production is the same for all size of papers, whereas on other 24 page presses the production is decreased by half when the paper contains more than 12 pages. That is to say a press with a rated capacity of 30,000 12-page papers an hour will print only 15,000 16-page papers an hour.

Almost four weeks were required to set up the press from the time it arrived in Appleton. Two experienced erectors with from two to a half-dozen assistants, set up the machine. Inasmuch as some of the parts weighed in excess of 1½ tons it was necessary to set up a crane track to move the heavy pieces. The entire press weighs in the neighborhood of 63,000 pounds. It is set on a specially constructed concrete base so it cannot vibrate.

LONGER PAGE
The new press, printing a page one inch longer than the former machine, required all new stereotyping equipment and apparatus for using dry mats was installed. Hitherto the plates were cast from "wet" mats, that is to say they were wet when they were rolled through the matrix roller and the type pressed into the paper mat. This mat then was placed in a steam table for seven or eight minutes and the moisture thoroughly baked out before it was placed in the casting box and hot metal pumped on it. Dry mats require no extensive baking and the time required to dry out the mats under the former process is saved. This makes it possible to set back the news "deadline" and still get to press

ELECTRIC CONTROL
An interesting feature of the new installation is the electric control. Push buttons are located in strategic spots all over the press so it can be controlled by pressmen no matter where they are working. The huge machine traveling at a speed of 30,000 papers an hour can be stopped in two seconds by pressing the emergency button. There is scarcely a limit to the number of speeds it can be operated, from an exceedingly slow jog to a terrific rate.

In addition to greater speed of production the new press assures elasticity which makes it possible to offer daily features that could not be given the readers with the other press. Inasmuch as the size of the paper can be increased two pages, as compared with four with the other press, jumps from one size paper to a larger size can be made with comparative ease and there will be no crowding out of features by news or other important matter as was the case very often heretofore.

SHALE DUST IS USED TO PREVENT BLASTS

Engineer Wins Fame for Work in Preventing Coal Mine Explosions

West Frankfort, Ill.—(AP)—Shale dust, effectively placed, has won John E. Jones, mine safety engineer, an international reputation as the "father of rock-dusting." Through his work of preventing disastrous mine explosions, he has become familiarly known to miners as "Rock Dust Johnny Jones."

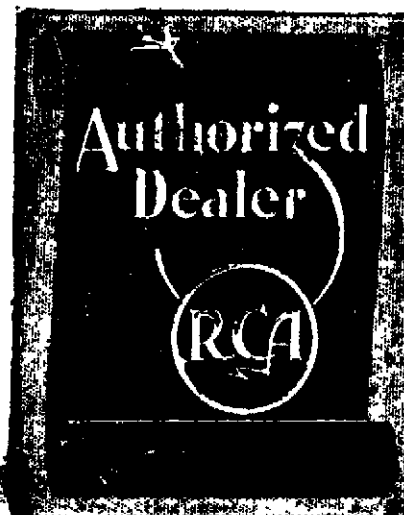

While shale dust in itself is unromantic and colorless in appearance, its use in coal mines to prevent explosions of coal dust is acknowledged by mine safety experts to be the means of saving the lives of hundreds of miners each year.

Shale dust correctly placed on ledges, the floor and dusted on the walls of mine passages has been found effective in stopping the onrush of flame to other parts of the mine. The dust is blown into suspension and becomes a barrier to the flame, thus confining the explosion to a relatively small area.

While in the employ of the state department of mines, Mr. Jones inspected mines in the bituminous fields of Southern Illinois where both gas and coal dust explosions had been frequent. He began the study of rock-dusting and later took a position with the Old Ben Coal Corporation as safety engineer. He recommended the adoption of a rock-dusting system which was accepted and the system installed under his direction in 1917. Three years later the system came to the attention of safety workers and engineers. Since then rock-dusting has become general throughout the coal regions of the United States and many foreign countries.

MANY NEW FEATURES IN IMPROVED POST-CRESCENT

SEEK TO APPEAL TO ALL VARIETIES OF READER TASTES

Features Impossible With Old Press Will Be Printed Daily in Larger Paper

Installation of a new Duplex high speed printing press and additional typesetting machinery, with other equipment, is making possible a larger and more interesting Post-Crescent. Not only is it possible to increase the volume of news printed every day but readers now are given features which could not be used with the old equipment. Readers of this paper no doubt have noted these improvements but it is not amiss to call particular attention to them.

A page devoted to women and their particular interests will be a daily feature of The Post-Crescent. Hereafter a woman's page was printed whenever conditions permitted but often it was necessary to omit it because all the available space was taken up by "spot" news and advertising. A new minimum space arrangement for news and features, however, makes provision of a daily page for women.

FULL OF SUGGESTIONS
This page is filled with suggestions of value to all women. Among the features is a daily fashion service by which women may purchase patterns of dress designs printed on the page. These gowns are designed in New York by men and women who are experts in their profession and the patterns are guaranteed to be accurate. To secure the pattern it is merely necessary to send your order, with 15 cents to "Margot," care of The Post-Crescent and the patterns will be sent as soon as possible. A few days should be allowed for delivery, however.

The page contains daily menus and suggestions for preparing interesting dishes, there are hints and suggestions for beautifying the home, a serial story and other items that will appeal to feminine readers. And beginning Monday a daily feature of especial interest to children will be printed on the page.

Readers for the last week have been getting laughs galore from "The Fun Shop," an entertaining feature which has been added to The Post-Crescent's page of comic and humor. The jokes, anecdotes and stories are the pick of the country and the popularity of this feature is proved by the fact that it is used by many of the largest papers in the United States. Readers are invited to contribute for which they will be adequately paid. If you haven't been reading the Fun Shop you have been missing considerable good fun.

The editorial page has been enlivened by the addition of several interesting features. "Adventures in the Library" by Arnold Mulder, will be continued for the booklover, alternating three times a week with an interesting letter written by Frederic J. Haskins. In addition there is a daily column of New York gossip, written in raucy fashion, under the heading "See-sawing on Broadway." Readers will find this column intensely interesting. Then there is a feature for nature lovers called "Queer Quirks of Nature," describing unusual birds, beasts and formation found in nature. The editorial page also will be the home of that ever popular feature by Mr. Haskins, "Answers to Questions." Those who like poetry in its highest form will enjoy reading Edward Guest's daily poem under the heading "Just Folks." Like the Fun Shop, Guest's poems are printed

TWO WORKROOMS OF THE POST-CRESCENT

Since the first newspaper was taken off a press it has been a matter of dispute—generally friendly, sometimes bitter—whether the editorial or advertising departments are of the greater value to the newspaper. The advertising men argue that if they weren't on the job to sell advertising space there would be no income to pay the reporters and the reporters retort that if they didn't provide the news there wouldn't be any readers to buy the papers which contain the daily in a largest and most influential newspapers in the United States. Following the custom established many months ago of printing the best serial stories available, The Post-advertising, which their rivals sell, and so on around the circle. Be that as it may, for once the editorial department has a chance to get before the public and in the picture above you see it in all its glory.

The editorial rooms of The Post-Crescent are located on the second floor of the Post-bldg and are as well equipped as in any newspaper of its size or a good deal larger. Local news in Appleton is gathered by seven reporters and there are three reporters in Kaukauna, Neenah and Men-asha. The Post-Crescent also is served by about 40 correspondents in other cities and towns outside of Appleton. The lower picture is a view of the typesetting battery, showing six of the ten machines which set the news and advertising type which appears in The Post-Crescent. Each machine is capable of setting from eight to ten columns of news matter each day. Additional type for the paper is provided by two monotype machines which are not shown in the above photograph.

sufficient length to make them interesting and there are hundreds of readers who turn first of all to the serial story when the paper reaches their homes. Saint and Sinner, while

THINK LOTS IF YOU WOULD LIVE LONG TIME

Louisville—(P)—Newspapermen particularly should enjoy long, healthful lives, if Dr. C. J. Gaddis of Chicago, secretary of the American Osteopathic Association, is right.

He believes thinking about a new specific subject fifteen minutes a day is the exercise needed to bring health and longevity.

At the national convention now in session, he also recommended fifteen minutes' strenuous physical exercise and said a little upside-down exercise would help a lot of folks, even if taken in bed.

"Fifteen minutes a day will do it," he said. "Of course, you ought to take more, but if you will consistently and persistently exercise fifteen minutes every day, it will mean not only better health and longer life. But you must do a good job of it—exercise from toes to scalp."

"Another thing that makes for longevity is honest-to-goodness thinking on some new specific subject fifteen minutes every day. Try it out and see what will happen."

A different type story than has been printed in The Post-Crescent for some months, is of the same high standard.

Another improvement that will be noted by our readers and appreciated especially by those living outside of Appleton is the grouping of news from nearby towns and cities according to geographical location. News from New London, Waupaca, Clintonville, Hortonville, Fremont, Dala and other nearby towns is grouped on one page; Kaukauna, Kimberly, Little Chute, Chilton, Seymour news, with that of other towns and cities in the eastern half of Outagamie-co and in Calumet-co is on still another page while a third is devoted to news from Menasha and Neenah.

This grouping makes it easier to find the news from the community in which the reader is particularly interested and it groups all the news from one section of the county.

Other improvements, including a change in head letter, have been made and others will continue to be made as they are deemed necessary or advisable. The aim of the publishers and of the staff is to produce a paper in Appleton that will not suffer comparison with papers printed in cities many times as large.

EGYPTIAN WOMEN'S DICTATOR

Cleopatra never gained the fame with her people that Madame Charbonnet Pacha has won with her modernistic campaigns. She has brought about the legal equality of Egyptian women, put over a movement to discard the veil and designed the veil culture, which she is wearing and which now is the national head-dress of Egypt. She is coming to America soon to give a series of lectures on the Feminist Movement in the Orient.

NOT WHAT WE EAT BUT WHAT WE DIGEST, COUNTS

London—(P)—Evelyn Laye, one of London's best-known stage beauties says "It is not what we eat that does us harm, but what we do not digest." "It doesn't take a deep scientific knowledge of foods to find out what is good for me. Most of us know from experience what is bad for us. I am not a food faddist. But I haven't much respect for women who eat fried, fat food and heavy sweets and then complain because their complexions and figures are not good."

MANY VISITORS ATTEND CELEBRATION AT MUSEUM

Paris—(P)—Visitors to the Carnavalet Museum have been numerous owing to the celebration of Madame de Sevigny's ter-centenary. The Museum was the mansion where the famous letter writer lived when in Paris. Not a few have been struck with the simplicity of a linen chemise shown in one of the glass cases. It is high in the neck, and has short sleeves, neatly hemmed. The garment is only what a present day woman would wear if she were free from any vestige of coquetry.

MOVIE FANS SHOW AMBITIONS TO BE FILM DIRECTORS

Studio, Mail Indicates Desires of American Movie-goers

Hollywood—(P)—The pulse of a portion of America's movie audience is now throbbing for directors, not the film stars.

Ambitions have changed, particularly the masculine ones, if Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "fan" mail is any criterion. Until a short time ago most queries in the mass of its studio mail were: "How can I become a picture player?" What they want to know now is: "How can I become a movie director?"

"BEAUTY NOT MANDATORY"
Just what has brought about the change studio officials are unable to say. Consensus of opinion is, however, that the men, young and not so young, who yearn for a film career with its subsequent reward, feel that less natural physical qualifications are necessary to success as a director.

It also is felt that directors are getting more credit for fine pictures, as well as for outstanding performances by members of the cast. This has resulted in greater salaries.

Questions usually asked by the writers are what experience best equips a director, how must he learn his trade, and where must he serve his apprenticeship.

MOST BEGIN AS ACTORS
On the M-G-M lot it was found that a large percentage of their directors learned to tell others how to act by having done it themselves.

Fred Niblo began his career in a stock company, where he played character roles. He also managed and acted in a company which he took to Australia on tour.

King Vidor began his career by financing, directing and acting in comedies in Texas.

King Baggot was a matinee idol who starred in pictures. Hobart Henley has had a varied stage and screen experience, the former under the management of Belasco and Frohman.

Angling associations in England stock their fishing waters yearly with millions of baby trout.

CINEMA STARS HAD HARD AND ROUGH ROAD TO FORTUNE

Actors Remember When $5 a Day Was Considered Good Salary

Hollywood, Calif.—Shiny serge suits have been supplanted by arrays of English-tailored garments. Flossy fur imitations have given way to saffles. Instead of wall bedrooms, there are fine homes. Trips to Europe, once confined to dreams, now receive no more thought than visits to Florida. Such has been life to many of the movie stars who began in the age of one-reel thrillers when five dollars a day was considered a fat salary.

To the millions that throng the picture houses, this might seem as if a fairy had waved her wand. But to the players the change has been written in weeks, months and years of toil, repaid by rapid progress of a new industry.

After a career on the stage, which began at the age of five and led to Delasco productions, Mary Pickford entered motion pictures as an extra under David Wark Griffith. From five dollars a day, she advanced until in 1916, the Mary Pickford Film Corporation was organized. The star had a drawing account of $10,000 a week, with fifty per cent of the profits—a remuneration representing the highest amount ever paid a woman in pictures of any other profession at the time.

Today, she is one of the leading figures in the United Artists Corporation and is receiving a much larger income.

The other member of the family, Douglas Fairbanks, however, has never known a poor salary in the movies. He came in at the time when producers were offering high pay to induce stage stars to appear on the screen. This little era was marked by the fact that Fairbanks and William Hart were among the very few to remain with pictures.

Lon Chaney remembers a time when the Klieg light had not even been thought of as a possibility. In those days, the whole staff would drive into the country and usually return with one complete episode to a serial.

In addition to his screen work, Chaney at present finds much of his time taken by business interests. Numerous other stars have followed the industry since the days of its infancy. Virtually all the big producers of the present day—Lasky, the Goldwyns, Laemmle Fox and several others—have developed companies which had their origin in the first days of the movies.

To the veterans, however, advancement to stardom does not seem as difficult as formerly.

As an actress on the European stage, Pola Negri lived in poverty. Famous Players-Lasky brought her to America, wealth and fame, all within a few years.

Betty Bronson had appeared in small roles in but two or three pictures before Herbert Brenon brought her to the bright lights as the star of "Peter Pan" and "A Kiss for Cinderella."

Samuel Goldwyn was in Paris when he met Lois Doris Moran, a sixteen-year old Pittsburgh girl working as an extra in French films. A few months and she had attained recognition through her work in "Stella Dallas."

While on the same trip, Goldwyn met Vilma Banky in Budapest. She came to America and appeared with Ronald Colman in "The Dark Angel." Since then, she has had several leading parts.

PARIS NEWSPAPERS COPY AMERICAN NEWS

London—(AP)—American visitors to London are puzzled frequently at a time by reading the headlines in the British papers which are topped something like this: "U. S. Mail Train Robbed" and as they read further it is noted that the story is under a Paris cable line. This is due to the fact that several papers here pick up American news from the American newspapers published in the French capital.

Here is an example:

"Paris, Sunday, August 15.

"There bandits boarded the Omaha-Portland mail train near Rawlins, Wyoming, United States, on Saturday, compelled the driver to run the train at a snail's pace, bound and gagged four mail clerks, and escaped with twelve sacks of registered letters and parcels."

The story goes on to say that the value of the stolen goods is not yet known, says the New York Herald, (Paris edition), which gives the reader an idea of the source of this particular item.

DOGS REPLACING HUMAN AFFECTION TAXED LESS

Berlin—(AP)—Recognizing with some limitations that modern mother love is often showered upon puppies instead of bolder, the board of aldermen has reduced by 75 per cent the tax on those dogs "which in the hearts of their keepers supplant the affection that under normal circumstances would be lavished on human beings."

Pups owned by spinsters or by childless couples over 50 years of age are to be taxed $4 a year. Other, less useful hounds are to be assessed $15.

But the new ordinance says, one dog is enough for petting purposes. For a second pet the owner must pay the virtually prohibitive tax of $20 a year, for a third $45 and each additional $50.

CUT THIS OUT—IT IS WORTH MONEY

These wonderful remedies have helped millions of people. Send for them. Sold everywhere.

ANOTHER LAWSUIT FACES JACK

Just as though Mr. William Harrison Dempsey hadn't had enough trouble recently, Mrs. M. J. La Roche, right, wife of a Philadelphia business man, has filed suit against the ex-champion for $35,000. She claims that as Dempsey was leaving the ring at the Sesqui-centennial he cleared his path with a blow to her jaw. Governor Pinchot, of whose party Mrs. La Roche was a member, is said to be ready to take the stand in her behalf. "Oh, yes, the decoration at the left is Mabel, Mrs. La Roche's daughter."

ELECTRIC SHOVELS USED IN DIGGING FOSSILS

Cleveland—(AP)—The Cleveland Museum of Natural History is digging prehistoric records out of the earth with an electric shovel here.

Since May 13, Prof. Jesse E. Hyde, curator of geology, and Peter A. Bunge, collector and preparator, have supervised the operations of the efficient shovel out of whose maw comes beautifully preserved fishes, sharks of the primitive Cladodus type, and other fossils and mementoes of important episodes in the Devonian history.

The excavations will continue all summer. They are being made at Big Creek and West 128th St., which soon will be made inaccessible for explorations by the growth of the city.

The fossils are encased in smooth, almond-shaped masses of rock three to five feet across, called concretions. They are harder than the shale, through which they are scattered like raisins in a cake.

A twelve-foot tree trunk was found, which had become water-logged, imbedded in the mud of Ohio's ancient sea, flattened and turned to a film of coal, one-fourth inch thick.

GERMAN POLICE FORBID TAXICAB TRAPPINGS

Berlin—(AP)—Wives and sweethearts of taxicab drivers, who some time ago painstakingly decorated their cab interiors with colored drapes, artificial flowers and even parchment shaded top lights, are sadly disappointed. The police have ordered that the hangings and trappings must go. They say the

COLLEGE STUDENTS ATTRACTED TO MOVIES

Motion Picture Class Play May Soon Replace Stage, Says Director

Hollywood—(AP)—The shadow of the silver screen is hovering over the stage of the time-honored college class play.

Allan Dwan, Paramount producer-director and who once was an instructor in the Boston Institute of Technology, believes that complete motion picture dramas instead of stage plays soon will be presented by college classes.

"Students will derive all the good of stage dramatics with the added advantages of screen technique," he said.

"We already have letters from men and women prominent in college theatrical work, asking suggestions for creating screen courses."

"Once screen acting is established as a study, the step transforming the college play from the stage to the screen would be brief. Then many potential stars whose careers as artists now end with the annual class play would continue in motion pictures."

Dwan also carries his vision to the day when "producers" and directors will haunt college picture plays to find new talent."

LOUVAIN LIBRARY FUND HIT BY DEPRECIATION

Louvain—(AP)—Belgium's financial difficulties have swallowed up, at least temporarily, much of the million dollars worth of Belgian bonds presented by Americans to Belgium for rebuilding the famous library destroyed by the Germans in 1914.

Thus the funds contributed by Americans to Louvain have lost much of their original value through Europe's financial crisis and the rebuilding of the Louvain library may be retarded by many years.

Representatives here of the Foundation Company of New York, under contract to construct the library expect work to stop for lack of funds in the fall, when the foundations and the stack rooms will be completed.

American Is World's Safest Flyer

SAN DIEGO, Calif.—Meet the world's safest aviator—Captain H. D. Campbell of the United States marine flying corps.

He has flown 2,500 hours—probably 250,000 miles—since he became an aviator in 1921, with a perfect record of safe flights and landings. In the last year he has been in the air 840 hours without a crack-up.

Captain Campbell recently won the Herbert Schiff memorial trophy for his excellence as a safe pilot. Now he's preparing to fly to Washington, where President Coolidge will hand him the trophy.

A VERMONT

The flyer will accept the award from the president with keen appreciation of the honor, for both hail from Vermont.

By his remarkable record, Captain Campbell becomes known as the safest aviator in the world. And, strangely enough, on the very day he learned that he was awarded the trophy, he nearly marred his record by a forced landing in the mountains east of here.

Captain Campbell, with a party of other marine aviators, was cruising about. Suddenly his motor slowed, and continued to turn more slowly, until he floated near the mountain. Just as he was about to "crack," the motor suddenly took life, and all was well. A carburetor float had stuck, and became free just in time to save ship and pilot.

RECORD UNRIVALED

The record that Captain Campbell made during the last year is a world's mark, for no airman in the service of any other nation has as yet so many hours in the air without a crash to his credit.

The marine flyer first entered aviation as a student at Pensacola, Fla., in 1921, and a year later was an instructor in aviation at various marine bases.

Previously he had served with the famous marine second division in the Verdun trenches, at Belleau Wood, and in nearly all other major offensives after the United States entered the war.

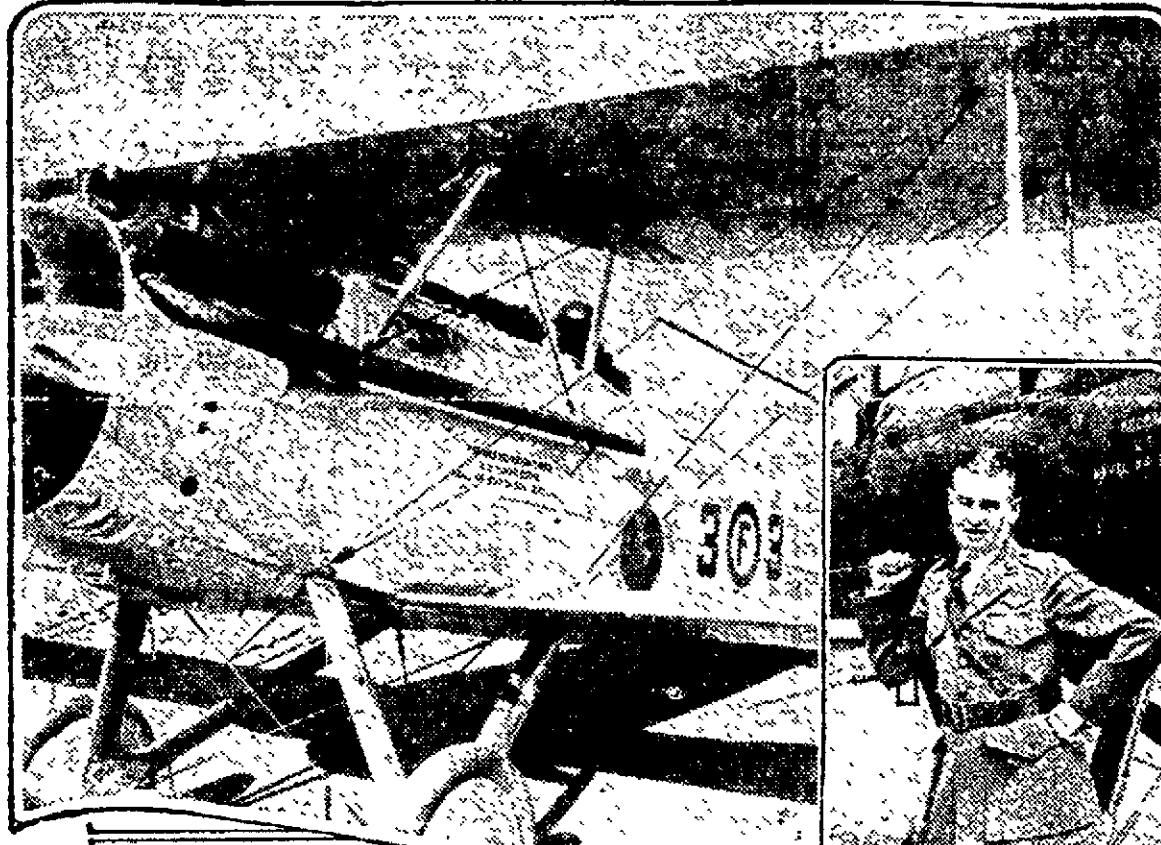

Captain Campbell was the first to organize an air mail service from Santa Barbara after the 1925 earthquake.

EXPERT GUNNER

In addition to winning the safety trophy, he has been highly commended by the secretary of the navy for making the highest free machine gun score from a field of 460 contestants. He made 93 hits out of a possible 97 in nine seconds at 90 miles an hour!

Later he made a perfect bombing record when he scored four direct hits out of four bombs dropped 4,000 feet. During the recent aviation meet at Denver, marine air forces under Captain Campbell's command received prizes for the best formation flying and landing.

IRISH FOX HUNTING IS POPULAR UNDER NEW LAW

Dublin—(AP)—Fox hunting in Ireland has been unaffected by the change in Irish government.

The transfer of the land to the ownership of the farmers has not interfered with the sport, and the relations between the people and the members of the hunts which use their lands is more cordial than while landlordism existed. Each county has its hunt club, and the office of master of foxhounds is much coveted.

The College of Cardinals, when complete, is made up of seventy members.

FORMER OPERA STAR TEACHES AT OWN STUDIO

Mme. Marcella Sembrich Has Taught Many Important Operatic Singers

New York. —(P)—Opera still holds for Mme. Marcella Sembrich the same lure it had when, as one of the brilliant coloratura sopranos she was receiving the world's enthusiastic plaudits.

Her farewell performance at the Metropolitan Opera House, where she sang for twenty-five years, was in 1903. But instead of retiring to a life of leisure, after making final appearances in Europe's principal cities, she returned to New York and opened her studio.

TEACHES A FEW EACH YEAR

Out of the hundreds that come to her for training she selects a few each year and works with them. Alma Gluck, now the wife of Zimbalist, the violinist, and Dusolina Giannini, the young American girl, are listed among her most successful students.

Mme. Sembrich's last performance at the Metropolitan was the scene of a remarkable demonstration. A crowded house and fellow artists heaped flowers and gifts before her.

EMBRACED CARUSO AT FAREWELL

Caruso, who had made his American debut in "Rigoletto" with Mme. Sembrich opposite him, kissed her hand and she threw her arms around his neck. His gift was a silver loving cup.

Several days later, as the diva was about to sail, a messenger handed Mme. Sembrich a package which she found contained a diamond studded watch and fob, a gift from Mrs. George J. Gould.

Asked why she left the operatic stage at the zenith of her success, the singer said:

"But is better that I leave now, when everyone is asking why, than to leave later when my ability might be less."

"WARMED" AT TENOR'S VOICE

"Well do I recall his debut. He was then a plished artist and his voice was the same as when he sang in later years was to make him famous—then was more the lyric than the heroic tenor."

"I never at any time, when singing with Caruso, entertained the slightest doubt as to perfect cooperation on my part. His voice was unique. I was impressed the first time I heard it, with its warmth, its body. And then I knew how to manage it. Oh, how he could manage it!"

"There were times when he was suffering from a cold, when he would say to me: 'Unless this cold improves we had better not try the high notes tonight, but if I should feel equal to them I will give you the signal. A pressure of the hand will let you know I am feeling fit.'"

And then at the critical moment would come that pressure, his voice rising and soaring over the audience in those trying measures.

The daughter of a musician, Kar-

This chubby youngster is the prettiest Mormon baby in Ogden, Utah. He is Grant Prye Wilson, six months old, the son of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Wilson of Ogden, and he won his title at a recent Mormon baby show there.

HISTORIC MANSION OF SOUTH TO BE PRESERVED

Bradenton, Fla.—(P)—The historic mansion where Judah Philip Benjamin, secretary of the Confederacy, took refuge during the Civil war, is to be preserved as a memorial by the Daughters of the Confederacy.

Benjamin, when General Robert E. Lee surrendered, hid in a secret chamber in the rear of a large fireplace. It was directly from this home that Benjamin finally fled to England, to escape the hardships of reconstruction days.

Immer Kochanski, Mme. Sembrich was playing the violin and piano at the age of four. At twelve she was playing in public to aid her family. She then studied under Stengel, whom she later married. After teaching her all he knew, the professor took his student to Vienna to complete her work under Liszt.

There it was discovered she had a fine voice and she decided upon a vocal career. The result was that at the age of nineteen, in 1877, she made her debut in "I Puritani". The prima donna sang first in the United States in 1882. Now at the age of sixty-eight, she still carries on by teaching others.

HIGH SCHOOL PRESS ASSOCIATION GROWING

Louisville.—(P)—Kentucky is the latest state to have a state high school press association. Michigan, Texas, Ohio, Kansas, Illinois, Indiana, Minnesota, Oklahoma, Oregon and Missouri also have state bodies for the youngsters.

Then there are five sectional ones, the Northern Interscholastic Association, including North and South Dakota; the Rocky Mountain, Colorado and parts of adjoining states; the South-Central, Ohio and parts of states bordering on the east; the New England, Columbia, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, and other Atlantic states.

The Central Interscholastic Press association, headquarters at the University of Wisconsin, has national scope, and membership in publications in excess of 1,500.

GAS SOAP BUBBLES Washington.—The Washington bureau of Standards is studying poisonous gas now by blowing it into soap bubbles. The idea is to make it possible to note the action of the gases and to photograph them. They say that theories regarding the chemical changes are being revolutionized.

PRISONER SO BIG HE GETS A PRIVATE ROOM

Pressburg, Hungary.—(P)—When the police arrested the former Roumanian deputy, Theophil Barescue, for embezzlement, they found that they had their hands full in the truest sense of the term.

The prisoner's proportions and avardupols were so generous that when he was to be weighed, according to the prevailing custom for prisoners held on remand, the scales were promptly smashed.

Not a single cell door proved large enough to admit a person of his dimensions.

As it was not deemed advisable to fasten the prisoner to a tree out-of-doors, or to confine him in the prison garage, the warden graciously offered to have a space in his private apartment partitioned off for the defendant's internment until he should be brought up for trial.

FENCING MADE POPULAR THROUGH MOVIE SHOWS

Hollywood, Calif.—(P)—At least one Hollywood resident welcomes the production of each motion picture of the days when ladies were always fair, and the gallants willing to match sword points for their honor, were many.

It's not that Emile, Hollywood's fencing instructor, is romantically inclined. But every picture featuring the days of duels and romance is followed by a revival of the ancient sport of fencing, says the foil master. Among his pupils are Douglas Fairbanks, Conrad Nagel, Lew Cody, Wallace Beery, Ray D'Arcy, Jack Mulhall and many others of the films.

Douglas Fairbanks, "Three Musketeers" brought fencing in America out of its decline in 1917, declares Emile, while other pictures have kept it alive since that time.

GOPHER TAILS BRING BOUNTY IN CALIFORNIA

El Centro, Calif.—(P)—A new use for gopher tails, in which gophers have no interest, has been found in the Imperial Valley.

The tails are becoming legal tender in many valley towns where a bounty of ten cents a tail is paid by the county horticultural commission.

One man, a storekeeper near High Line, brought in 2,500 tails in one bundle. He said he had taken them in trade over his counter. Since the gopher extermination campaign began in the valley last June, more than 230,000 gophers have been killed and the "skins" presented for cash.

It is estimated that gophers, by ridding the banks of canals and ditches, starting floods that waste much water, and their damage to crops, cause a loss to Imperial Valley farmers of thousands of dollars annually.

The free library is not an exclusively modern institution. There are proofs that Nineveh possessed a public library consisting of 10,000 distance works on tablets of clay. Elephant tusks are gigantic incisors.

NEW YORKERS GET BIG KICK OUT OF ART STORE SALES

Note Distinct Revival of Interest in Religious Art on Broadway

New York.—(P)—Blase New Yorkers have found a new way to amuse themselves. They attend current art sales and then try to make "wise cracks" about them across the night club tables.

A sub-dub who had "done" the Leverhulme sale gleefully told about a portrait of King George III by Sir Joshua Reynolds which went begging for a purchaser.

"Finally," she said, "some good-time Charlie came along and paid $700 for the second-hand thing."

Another night club party went so far as to put on an impromptu tableau of one of George Cruikshank's satirical drawings on prohibition. It was one that had been disposed of at the Leverhulme sale and was entitled, "A Pretty Time to Come Home."

The picture, a sephia wash drawing, showed an angered wife greeting the return of her drunken husband with an arm outstretched toward the clock, the hands of which pointed to 3 A.M.

One of the young men about town got a laugh "or some obscure reason over the sale of a book on complicity from the Leverhulme collection. It was by William Wadd and sold for $100 because it contained colored plates and an autograph of Daniel Lambert who weighed 739 pounds.

Broadway's interest in art, however, is not confined to subjects for "wise cracks." There is a distinct revival of interest in religious art.

The recent purchase of "The Temptation of Christ" by Tiziano Vecellio (Titian) by the Minneapolis museum for $200,000, created considerable comment. The painting at one time belonged to the famous "Palais Royal Collection" of Tilians owned by the Dukes of Orleans.

The Brooklyn Museum of Art and Science reports revived interest in the old masterpiece "Madonna Enthroned" by Bernardino Luini, who regarded as the greatest of the followers of Leonardo da Vinci and one of the foremost painters of the Lombard School in the golden era of Italian art.

The painting was executed about 1510, probably in Milan, and shows the Christ child and His Mother. It was last owned by Sir William Agnew, British connoisseur and collector, who rated it as one of the three greatest madonnas in the world.

Sir Joseph Duveen of the New York office of Duveen Brothers, recently paid $410,000 for a "Portrait of a Young Man" by Rembrandt. It was owned by a Swedish cavalry officer and will be brought to the United States soon. Although there are 900 authentic Rembrandt's and discoveries of his paintings are often made, they nearly always bring large sums. Private collections in Europe are being rapidly drained of them because of the demands of Americans.

The King of Spain owns more yachts than any other royal person. He has one motor and two sailing vessels, and two racing yachts were recently built for him.

WATCH ALABAMA WIN

The University of Alabama's great football team last fall caused Miss Virginia Bowers, known as the prettiest girl in Little Rock, Ark., to enroll at Alabama as a freshman. Now she's one of the prettiest co-eds on the campus—and one of the team's most ardent rooters.

GERMAN PAPER LAUDS WORK OF U. S. WOMAN

Berlin.—(P)—"Only an American woman could do a thing so magnanimous," comments the Vossische Zeitung on the traveling international modern art exhibit sponsored by Mrs. E. H. Harriman of New York. The exhibit is being shown for the first time in Berlin and also for the first time includes the works of German artists, in addition to American, French and British. It is housed in the former palace of the crown prince.

"The noble heartedness," the newspaper continues, "has found a way to weave anew the bonds of peace and friendship among intellectuals of this war wrecked world."

PLANES REDUCE MENACE OF DISEASE IN ALASKA

Fairbanks, Alaska.—(P)—The menace of epidemics, which in the past have claimed many victims in Alaskan villages before medical aid could be obtained, has been eliminated to a large extent by the advent of commercial aviation to the northland.

The ships of the air have not replaced the dog team, for ordinary purposes, but where speed is essential, the planes have a field all to themselves.

Much of the vast interior of Alaska has been opened up to air travel by the establishment of landing fields from Fort Yukon to Nome. Twenty-five fields will have been constructed by this winter with appropriations made by the last territorial legislature.

Fairbanks, from which planes operate to the outlying districts, is but nine days distant from Seattle by rail and water. Most of the interior mining camps and trading posts are inaccessible in summer, except in some cases by circuitous water routes. In the winter they may be reached by dog teams.

BABYLONIANS BOBBED ARCHEOLOGIST AVERS

Berkeley, Cal.—(P)—Tombs definitely assigned to the neolithic period, marking the transition from the stone to the early bronze age, have been discovered in recent archaeological investigations in Palestine, by Prof. William F. F. of the Pacific School of Religion.

Several crania and one skeleton encased in paraffine are enroute here for scientific study.

Dr. Bode also uncovered a well modeled head of an Astarte or Babylonian venus whose coiffure strikingly resembles the modern feminine hair cut.

BIRTHDAY OF OLDEST LIVING TWINS, EVENT

Celina, O.—(P)—The birthday of the oldest living twins in the United States has become something of a fete day in Mercer county, peopled by the festival-loving German and Alsatian immigrants and their descendants.

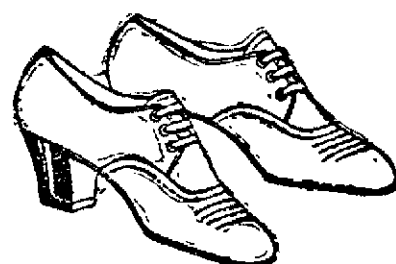

The twins are Mrs. Margaret Konrath, who lives near Coldwater, a few miles from Celina, and Mrs. Catherine Petot, of Loudenville, O. They were 92 on July 20. They staunchly maintain their "right by seniority" to the title of the oldest living twins in the United States.

ANCIENT INDIAN TRIBE LIVES IN ISOLATED WOODS

Uncomplaining Alabama People Were Old Nation When DeSoto Voyaged

Dallas, Texas—(P)—Deep in the piney woods of east Texas lives a people who have come down from the dim antiquity of early America. They are the Alabama Indians, an isolated orphan tribe.

Strange of the ways of modern life and virtually without the protection of the Great White Father at Washington, they are rapidly going the way of the vanishing race. Through a century, poverty and struggle have uttered no complaint.

Their condition has been brought to the attention of Congress by Representative Briggs of Texas, who asked $125,000 to provide them with land, livestock and equipment.

MENTIONED BY DESOTO

In the heart of the woods they live a strange and detached life. When De Soto sought the city of gold in America's wilds, the Alabamas even then were an ancient nation. Two of De Soto's chronicles mention them. In the early part of the eighteenth century, the French found these Indians in what is now Alabama and became their fast friends. The Indians, driven by approaching civilization and a desire for more hunting ground appeared in Texas early in the nineteenth century. They built "Fenced In Village," and there one Sam Houston found them in 1834. Through his influence, the Texas legislature gave them two sections of land which they occupy to this day.

They live in what is called "The Village" in the southwestern corner of Polk-co. Selected for hunting purposes, the land is not adapted to agriculture, and since the game is almost gone, their livelihood is scant. General Houston advised them to remain in Texas, so when the government offered to remove them to a reservation, they declined.

The tribe today numbers about 250. Intermarriage and lack of medical knowledge have weakened them. They modern implements and know little about scientific agriculture. Among themselves they speak only the musical Alabama tongue. It is against their policy for the women to speak English, but the children are learning the language rapidly.

They do not mingle with whites socially and are virtually unnoticed by civil authority. Divorces are unknown. They have only two punishments for crime, banishment and death, but these have not been used in a generation.

The tribe's principal link with civilization is a church and school conducted by missionaries supported by the Southern Presbyterian church.

The Indians adopted American clothes some years back. Their houses are log and frame, built by themselves. The village is really a collection of small houses in the woods, without streets. Birds, animals and trees are the community's chief interests.

JUNKED AUTOS USED TO "TAME" MISSOURI RIVER

Pierre, S. D.—(P)—Junked motor cars are being put to a new use here—that of helping to "tame" the Missouri river.

The "Big Muddy" has a cov habit of tearing away large chunks of South Dakota farmland abutting the stream during the spring rises, and carrying them downstream sometimes in twenty-acre chunks. The piling of logs, brush and debris along the bank has

WHY THE YAQUIS FIGHT

This ancient church and reclining statue are the indirect causes of the rebellion of Mexico's Yaqui Indian tribes. Every fall the Yaquis make a pilgrimage to Magdalena, in Sonora, to the statue of San Francisco, shown above. This year the government refused to let them. So they're on the war path.

POLITICS AND SONGS FAIL TO WIN ELECTION

London—(P)—Mrs. G. P. Murfitt tried to sing her husband into the House of Commons as a Liberal member from North Hammersmith, but the job was too much for her. Mrs. Murfitt, who was formerly Mlle. Yansen, of the Carl Rosa Opera Company, traveled throughout the district by automobile, accompanied by her two children, and sang and spoke wherever she could assemble a crowd.

Ashmead Bartlett, Conservative, resigned from the seat which Mr. Murfitt was attempting to win, but the socialist candidate, J. P. Gardner, defeated the Conservative and Liberal candidates by an overwhelming majority.

BRITISH KING HONORS CHINESE WOMAN TEACHER

Hong Kong—(P)—The first Chinese woman to be made a "member of the British Empire" is Miss Foonyee Catherine Woo, principal of St. Paul's Girls' school of Hong Kong. King George has conferred this honor on Miss Woo for her educational work among girls and women here.

Miss Woo was educated at the Marlea School, Hong Kong, the Chapman High School, England, and Charwell Hall, England, where she received her teacher's diploma. In ten years she has built up her school until there are 700 girls on the roll, and the British government in Hong Kong has granted her a site for a new building.

not failed to stop the channel's depredations.

But it has been discovered that the frames of junked cars, piled one upon another wherever the channel is cutting away the bank, settle so firmly and are so impervious to the channel stream that they stop the cutting away of the bank. Several scores of abandoned automobiles are serving more effectively than expensive piling.

The streets of New Orleans were cleaned recently by 400 tramps picked up within the city limits and detained as "white wings."

STINNES' DAUGHTER WINS AUTOMOBILE RACE

Berlin—(P)—Claire Stinnes, 29-year-old daughter of the late Hugo Stinnes, is turning her energies to sports now that she has been deprived of a business career by the collapse of the far-flung Stinnes fortune.

Driving her own sport racer, Fraulein Stinnes recently won the South-German reliability automobile tour of 500 miles against 30 men and women competitors. She is the foremost woman automobile driver in Germany.

The story is told of how her father entrusted her at an early age with a share of the management of his industries. Sent to South America to reorganize a branch office, she amazed her father by firing a half-dozen executives. She directed the South American branch until new executives arrived from home. Like her three brothers and a younger sister, her middle name is Hugo.

HOUSEKEEPING, HOBBY OF BRITISH GIRLS

London—(P)—Housekeeping is the latest hobby of British girls. Mrs. D. Institute of Housekeeping and Domestic Science, says most of this talk about the modern girl carrying only for pleasure is rot.

"It is true that a conspicuous few women give the impression that modern woman is highly frivolous," she said, "but you may be assured there never was a time when women were more keenly interested in the home."

Here's Where Appleton Gets Its Business

The above drawing gives an idea of the enormous territory from which Appleton draws trade. It extends 20 miles to the south, 40 miles north, 40 miles to the west and the same distance to the east. Road signs directing shoppers to Appleton have been placed all over this territory as part of the publicity for "Motor To Appleton" week and they will remain as permanent fixtures. Nearly 100 cities, villages and hamlets are included in this great area which takes in a goodly portion of the eastern central Wisconsin. Appleton is known all over this district as a desirable place to shop.

PRUSSIAN'S HORSE MEAT CONSUMPTION GREATEST

Berlin—(P)—More horse meat is being eaten in Prussia today than at any other time in history, not excluding the war period when horses were slaughtered because there was little other meat available. The ministry of agriculture reports that the increased consumption is not due to a great relish for horse steaks, but to distressing economic conditions. The consumption of horse flesh increased 20 per cent this year over the corresponding period in 1925.

Newlyweds Protesting French Food Ordinance

Paris—(P)—Newlyweds are up in arms against the recent edict limiting restaurant meals to two dishes, since a restaurant has been the essential part of most French celebrations at weddings. It generally consisted of ten, twelve and even fourteen courses. The governmental limit to two courses has turned wedding banquets into comparatively lenten functions. The feasting by the wedding party generally began immediately after the ceremonies at the city hall and church about one o'clock. It continued uninterrupted until five when the party drove off through the Bois de Boulogne or around the suburbs so as to give the waiters an opportunity to clear away the wreckage from the tables. Then the party returned to the restaurant for an evening edition of the afternoon meal. The landlords of "wedding restaurants"—a specialized branch of the food industry—have appealed to the prefect of police, saying that some of these banquets were ordered months ago, long before the ordinance of two dishes came into effect. They ask that a general exception be made in favor of wedding feasts. "No compromise, no exception," the prefect ruled. It will be a good start in life for the newlyweds to practice economy, he advised. "The great financial penitence," which successive finance ministers from Calliaux to Poincare have told France she must undergo is responsible for the predominance of black in day and evening gowns. It is explained by dressmakers. One black dress, they say, can very well out last three colored ones while rendering the same service as the three. Judging from scenes at the various watering places and mountain resorts during September, the "great penitence," however, was on the surface only. Favored with July and August weather, September was one of the banner months of the past holiday season. The pleasure resorts were completely filled up until its last day and the visitors spending money with great liberality were NOT foreigners but natives, as yet seemingly untouched by the shadow of the coming days of depression.

FRENCH RETURN TO UMBRELLAS

As a result of the Prince of Wales' visit to Paris, umbrellas are becoming more popular again. In the days when French dandies wore elegant raiment the umbrella was extremely popular as part of a man's equipment, but they fell into comparative disuse during the war. The Prince carries an umbrella in fair or stormy weather as a rule and the many photographs showing him with one are responsible for the revival of the vogue.

ANTI-RUM FORCES WAGED LIQUOR WAR AS EARLY AS 1805

"Aquatic Society" Pointed Out Blessing of Pure, Cold Water

Simsbury, Conn.—(P)—Hard liquor drinking in the young United States was frowned upon by cold water advocates as early as 1805 for correspondence just brought to light tells of the formation of a temperance society in that year claim for which is made that it was the first of its kind in this country.

The body called itself the Simsbury Aquatic society, although it had nothing to do with swimming.

HAD "FIGHTING SPIRIT"
The correspondence was brought out by Nathan L. Miller, of Bloomfield, grandson of Benjamin Ely, author of the records and letters, and clerk of the society. The letters showed that the "drys" of 1805 were fully as earnest in their efforts to promote sobriety through non-use of liquors as those of the present generation, and they had the fighting spirit in trying to enforce their rule.

The notes tell of early skirmishes of prohibitionists of that day, who were treated with contempt and scorn by most of their neighbors. Although the letters fail to reveal the total membership of the society one dated Aug. 13, 1805, showed that three kept their vows.

In an early letter Mr. Ely suggested that the cooperation of school teachers be sought in the movement saying: "There would be an end of balls, gambling, tavern-hunting, etc., and the money now wasted in these wicked vanities would be laid out in the purchase of useful books and the time spent in dances would be employed in reading."

"FARED BETTER" AFTER PLEDGE
Another exhibit is one "to Asa Humphrey—about 25th June 1805," entitled, "First Book of the Chronicles of the Aquatics, Chapt. 31st." This letter, written in biblical phraseology told of a neighbor who, having taken the pledge fared much better physically, mentally and financially. It warned against one Jesse who "hath joined himself to R. U. M."

The hope that the society may "continue and increase till all the Copper Shills in America shall be coined into cents" is expressed in another letter. The letters showed that a temperance pledge was renewed monthly. Other requirements for membership were: that a member guilty of profane swearing should be admonished for the first offense and expelled for the second; that each member should read at least thirty-one chapters of the bible monthly, and that each should read something composed by himself, or relate a story he had read in some book, or pay a fine of three cents.

FOREIGN LITERATURE OF CHINESE PLAY

Occidental Soon Wearies of Weird Presentation of Orientals

Boston—(P)—Boston's only Chinese theatre draws steady patronage even though it is unknown to most white residents.

Only those few who chance along a dingy street have heard the clash of cymbals, the twang of squeaky two-stringed violins, the rattle and tinkle of unnamed traps, and over all the fall-singing of the Chinese song of the Chinese tongue which accompany the Chinese production.

STAGE AND ORCHESTRA
At the front of the hall is the square platform of the stage. In the alcove at the rear of the stage is an eight piece orchestra. One of its members wears an elaborate costume. Another smokes a cigarette. All the while weird sounds issue from the instruments, blended in a sort of monotonous rhythm, but jared actively by unexpected twangings, clashes and thumping on a dry wooden box.

An especially loud clamor, and an actor brushes aside the curtain and walks in with the classical stilted gait and slow moving hands of the ancient drama. His robe and head-dress are ornate in the rigidly prescribed manner; his make-up is conspicuous. He begins to sing.

MOSTLY LONG MONOLOGUE
The occasional gets little from what follows. Actors and actresses, all in elaborate costume, succeed each other at short intervals, singly or in groups. A scene shifter slides behind the classical players to shift a chair to meet the new requirements of the play. He erects a throne, takes out a curtained bed, lays out fresh fans and performs a constant succession of tasks. In no manner does he disturb the continued singing and playing of the orchestra.

Some pantomime accompanies the play, but for the most part it is long monologue in singing or speaking voice, with occasional dialogue and rare bits of dramatic action.

Toward midnight the spectator purchases from a vendor libbits of dried pork, lichee nuts, candied fruits, or other confection. The Chinese came and go throughout the evening. They smoke and eat, converse and sleep. They never applaud, but they do laugh appreciatively when a bit of buffoonery enlivens the scene.

Few occidentals see an evening's performance out. It lasts for seven hours and then resumes next evening where it broke off.

MAY OVERDO SUNLIGHT TREATMENT FOR CHILD

London—(P)—Sir Henry Guvavin has issued a warning against the abuse of sunlight treatment, and has advised parents to have the advice of physicians before they submit their children to extended sunlight treatments.

In the opinion of this distinguished doctor there is a tendency to overdo the use of sunlight in the treatment of work. He says that it may even lead to a child's being exposed to the sun for too long a period.

TY'S FRECKLED KID

Herschel Cobb, 10-year-old son of Ty Cobb, already may be the champion of the freckle-faces, but he has higher aspirations than that. He says he's going to be a baseball wizard like his father, or perhaps a second "Red" Grange—he has the proper shade of hair. Herschel has been traveling with the Detroit Tigers this summer.

New Word Fad Sweeping Across Merrie England

London—(P)—Now that the crossword puzzle, which swept across England from America leaving a trail of thumbed dictionaries in its wake, has spent its force, England has turned to Peter-Piperisms for solace.

Peter Piperisms are alliterative sentences containing at least eight, and not more than 12 words, each word of which begins with the same letter.

"Since short skirts still seem stylish,

LITERARY GIANTS IN ENGLAND GRIND AWAY

London—(P)—There seems to be no limit to the industry of England's veteran literary giants.

H. G. Wells is grinding out a three-volume novel. Arnold Bennett is about to launch a new romance. Rudyard Kipling, recovered from his serious illness, has another book of short stories ready for his public.

Bernard Shaw, having celebrated his seventieth birthday, is hard at work again, lecturing and writing. John Galsworthy's new play is a success in London—and he insists it is not necessarily his last dramatic work. Besides his plays, Galsworthy has the fortune of the Forsyth family to look after, and has turned out another novel about them.

PUBLISHES WEEKLIES 104 MILES FROM RAILROAD

Cheyenne, Wyo.—(P)—Two Wyoming weekly newspapers are proud of being a part of the "great open spaces."

The Pindale Roundup boasts in a banner line that it is "published farther from a railroad than any newspaper in the United States." Pindale is 104 miles from a railroad. The Wyoming State Journal of Lander, near the entrance of the Yellowstone National Park, proclaims that it is "where rails end and trails begin."

CHAPLIN, JR?

This is the first picture ever published of Charles Spencer Chaplin, Jr., first son of the famous movie comedian. His father has strenuously opposed allowing the child to be photographed.

silk stockings shouldn't sag" is the contribution of one expert. Another hopes "May many more manly miners migrate," marry methodical "mads, make much money." Other tongue twisters are: "Mr. Manager, money might make Maud marry my miserable Max—Max's mother; "Stephen, shyly stroking Sylvia's shining shingle, seemingly surmises smiling Sylvia's single," and "Lillie likes licking lamp liquorice."

Lady Hoare, wife of Sir Samuel Hoare, secretary of state for Air, will accompany her husband on an air-flight from London to India late this year. The trip will be the first flight over the new Egypt-India route planned by Imperial Airways, Ltd.

GERMAN COUPLES URGED TO REMAIN AWAY FROM ALTAR

Won't Find Place to Live if They Marry, Swains Are Warned

Berlin—(P)—An attempt to solve the housing shortage by curtailing Cupid's activities is being made in Waldenburg by director Schade of the municipal housing commission. A planning, which the commission is sending to all couples whose marriage intentions are posted in the city hall in accordance with the law, reads:

"Don't get married. If you do, you will be forced to live with in-laws. You know what that means. There is NO such thing as a home of your own. The commission cannot promise you a place in which to live alone for eight or ten years."

The commission controls absolutely the allocation of living quarters, determining even the number of rooms each family is entitled to.

German reviewers and critics who long have sung the praises of Walter Whitman are unanimous in applauding the fact the "America at last has seen fit to memorialize its greatest poet with a statue in New York." Some of the writers go as far as to see in the erection of the monument "the beginning of a general appreciation of the works of an American long admired in Germany."

A curious wedding custom is observed in the industrial city of Goebitz, about midway between Berlin and Breslau. On the day before the wedding ceremony bride and groom walk to the cemetery and visit the graves of all departed relatives. The visit is regarded as an invitation to the deceased to be present in spirit at the wedding. It is considered that unless departed relatives are so invited, the marriage will be unhappy.

In an effort to curb the activities of coffee bootleggers federal judges are imposing some of the heaviest sentences on record. As receipts from the high tariff on coffee make up a substantial part of Germany's reparation payments, the government is eager to let none of the revenue slip through its fingers. Eight wealthy importers have been sentenced to 18 months in jail each and fined a total of $1,500,000, for attempting to smuggle in only six hundred and fifty sacks of coffee. Bootlegging of the bean through Hamburg is almost as lucrative as rum running in the United States, because the retail price of coffee averages $1 a pound.

The government of Australia has built more than 1000 homes, selling them to workers on a small weekly payment system.

AMERICAN WOMEN ARE EFFICIENT SAYS FOREIGNER

Woman Head of Bolshevik Delegation Copies American Styles

Oso.—(AP)—American women represent the "highest class of efficiency," both in professional and home life," believes Madame Alexandra Kollantay and this is one of the reasons she would like to be the first Soviet diplomatic representative to the United States.

As Bolshevik minister here, Madame Kollantay has headed the large Russian delegation that has spent four years negotiating a commercial treaty between Soviet Russia and Norway. She recently was recalled.

"I know so much of the United States and the population from my visits over there in all about eleven months," she said. "I have traveled from coast to coast and admire the country intensely. It is a great land with a great future. The democratic way of living appeals very much to me."

Madame Kollantay was seated in her office as she talked. Her hair was bobbed in the latest mode and she wore a simple, dark Parisian gown. She is divorced and has no family with her in Norway. Her only son is married and living in England.

Her father was General Domontovitch, of the old Russian nobility. He served in the general staff of the army under the Czaristic regime, and owned large estates in the Ukraine. Her mother came from Finland and Madame Kollantay spent much of her youth in Finland.

It was there that she developed sympathy for the Finns and the Finnish Socialist party, with which she affiliated in 1918. Later she became a Communist, while a student at the university in Zurich, Switzerland.

Upon her return to Russia she took a prominent part in organizing the female industrial workers, but had to leave Russia in 1905 to escape prosecution by the Czar's police.

POOR FARM SYSTEM IS A CURSE, SAYS SAVANT

Manhattan, Kan.—(AP)—The county poor farm "is a vanishing institution, and we may wish it God-speed," says Prof. Walter H. Burr, professor of economics and sociology at the Kansas State Agricultural college. "What is one farm that should be abandoned," he declares. "We toiled it along with us in our migration from England. Each group of pioneer farmers has built the school house and the church—then established the poor house or county farm. The average county farm is a dumping ground for human junk. It becomes a curse to little children of the poor."

GIRLS ADVERTISE FOR HUSBANDS IN GERMANY

Berlin.—(AP)—Hard pressed for husbands for eight years after the war by the shortage of men, German women are beginning to advertise in the classified ad section of the newspapers.

Scores of newspapers are building up reputations as marriage marts. It is not uncommon to see 40 to 50 "husbands wanted" ads in a single issue. One ad is headed by the word "Sunshine" in 20-point bold-faced type. "Sunshine," the ad continues, is "what a lonely girl of 25 would like to bring into some lonely man's home."

The age of the hunted male rarely enters into consideration, but business men and government employees are the most in demand.

FIND SKULL ABOUT 20,000 YEARS OLD

Gibraltar.—(AP)—Miss D. A. E. Garrod, a student of the Institute of Paleontology Humaine, Paris, who has been excavating here, has made an important discovery of portions of a human skull belonging to a young person.

The find was embedded in hard tufa with typical Mousterian implements. The skull is of the same age and type as the celebrated "Gibraltar skull" discovered at Forbes Quarry in the eighteen forties and now at the College of Surgeons Museum, and according to a conservative estimate it is probably not less than 20,000 years old.

BOBBED HAIR BECOMES POPULAR WITH CHINESE

London.—(AP)—Not only has bobbed hair become popular in China but many girls are Eton cropped. Miss Qui Sing Wong, a young Chinese woman who is studying hairdressing here, told radio listeners.

Miss Wong said that when she returns to China she is open a beauty culture and hairdressing establishment at which most of her customers will be members of the British colony and Chinese girls under 20, for women over 20 at present are too much attached to the gold and jeweled pins with which they arrange their hair ever to have it cut.

She also is taking a permanent hair waving machine to displace the old fashioned pins and curl-papers.

GOVERNMENT INSURANCE IN SWEDEN IS FAILURE

Stockholm.—(AP)—Sweden's state organization for labor insurance has failed. Parliament has decided that the venture is too expensive, and the business is being liquidated.

When compulsory insurance of employees was introduced here twenty-two years ago, a special department, acting as a government insurance company, was formed. Much pressure was exercised upon employers in favor of the national insurance body. Private companies entered in competition and were able to undercut premiums to such an extent that the bulk of the business went to the private companies.

FOUR NATIONS' FLAGS FLOATED OVER STOCKADE

Niles, Mich.—(AP)—Days when the imperial banners of rival nations flew in succession above the lonely stockade of Fort St. Joseph have been commemorated in the name of the Four Flags hotel, just opened here. The fort, which stood on the present site of Niles, dated back to the period of La Salle, who sailed up the St. Lawrence in 1673. More than a century later the Fleur de Lis gave way to the Union Jack of Great Britain, and this in turn to the jagged red crosses of Spain. Finally the Stars and Stripes of the new American republic were hoisted above the crude stockade.

DEBATE RIGHT OF LOBSTER DISH TO AMERICAN NAME

One Authority Claims Concoction Derived Title from Brittany

Paris.—(AP)—"Homard A. L'Americaine" is a way of serving lobster often selected from a Paris restaurant menu for the sake of its name and invariably found satisfactory by the selector. Its right, however, to such a name, as often challenged. Leon Daudet, who is a gourmet of the first rank, besides being a royalist polemicist, always maintained that "Americaine" has nothing to do with the dish and that the word should be written "Americaine," after America, the ancient name for Brittany, the waters of which provide such fine lobsters.

A. Escoffier, famous authority on cooking, has settled any controversy by declaring that "a L'Americaine" is correct. This dish, he says, has been known in Paris since 1860, though it was not until 1870 that it became really popular.

"When I was an apprentice in a restaurant at Nice in 1860," M. Escoffier says, "the provencal dish of lobsters, with stewed tomatoes was common. It was a cook from Marseilles that gave it its new name. He went to the land of dollars and found it was also the land of lobsters and tomatoes. As there were no rock lobsters in America, such as are known along the Mediterranean coast, he prepared the ordinary lobsters to reproduce the provencal dish and gave it the name of 'homard A. L'Americaine' in gratitude for the success it met."

AMERICAN MADE RADIO IS POPULAR IN SWEDEN

Stockholm.—(AP)—American radio sets are the most popular in Sweden, the latest statistics show. In 1924 Swedish fans bought more radio supplies from America than from any other country. Last year their purchases in the United States were exceeded only by those of Spain and Great Britain. Yet the Swedish radio imports from the U. S. A. increased from $33,442 to $52,319.

An American concern will supply 19,000 tons of steel rails for the Pekin Mukden Railway of China.

SNOW WAS BEAUTY AID OF YOUNG PURITAN GIRL

Culver City, Cal.—(AP)—Vanity, all is vanity! Even the demure, modest Puritan maiden, it was recently discovered, had her beauty question and answer box. Unlike flappers of the modern day, with their rouges, lip sticks, mascaras and what not, the Puritan flapper's cosmetics did not cost a penny.

Research for Lillian Gish's new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture, "The Scarlet Letter," shows that the only means allowed young girls of the time for embellishing their complexion was a rather severe form of endeavor.

"For ye complexion," says an old manuscript in the archives, "Ye young girl may wash the face in snow, the tingling cold bringing forth ye blood and imparting a rich glow of health which is ye true beauty."

Palestine expects a building boom.

Gary, Steel Master, Likes His Cows And Chickens On Eightieth Birthday

BY JAMES HASWELL
New York.—The world knows Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the United States Steel Corporation, but this is to introduce Elbert H. Gary—farmer.

Judge Gary was 80 years old October 8. There will be much speculation as to his possible retirement as head of the Steel Corporation. What he says, or what his corporation does, sways the financial world. But Mr. Gary's greatest delight now is in the raising of cows, chickens and ducks.

FARMER'S INTERESTS, THIS
From his office in the downtown center of the world in lower New York, his thoughts are directed to the business that has made possible the building of skyscrapers and railways and the creation of the vast urban civilization of today. At his home, on a Long Island farm, he is concerned with the same problems that interest any farmer—crops and the welfare of his livestock.

Interviews with Judge Gary, head of the Steel Corporation, are rare. Words are carefully chosen and weighed, with a thought to the influence they may have. An interview with Farmer Gary is something else. This is to set down such an interview. It was expressed in homely phrases. There was a note of joy and pride in the farm, as it was discussed. And a kodak album was produced by Farmer Gary to illustrate his talk.

"Buttercup's horns have grown longer since this was taken," he mused, turning the pages. There, those were my two dogs. "One of them died not long ago. It nearly broke my heart."

"Here is the old team," coming upon a photo of himself holding the bridles of two dappled grays. "I think they were better matched than the pair we have now."

Judge Gary's eyes are clear and his hands firm. His shoulders were erect beneath his gray suit. His tie fastened a bit of color.

PIGS LIKED ATTENTION
"There," he said, coming to one of himself viewing some Poland China hogs. "Those pigs got so friendly they'd come up to let me scratch them with my stick. See."

"But I don't keep pigs any more," turning the page. "I am watching the ducks on the pond. Here's the chicken run. These are some of the fields."

There were other pictures, of Judge Gary and his cows, with his favorite horses, walking in the gardens. Over each one he commented as if to himself.

As he talked, his interest grew, and he turned to other parts of the book. Lisbon, Madrid, Valparaiso appeared, as well as photos of industrial magnates, war time leaders, public officials of half a dozen nations.

"There's Charley Schwab," he chuckled, at one point. "We were watching an airplane at West Point. My, how serious he looks!"

"And here I am with Mrs. Gary at a polo game. No, this is better. It looks more like her."

The purchase of his farm, Judge Gary reveals, was brought about by the war. For nearly 20 years prior to that he had spent his summers in Europe, traveling and collecting art treasures.

GARY'S DAILY SCHEDULE
During the conflict vacations were impossible. In 1919 he found himself with leisure time, but unwilling to resume his trips. The purchase of Ivy Hall followed. Other millionaires call their homes estates, but Gary's is "the farm." It comprises 110 acres. From here he commutes to business in New York.

Now a question about that oft-suggested retirement. It is Gary the unresponsive business man who answers.

"I am grateful for what I have received and enjoyed," he says, "and also I am hopeful of the future."

He yields, though, to talk about his personal life.

"I have never answered such questions," he says, "but I realize the interest people take. I guess the time is here when I shall have to."

A typical outline of his day, as he drew it up, follows:

7 to 8 a. m.—Shaving, bathing, dressing.

8 to 8:30 a. m.—Light breakfast.

8:30 to 9:30 a. m.—Reading newspapers.

9:30 to 10:30 a. m.—Going to office, reading mail.

Then up to 4 or 4:30 p. m. or later—dictation, consultation, attending meetings, and so on.

In the evening his amusements, he said, comprised "the theater occasionally. Opera frequently. Dining out and entertaining guests occasionally."

SCHOOLTEACHER MOLDED GARY
His farm is his greatest personal interest today, although he does not neglect his famous collection of art objects at his Fifth Avenue town house.

No small tribute of his mental honesty, is his listing as the man who had most influenced him. Horatio Barnes, teacher of the country school near Wheaton, Ill., which Gary attended as a boy.

Barnes was an exceptional man. Few of his students ever forgot him. At 82 he still wrote to them. Gary among them—joyous letters on the beauty of life as he was finding it.

Send on his list of mentors Gary placed J. Pierpont Morgan, who financed the creation of the steel trust.

Third, Gary named Theodore Roosevelt. Gary, too, disapproved of "male factors of great wealth" and insisted he was making U. S. Steel a "good trust" instead of bad one.

Fourth, Gary named his father, Erasmus Gary, who emigrated from the ancestral home at Somerford, Mass., to found what has grown into the town of Wheaton, Ill.

Elbert H. Gary

Don't Scoff At "Pinks" When You Go To London

London.—(AP)—London is in for a vogue for a pink it modistes and women's dress arbiters have their way. Bond Street has developed the pink wave and is showing in its exclusive store the daintiest of garments, from outdoor costumes to "undies" all in shades of pink. An exclusive establishment has just a huge bow of pink ribbon in one window.

Dresses and hat stores all along Regent-st. and most of Oxford-st. have the pink fever, indicating that receptions and dances this winter will be particularly bright affairs.

SHAKESPEARE 'ARIVES'
After 300 years Shakespeare has at last arrived in London's dockland. Sir Frank Benson, the veteran actor who has toured the United States and Canada with a Shakespearian repertory has introduced the bard of Avon to an audience at the Canningtown branch of the dockland settlement. A star company presented "The Merchant of Venice" and many people who live not far from the site of the old Elizabethan Globe theatre heard of Shakespeare for the first time in their lives. There are many movie houses in Canningtown, but no theatres.

NEW 'STEPNEY STEP'
The "Stepney step" as full of action as any step can be is a new dance from London's east end which is making a strong bid for popularity as an alternative to the Charleston. It is described as something between a Tango and a Charleston, but can be danced equally well to fast one step, tango, or fox trot music. Dancers masters say the Stepney step will be all the rage this winter.

CHAMP NOW BOOKMAKER
Joe Beckett, former champion heavyweight prize fighter of Great Britain, has adopted the profession of race track bookmaker.

With bookie's smug swarming from his neck, a sign telling the world of his new calling and a roaring voice bawling odds on horses, Joe is a familiar figure at the race meetings.

Beckett was to have Phil Scott, the present British champion at The Dell in Southampton early this summer, but he injured himself shadow boxing and another gladiator was substituted.

There seems little doubt that Beckett is through with the squared circle game for good. He has not issued a challenge to give Tunney a fight. The consensus here is that when a fighter so far forgets his professional duties as to fall to issue challenges on the eve of big matches, he must be ranked among the definitely retired.

THEY GET THEIR MAN
The growth in traffic from London's airport at Croydon to the continent has necessitated increased activity by Scotland Yard in order to catch international crooks. Each passenger who boards or leaves a plane at Croydon is now scrutinized by detectives from the famous British police headquarters.

Scotland Yard is very proud of its record in nabbing law-breakers at the numerous seaports of the south of England. A crime is committed in London and the criminal usually dashes for the south coast, which is only 75 miles away. An hour's channel crossing puts him in France and safety—perhaps.

But they really get away. The moment a murder is committed, a rich jewel haul is made or a big robbery reported in any part of Britain, Scotland Yard clamps down its vigil on the coast—and, like the northwest mounted police of Canada, Scotland Yard usually gets its man.

The watch at the Croydon airport, as a new thread in the net to nab international crooks, already has proved its worth. Jewel robbers, drug smugglers and no end of confidence men have been taken into custody as they have stepped in or out of one of the big passenger planes that fly between England and the continent.

CHICAGO RAISED FROM SWAMPLAND

City Now Is More Than 15 Feet Above Level of Lake Michigan

Chicago.—(AP)—Chicago has lifted itself fifteen feet by its own boot straps. In so doing, it has made the building of a subway more difficult, city engineers point out, but it has fixed itself high and dry above the level of Lake Michigan, and many of its downtown buildings stand where a little more than half a century ago were only swamps and sloughs.

STREETS HIGHER THAN LAKE
Old Fort Dearborn, at the mouth of Chicago river and Lake Michigan, was built on a level with the lake and behind it was a marshy morass. When the town began to develop, the street level was made three feet higher by filling in the wastes, with dirt, rock and sand. Then it was raised to seven feet, and now the street level of Michigan-ave. is fifteen feet, and the levels of other loop streets and most of the close-in residential sections vary from fourteen to fifteen feet.

This increasing of its stature was not easy, and many residents can remember when State Street's sidewalks were lifted to fourteen feet, leaving the unpaved mud streets seven feet below.

MAKES SUBWAY DIFFICULT
The raising of the street levels has been accompanied by the making of new land and the Illinois Central tracks, once standing on piers along the lake front above the ground level of the business district, now are some ten feet under the street level, and with a mile of land between them and the waterline.

Chicago's whole underground is of sand, and the surfacing of this with debris and loose dirt has added to the impossibility of ever building a subway by tunnelling through under existing streets while traffic goes on, and the waterline.

Subways must be by open cuts, and for surface streets after the work is done, New York's problem is easier, for the city rests largely on rock and subway builders may tunnel through the rock.

MAN WHO "DISCOVERED" LLOYD GEORGE IS DEAD

Willell, Wales.—(AP)—The man who "discovered" ex-premier David Lloyd George is dead.

He was H. J. Williams, a well known temperance reformer and superintendent of the United Kingdom alliance, Britain's foremost temperance organization. Mr. Williams was the first Welsh Grand Chief Templar forty years ago, and it was then that he induced Lloyd George to make his first public speech, at Machynlleth, Wales.

There's nothing like safety, and if two parachutes are any safer than one, Corporal Archie Atherton of the U. S. Marines is for 'em. This shot Atherton using two parachutes in a special "stunt" jump for the benefit of Assistant Secretary of the Navy Edward P. Warner, at the San Diego (Calif.) naval base. This picture was taken 5,000 feet in the air.

MEN SMOKERS IN PARIS FALL FOR DAINTY FAGS

Paris.—(AP)—Cigarettes of dainty color, for years an affectation of feminine smokers, who shop in Fifth avenue, Bond-st. and the Rue de la Paix, have captured the male of the species in France.

Not long ago, as an experiment, the state tobacco monopoly began wrapping its higher-priced cigarettes in paper of various hues—coral, amethyst and emerald. They have proven so popular that the monopoly intends to adopt other colors, and even to issue one assorted package under the name of "rainbow."

The ordinary cheaper French cigarette will remain what it has always been—neither a thing of beauty nor a joy.

BABIES "SNAPPED" MOST
Photograph laboratories that receive amateur films and plates to develop have learned that babies are more often "snapped" by amateurs than all other subjects. In large cities hundreds of bags similar to mail bags are filled with film rolls and collected every Monday morning from the developing agents.

Last year the stationary power plants throughout the United States are said to have turned out above 130 billion horsepower hours.

SERVICE, SPEED IN PRINTING ARE AVAILABLE HERE

Chris Roemer Estate One of Oldest Printing Establishments in City

High quality merchandise combined with service and speed in filling orders has resulted in a rapid growth of the Chris Roemer Estate, general printing, 119 S. Appleton-st. Opening in a small frame building on what is now the site of the Y. M. C. A. 47 years ago, the Chris Roemer Printing company expanded annually.

About three years ago, because of increasing business and the need of more room for the addition of new machinery to help fill orders, the company moved into its present quarters. The present equipment consists of two modern automatic presses, one cylinder press and one Platen press. With this equipment and a full crew of experienced printers who have been in the service many years, the Chris Roemer Estate can safely advertise as one of the most reliable service giving firms in the city.

Because of its efficient equipment, it is prepared to offer the quickest service when needed. Many times a customer finds himself in need of a quantity of printed cards, forms or letters within a short time. The experienced crew of men, the swift working machines and prompt service are at his call at the Chris Roemer Estate.

This company also is prepared to print at short notice hand bills, calling cards, special advertising cards, circulars or announcements, office stationery, forms or letter heads and any other printing work which its patrons may demand. High quality products and high class service are bywords of one of Appleton's largest and oldest printing businesses, the Chris Roemer Estate.

VALLEY SIGN CO.

NO CESSATION IN DEMAND FOR STEEL

Fall Business Opens on High Level That Has Prevailed for 60 Days

Cleveland, O.—Iron Trade Review says: Production, distribution and consumption of iron and steel all have swung into the fourth quarter on the high level that has obtained over the last 60 days. September developed an increase in the daily rate of pig iron production and October has opened with an additional stack in blast. Some independent mills produced and shipped more finished steel in August and September than ever before in these months and foresee no change in the rate this month. Steel corporation subsidiaries as a whole are operating at a point or two higher. Special developments are lacking but the iron and steel markets jog along on a comfortable basis, with producers maintaining prices and consumers providing a steady inflow of current requirements. The majority of market factors continues decidedly favorable.

At the moment, order books of steel producers do not quite faithfully reflect conditions of consumption. Producers generally have refused to extend third quarter contracts priced lower than the current market, some tonnage users have withheld their contracts and are operating on the carryover from their third quarter contracts, which they specified entirely in this simple law it would hurt no one and the disaster would be worth far more to the state than it has cost. Personally, I believe that thick, hollow tile walls, with earthquake construction is the best prevention against hurricane, fire or any other cause of destruction.

OUTLOOK ON SPECULATION
"Last April I stated before the Orlando Real Estate Board that speculation in Florida was then absolutely dead. For such a statement I was severely criticized and even persecuted. Subsequent events, however, have shown the correctness of this statement. Even before the hurricane, the truth of the situation was being realized. Today, however, there is no doubt in the mind of anyone, but that speculation in Florida land is absolutely dead for the time being unless, possibly, oil should be discovered. Of course, the real estate business will be just as good in Florida this winter as in any other state in the Union; but speculation will be very few sales for speculation."

"On the other hand, I am much more optimistic about Florida today than I was six months ago. Then, owing to the subterranean of the real estate men to realize the facts, it looked as if it would take two or three years to bring about a readjustment. However, the hurricane has brought all to their senses. For the first time for two years I am getting letters from Florida which read sensibly and in a way to create confidence. This is a good sign. If it continues I will go to Florida this winter a great optimist. Here again the disaster may be worth all it cost in bringing people to their senses and getting values down where they belong."

LESSONS TO OTHER SECTIONS
"I do not want to close this interview without emphasizing one fact; namely that the same thing that happened to Miami may happen to your city tomorrow. Remember that great accidents are likely to happen at any time. It is always darkest just before dawn and the time to prepare for trouble is when things look rosy. This specially applies to the stockmarket."

Other States Should Draw Less From Florida Losses

Babson Park, Mass.—Directly after the Florida hurricane, Roger W. Babson was asked his opinion on the situation. At that time he refused to make a general public statement, preferring to wait until the facts were all in. Believing that sufficient facts are now available, he today states as follows:

"The latest statistics available indicate that about 400 were drowned or otherwise killed and 1200 seriously hurt in the hurricane and flood. Of course, this is a terrible event from a humanitarian view, but economically it is not serious. A sudden hot or cold spell in the weather will cause many more deaths than this hurricane caused, while a moderate influenza epidemic will send ten times as many people to the hospitals. It was the suddenness of the disaster and not its seriousness which gave us all such a shock."

"The property damage is probably about $100,000,000. This also is unfortunate, but the loss consists largely in structures which should never have been built in Florida and in promiscuous building which should never have been started. Although this shrinkage in values seems very large at first sight, yet it often takes place in the stock market in the course of a few weeks, even a few days. The blow to the city must not postpone at least for a few years—its ambitions to overtake Los Angeles. Let me say, however, that the ultimate future of Miami is very bright."

FLORIDA BUSINESS OUTLOOK
"History repeats itself. The hurricane will tend to increase wholesale and retail trade in Florida during the coming winter. It will give the state a chance to use up the large surplus of building materials and other things which were rushed into Florida during the boom of last year. The hurricane will make 1926-27 a year of good employment in Florida while otherwise there would have been much unemployment and general distress. There is no doubt but that general business will be better in Florida this winter on account of the hurricane."

"Furthermore, I see no reason why the tourist business in Miami and the East Coast should be injured and it may even be increased on account of the hurricane. Railroads, which had been planning on a quiet season, are now planning on a very busy season, both as to freight and to passengers. Not only should the tourist business be very heavy to Florida on account of the cold winter forecasted, but most lot owners will want to visit the state for the first time since the hurricane."

CONSTRUCTION LESSONS
"From private reports I should judge that the chief cause of the loss in both lives and property was due to the flimsy character of house construction. Most of the buildings, in Florida were constructed by northerners who built in Florida, the same as they would in the north. It is true that they put a little tile on the roof and put stucco, instead of clapboards, on the walls; but no consideration was taken of possible hurricanes, cyclones, and other tropical features. Great losses were in tent colonies. In fact the East Coast had one of the most elaborate tent colonies in the world, costing over $300,000, the tents having electric lights and other modern conveniences. Naturally these were very easily wiped out by a hurricane."

"People living in the tropics have learned after hundreds of years that one story structures with thick and solid walls are needed to withstand the hurricanes and hurricanes that are common in tropical climates. Moreover in the more susceptible regions, these houses are put in blocks so as to have them doubly secure. The best thing that Florida could do for future generations would be to pass a law against the building of any more frame houses. If the Legislature of Florida would pass this simple law it would hurt no one and the disaster would be worth far more to the state than it has cost. Personally, I believe that thick, hollow tile walls, with earthquake construction is the best prevention against hurricane, fire or any other cause of destruction."

ALSATIAN VILLAGE IN TEXAS LITTLE CHANGED

Castroville, Tex.—More than four score years ago a little group of Alsatis founded here a little settlement that was the first between San Antonio and the Rio Grande to survive in the face of Indian attacks and the hardships of pioneer days. The eighty-second anniversary of the laying of the cornerstone St. Louis' Roman Catholic church, an event commemorated from year to year, though the original church has given way to another structure, was observed this month.

This village, declared to be changed but little since the day the settlers came in the early 1840's, was named for Henry Castro, their leader. He and several other men of his group had served under Napoleon, some of them participating in the retreat from Moscow.

The population of Castroville, which is thirty miles west of San Antonio, has mixed descendants of the pioneers from Alsace-Lorraine still here. And tourists go to or from El Paso and the Far West still remark on the quaintness of the village scene—one not unlike a painting of an old master.

Construction of an electric railway line in Bermuda was begun June 21. Automobiles are not permitted, and the only transportation up to the present time has been horse-drawn vehicles.

The highest railway station in the world is at Yllia, Peru. It is 15,610 feet above sea level. The climb is made within 106 miles, traveling in this distance through 56 tunnels, over 67 bridges and 16 switchbacks.

WINDOW WASHER MUST BE ABLE TO DO WORK QUICKLY

Wisconsin Rug and Window Cleaning Co. Equipped for Good Work

"You are not a window washer unless you can wash a window in the dark," says Arthur W. Krahn, manager of the Wisconsin Rug and Window cleaning company, 915 E. John-st. Mr. Krahn received training in his work at Milwaukee where he was employed by one of the largest window and rug cleaning businesses in that city. On Aug. 16, 1923, he came to Appleton and since that time has been here almost inseparable part of the weekly and monthly routine cleaning activities of most of the large retail stores.

In order, to clean a window properly and without leaving streaks or marks it must be done quickly, according to Mr. Krahn, and speed is one of the biggest assets of this Appleton firm. Work is also done in many surrounding cities, including Kaukauna, Menasha and Neenah.

Many of the larger stores sign contracts with this company to have windows washed, once a week or month and sometimes oftener. In this manner the duty of calling the office of the company at the proper time, which is often neglected in the daily routine of work, is done away with and the store owner is always assured that his windows will be kept clean. Also in this manner a cheaper rate is secured.

A part of the equipment of this company is a Hamilton Beach carpet washer for rejuvenating rugs. No matter how often a vacuum sweeper is used, some dust always remains in the nap. Through the process used by the Wisconsin Rug cleaning company, in washing the rugs all dirt is removed and the carpets are made to look like new.

GOOD BOOK SELLS, PUBLISHER GLAD

Good Book Will Eventually Win Its Place, Says San Francisco Man

San Francisco, —(AP)—The greatest thrill that comes to a publisher is to see a good book, after being snubbed early in life, finally with the passing years begin gaining recognition through sheer merit from discerning readers.

So believes Alexander Robertson, who has devoted fifty-six years of his life to the business, and he gives as the basic reason for the thrill the fact that the publisher's literary judgment is verified and a deserving author or reaps reward in fame.

A good book, in his opinion, eventually will win its place although ten, twenty-five or even a hundred years may pass.

Publishing the works of unknown authors is a "personal weakness" in which Robertson has indulged. It is said of him that he never refuses to publish a book with sufficient merit out of fear it might not sell.

Edwin Markham's "Man With the Hoe"; George Sterling's "The Testament of the Sun"; and "A Wine of Wizardry"; works of Joaquin Miller, David Starr Jordan, Ambrose Bierce and many others received first publication at the good offices of Robertson.

The Dean of San Francisco bookmen, as he is known, believes the bookworm is vanishing. To the radio, automobile, daily newspapers, weekly and monthly publications and the motion picture he attributes the loss of interest in bound volumes.

More books than ever are being sold today, but he is of the opinion this is due to increased population.

ALIMONY COLLECTED FOR POOR BY COOK COUNTY

Chicago, —(AP)—To ease the destitution which so often follows divorce among Chicago's poor, Cook-co is collecting alimony as a feature of its charitable work.

A division of the county social service bureau, created in mid-July, already is gathering $800 and $900 a week in small alimony checks for wives and children dependent for support upon the few dollars of the husband's earnings which the decree has awarded the family. Many of these checks are for but $5 a week, and none is for more than $15.

The Chicago plan was devised by Judge Joseph S. B. of the divorce court when he found himself besieged to collect alimony in arrears for women to whom he had granted decrees. Miss Virginia Sanford directs the work as head of the social service bureau. Similar alimony collection has been undertaken in Detroit and Cleveland.

TEXAS REPUBLIC VETS SPEND LAST DAYS QUIETLY

Bandera, Texas—(AP)—Dozens of men and women who helped to subdue the frontier in the days when Texas was a republic are gathered in the hills and valleys surrounding this little town, spending the last years of their lives in peace and quiet. The old settlers have their retreat in the Bandera hill country, where few tourists ever penetrate. The inhabitants till their farms that dot the valleys, and their sheep, goats and cattle find range in the hills.

Ford's Desire For Things American Is Reflected In Home Furnishings

BY ALDENE SUMMER

THE same Henry Ford, whose chief loves in life are a little red brick school, an old McGuffey's reader and a raftered inn bright with the brass of old warming pan and andirons, is the Ford who has furnished his own home.

For the palatial home of Henry Ford, set in the midst of some 4,800 acres just outside Dearborn, Mich., to him is a house to glorify the past—a house redolent with that sentiment which Ford has for everything early American or sturdy old British. Quiet old highboys and early American chairs, copied by the world's finest furniture designers from pictures of those James and penates which graced the old homes of Ford's forebears, stand in places of honor.

PERFECT OF LINE

Mellow and perfect of line, they stand on oriental rugs rich with all the dyes of the east, jostling Sheraton and Tudor and Chinese—looking perfectly at home, knowing that they are beloved of a master who puts America first in the furniture world.

A Jacobean chair lords it in a tapestried hallway, behind it a Tudor console table. And through the doorway, set in a wall niche built especially for it, is an early American secretary.

English and American furniture is found in every room. There is an occasional carved Italian table, an occasional chair suggestive of the old art of Florence, but they are only occasional.

The Ford home is as Anglo-Saxon as Runnymede or Boston Common, as characteristically Ford in an age which flaunt Spanish and Italian decoration as his Wayside Inn at Sudbury, Mass.

A GEORGIAN CASTLE

The house is Georgian in design. Square and solid, with battlemented towers and many windows, it fronts the River Rouge, set in its lovely nest of trees and flowers and emerald lawn.

It might be an old English castle

CROWN PRINCE IS TRAINED TO LIVE AS AMERICAN BOY

Precocious Heir to Rumanian Throne Is Educated in Art of Yankee

Bucharest.—(P)—Crown Prince Michael of Rumania, the four-year-old son of former Prince Carol and Princess Helene, whose father's escapades will one day make him King is being trained for his kingly duties not according to the old European standards, but along democratic American lines.

The blonde-haired baby, who bears a strikingly facial and temperamental resemblance to his grandfather, the late King Constantine of Greece, is being taught English by an American tutor as his first language.

HAS AMERICAN TOYS

All his toys, picture-books and playmates, too, are American. It is even said his mother favors American soothing syrups, talcum powders and other Yankee baby preparations.

The crown prince has shown not only surprising aptitude in learning to talk, but the things he does and says would do credit, it is said to a much older boy. His precocious sayings are widely quoted by Queen Marie and others in Bucharest, who are sure he will equal his great-grand-uncle, the talented and vigorous King Carol I, if he lives to be eighteen.

If the boy should die before coming of age, Rumania will be ruled by a regency composed of Prince Nicholas the second son of the Royal Family, the chief justice of the Rumanian supreme court, and the Rumanian patriarch.

Infantile care is shown by the boy's mother, Princess Helene, Queen Marie and others interested in perpetuating the present dynasty, in the rearing and education of the youngster. During the summer months he and his mother live at the seashore in Constantza, thus avoiding the excessive heat and dust of Bucharest.

MOVIE STARS PREFER CLASSICAL MUSIC

Culver City, Calif.—(P)—A study of music used in the Metro-Goldwynobling. A similar table and set of chairs fill a recess in front of three vast French windows where the Ford breakfasts are eaten in a flood of morning sunshine.

Recreation is not forgotten in the Ford mansion. There is a swimming pool which combines rare beauty in the form of a splendid fountain with a pool, diving board, showers, dressing rooms, scullies, all equipment unsurpassed by any club or public pool in America.

There is a billiard room almost too beautiful to play in. All in Chinese, from Chinese oriental to light fixtures and the heavy legs of the billiard table.

FORD'S OWN

Ford himself joys especially in his field room. The tang of the outdoors—of the world of fishing fly, mink trap and tangled trail—is here. Rough table of hickory, early American rockers and straight chairs and bright Navajo rugs 'neath a raftered ceiling catch the orange of the fire from a rough fireplace flanked by warming pans and andirons of a storied past.

There is a sun-drenched solarium, gay with cretonned wicker, and a little balcony porch full of old hickory rustic chairs and tables.

Many American homes are furnished more lavishly, more expensively. But I doubt if any is more expressive of the owner's personality.

Mayer studios here to inspire proper emotional reactions in cinema stars shows classical selections are predominant.

Ramon Novarro has a preference for Beethoven's "Sonata Pathetique," but

Norma Shearer likes Debussy's "Clair de Lune" and Ravel's "Valse."

A Brahms "Hungarian Dance" is the favorite of John Gilbert, though Chopin's "Revolutionary Etude" runs it a close second.

Lillian Gish declares "Lieberstraum" is foremost in her affections.

Mae Busch concludes that Wagner's "Love Death" from "Tristan and Isolde" has more genuine appeal for her.

Eleanor Boardman also prefers Wagnerian opera, but the "Sonata Appassionata" of Beethoven strikes her best.

Claire Windsor never misses an opportunity to hear Rachmanninoff's

"Prelude in C Sharp Minor" while Aileen Pringle's favorite is Rubenstein's "Kamenlo-Ostrow".
